POWER TO SLASH SALARIES VOTED BY HOUSE GROUP

Veteran Fund Cut By Roosevelt Approved.

BILL PASSAGE LOOMS TODAY

Would Give President Right to Economy of Half Billion.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Revolutionary power for President Roosevelt to slash more than $500,000,000 from Government pay and veterans' benefits yesterday received rapid approval of a special House Economy Committee.

Leaders forecast House passage of the far-reaching authorization today, immediately following a House Democratic caucus set for 10 o'clock this morning, when an attempt will be made to bind the Democratic membership.

The Senate yesterday moved more cautiously. After nearly three hours in joint session with the House economy group, the Senate Finance Committee adjourned hearings until 10 o'clock this morning. Chairman Pat Harrison hoped to get favorable committee action early today.

Workers Back President.

Meanwhile, one of the strong Federal employe organizations indicated it would not oppose general features of the unprecedented grant of Presidential authority embodied in bills introduced in House and Senate after a White House message was sent to the Capitol, urging "courageous, frank and prompt action."

In a statement issued last night, President Luther C. Steward, of the National Federation of Federal Employes, said Federal workers are "ready and willing to cooperate to the fullest possible extent to bring about better conditions of life and living."

The bill introduced in the Senate yesterday by Democratic Leader Robinson, and simultaneously in the House by Economy Chairman John McDuffie, makes the following provisions affecting Federal personnel:

Cost of Living Yardstick.

Authorizes the President to cut wages by the difference in cost of living during the six months ended June 30, 1928, as compared with the six months ended last December. The cut in no case could exceed 15 per cent.

Empowers the President to adjust wages similarly in each six-month period.

Cuts congressional salaries 15 per cent.

The pay cut, enacted only for the next fiscal year and the remainder

Economy Bill Talk Portends Bitter Contest

(Associated Press.)

Varied comment from members of the Senate and House committees that began consideration yesterday of President Roosevelt's drastic economy bill gave some indication of the row that is brewing over it.

While most of the committee members refused to comment for publication, here are a few of the reactions:

Senator Dickinson (Republican), Iowa: "It goes too far. I don't think the necessity warrants such a grant of power. I'm 100 per cent against it."

Senator Byrnes (Democrat), South Carolina: "Power should be given the

BANKS TO TRANSFER SUMS TO INDORSERS

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

With billions of dollars in new Federal Reserve Bank notes already distributed in the 50 principal financial centers of the country the Treasury set in motion last night its broad program looking to a general resumption of normal banking operations.

It is anticipated that, save for emergency regulations governing gold payments, unrestricted banking functions will be resumed generally throughout the country by midweek, with some banks resuming today.

Meanwhile, the Treasury last night authorized the payment, at the discretion of the drawee banks, of all checks issued prior to last Monday. The regulation requires that the amounts of checks so honored shall be charged to the account of the drawers, but credited to the account of the check owner in the same bank.

13 Sealers Sought Adrift on Ice Floe

Newfoundlanders Carried Out to Sea as Wind Alters; Rescuers Out.

St. John's, N. F., March 10 (A.P.).—Thirteen men were believed adrift on ice floes tonight off the coast of Newfoundland, carried seaward by a strong wind.

Watchers on shore caught their last glimpse of the men several hours after they had left Coachmans Cove, a small settlement in Baie Verte, in two small boats. A short time after they left the wind veered strongly to the northward, carrying the pack ice with it. Apparently they had been left without access to their boats as they spread over the ice in search of seals.

Neighbors from the mainland were setting out to the rescue although it was feared the wind would carry the thirteen men far from shore before they could be reached.

Groans and Cries Add To Long Beach Horror

Los Angeles, March 10 (U.P.).—One of the first eye-witness stories of the Long Beach destruction tonight came from Dr. William H. H. Watts, who recently came here from Kobe, Japan.

"It was the most terrible thing I've ever witnessed," Dr. Watts said. "People were dropping all over the streets as they were struck by bricks and stones from falling buildings. There were the groans of the injured, the screams of women, the shrieks of ambulance sirens and finally flames. I, myself, was struck with a small brick but I wasn't hurt badly."

Franco-British Deadlock Threatens American Participation.

DEPARTURE OF DAVIS FOR GENEVA DELAYED

Hitler's Rise and Its Effect on Versailles Treaty Chief Concern.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

President Roosevelt is prepared to withdraw completely all American participation in the general disarmament conference if the present impasse between France and Great Britain continues, it became known definitely here last night.

A conference at the White House last night between the President, Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Norman H. Davis, American delegate to the disarmament meeting, revealed the President's intention. The general result of the conversations between the chiefs of American foreign policy was the determination to recall Hugh Gibson and Hugh Wilson from the general disarmament discussions and to delay the departure of Mr. Davis for Geneva until the first meeting of the economic conference.

Messages Sent Delegation.

At the conclusion of the White House meeting Secretary Hull and Mr. Davis held an impromptu conference at the State Department with Jay Pierrepont Moffat. There they dispatched cablegrams to the American delegation at Geneva for the factual report of what had been done in the way of preparation for the forthcoming meeting of French and British delegates at the conference yesterday.

The general trend of the preparations that have been going on for the last few months for the reopening of the conference have been very pessimistic. The sudden accession to power of Hitler in Germany has brought another impediment to the conference, and the most recent meetings in Paris and Geneva have tended to accentuate the gulf of dissension between the leading nations there.

Departure Postponed.

Mr. Davis has been going over the disarmament situation with the new Secretary of State for the last few days. Not until yesterday, however, had he an opportunity of bringing the problem to the attention of the President himself. The meeting took place shortly after yesterday's press conference. The President listened while Mr. Davis explained the present status of the disarmament problem

2 Forces Ordered To Stay in Pacific

Fourth Quarter Schedule of Operations Approved by Swanson.

Ordering the battle force and the scouting force of the United States fleet to remain in Pacific waters in the San Pedro-San Diego area, Secretary of the Navy Swanson yesterday approved a schedule of operations for the fourth quarter of the fiscal year, April 1 to June 30.

The destroyers U. S. S. Fairfax and the U. S. S. Claxton will return to the Fourth Naval District, Philadelphia, Pa., and the Eighth Naval District, New Orleans, La., respectively, for duty in connection with the training of naval reserves.

The U. S. S. Rochester, now with the Asiatic Fleet, has been ordered placed out of commission for disposal at Cavite, P. I., prior to July 1. She has had 40 years service.

DOWNTOWN LOS ANGELES DAMAGED BY QUAKE

Taken at an altitude of 16,000 feet, the picture above shows the business district of Los Angeles which was damaged by the earthquake. Many were killed in this area by falling masonry, and fires broke out. The damage, however, was not so great in Los Angeles as in Long Beach.

DYKAAR, SCULPTOR, KILLED UNDER TRAIN

New York, March 10 (A.P.).—Moses W. Dykaar, well-known sculptor, was killed today under a subway train at the 138th Street East Side Station in the Bronx. He was 48 years old.

Many prominent persons had sat for Dykaar. His bust of Calvin Coolidge was purchased for the National Capitol by Congress in 1927.

His wife, Mrs. Bella Dykaar, who identified the body, and two children, Raymond, 9, and David, 4, survive.

Mrs. Dykaar said her husband was treated for mental disease last Wednesday, but that she could not accept a theory of suicide. She expressed the opinion he fainted and fell beneath the train. Police, however, quoted witnesses as saying they saw Dykaar jump.

Among the persons who have sat for Dykaar have been the late President Harding, former Vice President Curtis and Gen. Pershing.

Dykaar was born in Russia and came to this country 17 years ago after studying in France. His work attracted such favorable notice that a studio was placed at his disposal in the National Museum at Washington.

Troops Called Out As Looting Begins

Civil Officials Unable to Cope With Situation in San Pedro.

Sacramento, Calif., March 10 (U.P.).—Looting broke out in San Pedro, badly damaged earthquake center, tonight and troops of the National Guard were ordered there by Gov. James Rolph, jr., when he was informed that civil authorities were unable to cope with the situation.

Gov. Rolph was informed of the alleged looting in a radio communication from Maj. Harris of the California National Guard at Long Beach. Maj. Harris said he had the 160th Battery of Guardsmen assembled and the governor ordered the troops dispatched immediately.

ROOSEVELT OFFERS U. S. HELP IN 'QUAKE

Awakened to Receive News, He Wires Gov. Rolph; Fleet's Aid Given.

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt last night extended the facilities of the Government to Gov. Rolph of California to relieve distress in the wake of the earthquake.

After being up every night this week holding conferences on the banking emergencies, the Chief Executive had retired before news of the quake reached here. His aids awakened him as reports of destruction mounted.

Stephen T. Early, the President's secretary, gave the Associated Press the following message from Mr. Roosevelt to Gov. Rolph and asked that a reply be transmitted to him:

"News dispatches report serious catastrophes in Los Angeles area. Wires are down and can not get any confirmation. If there is anything needed that the Government can do, wire me at once. Trust preliminary reports are exaggerated. Will be glad to be kept in touch with situation."

QUAKE QUERIES JAM POST'S PHONE LINES

With first flashes of the California earthquake, telephone lines to The Post were jammed with calls from persons seeking information regarding the safety of friends and relatives. Many requests were made for lists of the dead and injured.

Many former Washingtonians are residents of Long Beach and Los Angeles. The former is a popular colony for families of naval officers stationed with the Pacific fleet. Many of these families made their homes in Washington before being transferred to the West Coast.

At an early hour this morning anxious inquiries were pouring in and frantic efforts were being made to obtain names. Among residents of Washington known to be in the quake area are Mrs. Edward Graves and Miss M. B. Gore, sister of Capt. Albert J. Gore, of 4422 Garfield street northwest. Both live at Wardman Park Hotel.

Mrs. John A. Holmes, of Rockville, Md., said her daughter, Mrs. Alice Holmes Harvard, wife of Lieut. C. A. Harvard, U. S. N., made her home in Long Beach.

Mrs. H. P. Robinson and her son, Nelson Robinson, both former Washingtonians, reside in Los Angeles. Mrs. Robinson is the mother of Mrs. W. R. Purnell, wife of Commander W. R. Purnell, U. S. N., of 2222 Q street northwest.

Among those who asked for a list of those killed or hurt was Noel H. Field, of 419 Fourth street northwest. He said his mother, Mrs. H. H. Field, was motoring through southern California. Mr. Field is an employe of the State Department.

Pair Stage Holdup When Denied Food

Grocery Store Robbed of $35 by Two Hungry Young Gunmen.

Two young robbers, denied the food which they begged, late yesterday held up a Sanitary Grocery store at 401 K street northwest and took $35 from the cash register.

Charles A. Godwin, manager of the store, said the men asked for something to eat, saying they were hungry. When he told them he could not give them anything, he said both of them drew revolvers and forced him and a clerk into a rear room.

After rifling the register they strolled out of the store and hailed a taxicab.

Idle Bookkeeper Kills Self as Quake Starts

Los Angeles, March 10 (U.P.).—Ivor Williams, 52, unemployed bookkeeper, committed suicide by shooting himself just as the first of a series of earthquakes shook southern California tonight.

Members of his family first believed that the report of his revolver was the sound of some damage being done by the temblor.

LONG BEACH HUB; BUILDINGS FALL; DISORDER REIGNS

Violent Shocks Continue Five Hours After First; Confusion Rules as Citizens Crowd Into Streets.

GOV. ROLPH NOW CONSIDERING CALLING STATE OF EMERGENCY

Army and Navy Men Called Out to Assist Police and Firemen; School Houses Burned and Oil Blaze Is Reported Raging.

Los Angeles, March 10 (A.P.).—More than 100 communities of southern California were twisted and torn tonight by a series of violent earthquakes with a death toll from 14 of the cities reported as 120 and the injured being more than 4,150.

The brunt of the terrific convulsion that extended from San Diego to Santa Barbara, some 200 miles, and from the coast in-shore for some 30 miles, was borne by Long Beach.

A mighty upheaval in the ocean, southwest of Long Beach, was believed to have been the center of the disturbance.

The spearhead of death and destruction reached from Santa Ana, in Orange County, to Hermosa Beach, in Los Angeles County, with its point in the downtown district of Los Angeles.

Toll by Towns and Cities.

Within this triangle the following death toll was reported:

Long Beach, 65 dead, 1,000 injured; Los Angeles, 12 dead, 3,000 injured; Watts, 4 dead; Compton, 13 dead, 150 injured; Santa Ana, 3 dead; Huntington Park, 12 dead; San Pedro, 2 dead; Wilmington, 1 dead; Bellflower, 3 dead; Artesia, 4 dead; Hermosa Beach, 1 dead; Garden Grove, 1 dead; Walnut Park, 1 dead; Norwalk, 1 dead.

Admiral R. H. Leigh, commanding the United States fleet, sent 625 bluejackets and marines into Long Beach and 100 into Compton tonight, and said he expected to have 1,200 or more landed and working in Long Beach by morning. He has 20,000 men available for rescue relief work.

Rush to Center of Street.

The first shock came at 5:55 o'clock and thousands of persons were on the streets of Los Angeles. Other thousands had reached their homes after days in stores and offices. As business buildings swayed and bricks and cement fell to the sidewalks, people from each side of the street rushed to the center and stood there.

It was as though nature with one uplifted hand had stopped all the traffic.

At Sacramento, Gov. James Rolph, jr., considered declaring a State of emergency in connection with the earthquake. Should he do this he would call the State Emergency Relief Council into action.

As these lines are being written the building of the Los Angeles office of the Associated Press is swaying, with accentuated jolts from time to time and, at intervals of ten to twenty minutes, extremely violent shocks that cause all hands to reach to some support as in a swaying small craft at sea.

65 REPORTED KILLED IN LONG BEACH ALONE

4,000 Marines and Sailors on Guard; Only Serious Fire in High School.

Long Beach, March 10 (A.P.).—The City of Long Beach, with at least 65 reported dead, 1,000 injured and scores of buildings damaged, is believed to have received the brunt of the earth shocks that swept Southern California tonight.

Although several small fires occured immediately after the first shock, the only serious conflagration reported was in the Polytechnic High School, where the science hall was destroyed. Damage is estimated variously at from $500,000 to $1,000,000.

Four thousand marines and sailors from the United States fleet were placed on guard in the city.

All of the large buildings were reported standing. The major damage was in falling cornices, chimneys and plate glass windows.

In many places the streets were strewn with debris, but all thoroughfares were kept open for official cars and officers and military authorities were tased to turn away a procession of curious motorists from other cities rushing to the scene of the disaster.

On the other hand, the north and south highways leading to Long Beach were crowded with refugees fleeing from the city, belongings piled into automobiles, while the buildings were still swaying. In the open country between Los Angeles and this city, virtually all vacant lots were crowded.

Catalina Island Denies Reports of Tidal Wave

Avalon, Catalina Island, March 10 (A.P.).—Reports that a tidal wave had struck this vacation isle were denied tonight by the police department.

Hospitals Are Crowded.

Hospitals are crowded to overflowing at emergency centers of the city and urgent calls have been sent out for all emergency hospitals.

Surgeons found extreme difficulty in handling cases of the injured as the great shocks shook the operating tables upon which were stretched the patients.

The wide area affected by the destructive convulsions of the earth's strata made it extremely difficult to make a survey of the toll in lives and property.

Recurrent shocks added new damage as attempts were made to check.

Fires Add to Terror.

Los Angeles said that the exigency of caring for the injured and the widely separated reports of the deaths confined their estimates to generalities. The coroner's office reported custody of two bodies.

Fires, in widely separated areas, added to the night of terror.

Army and Navy men were called out to help police and firemen. California National Guardsmen were ordered to be ready to assist where needed.

ROOSEVELT FRAMES VAST JOBLESS PLAN

Would Establish Workers' Camps to Provide for 500,000 Persons.

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt was preparing last night to submit to Congress as the third point in his emergency program a far-flung plan for recruiting a huge army of 500,000 unemployed to be chartered in work camps throughout the country.

The plan, to be submitted by special message—his third in rapid succession—contemplates a $500,000,000 bond issue to be expended in wages for the men and materials upon which they will work.

A corps of Army engineers last night was engaged in drawing up plans for carrying the ponderous project into effect should Congress provide the authorization. The work upon which the unemployed would be engaged would fall under the supervision of the engineers.

Economy May Delay Plan.

Mr. Roosevelt, of course, is trying to make sure that Congress is ready to take drastic steps for balancing the budget before he calls upon the Nation to give him a $500,000,000 bond issue for unemployment relief.

While he had planned to send his unemployment relief measure to Congress today as the third step in his emergency program, there were signs last night that this might be delayed some time.

Apparently he wants to know the intent of Congress on the steps he regards as necessary to assure the national credit.

The President plans his unemployed army to be strictly civil in nature, although organized along the lines of an army corps. There would be no military training in the camps, but strict discipline would be maintained and men might be discharged for infractions.

Location of Camps.

Speaker Rainey, discussing the Roosevelt idea yesterday, told newspapermen the camps would be located at points strategic to some major reforestation, reclamation, flood control or possibly public construction project being conducted under Government supervision.

A major plan for the development of the Tennessee valley already has been outlined by Mr. Roosevelt. It would involve reforestation, flood control, the abandonment of marginal farm lands, and the development of power and other possibilities of the Muscle Shoals project.

The President hopes to be able to draw out of the cities some of the surplus of unemployed, relieving congestion there through spreading the idle into more open territory. He feels that some weight could be taken in this manner off of the city dole lines.

Similar Plan Beaten.

A plan similar in some respects to that of Mr. Roosevelt was rejected during the closing hours of the last session of Congress. Introduced by Senator Couzens (Republican), of Michigan, it called for congregating unemployed and homeless youths between the ages of 15 and 21 in citizens' military training camps operated on a year-round basis.

The Senate approved a $22,000,000 item for such work as part of the big War Department appropriations bill. The House rejected the provision several times, however, and during a final compromise in conference the item was eliminated.

Under the President's plan, the men enlisted would be fed, housed and paid a wage not to exceed $1 a day for the work done by them. If any had dependents, it would be required that part of the wage would be transmitted to them.

An additional proviso would be made upon enlistment, that any man receiving a better job than that in the camp could be discharged immediately to take advantage of it.

Mud Chokes Gas Fire After $50,000 Damage

Corpus Christi, Tex., March 10 (A. P.).—Mud pumped into the hole extinguished a gas fire today which had caused $50,0000 damage and destroyed 13 homes at Refugio.

For four days flames had shot high from an artesian well, which caught fire when gas escaped from a broken casing of the nearby Power No. 3 gas well and seeped through the sand, finally blowing water out of the former shaft.

Banking Holiday Stops Alimony Payments Too

San Francisco, March 10 (A.P.).—Add alimony payments to the list of holidays. When 70 women went to Judge Thomas F. Graham's court today to have something done about them, he said:

"Until the State and national bank holidays are over there will be no alimony orders issued in this court in favor of childless women."

Nogales and Douglas Garrisons Are Sought

Phoenix, Ariz., March 10 (A.P.).—The State House of Representatives adopted today the Harrison Senate memorial asking that United States troops be returned to Nogales and Douglas Army camps recently abandoned. The vote was 53 to 1.

The measure goes to Gov. Moeur and Secretary of State James H. Kerby for transmisson to Secretary of War George H. Dern.

Failure to Reform Kills Liquor Pilot

Flier Falls to Death With Rum Cargo Soon After License Is Restored.

Los Angeles, March 10 (A.P.).—Within 48 hours after his pilot's license had been restored, Robert G. Crooks, 32, former movie stunt flier, crashed to his death in a liquor-laden airplane last night near Del Mar. He was identified today by his widow.

Charles A. Rowe, head of the Commerce Department Aeronautical Division office here, said Crooks was grounded for a year last May in connection with airplane liquor running.

On Wednesday, Rowe said, Crooks' pilot license was restored on a promise he would strictly observe the department's regulation and would not in any way violate the law.

Roosevelt Leaves His Bed To Plan for Quake Relief

(Associated Press.)

Uppermost in President Roosevelt's mind last night was a good night's sleep.

Fate, however, perversely took him from the welcome bed to which he had retired and plunged him into new duties—relief for victims of the California earthquake and fire.

The banking holiday made sleep a luxury for the President. The launching of his drive to balance the budget and put men to work placed an even higher premium on it.

Yesterday gave no let-up until nightfall. The President began the day at 7:30 a. m., writing his second special message to Congress in as many days, and ended late in the afternoon with a conference on disarmament.

In between, he held his rule over the banking situation, met with his Cabinet, discussed his unemployment relief proposal with various leaders, attacked a mountain of mail and answered innumerable telephone calls.

A high spot of the day was when Mr. Roosevelt talked with the press—125 or more newspapermen and women crowding his office, firing questions a thim from all sides. Smiling, quick, eager, he answered.

Mr. Roosevelt finished his message in the White House proper before entering his executive offices just before 11 a. m. Then came Secretary Woodin to confer on banking; William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; Secretary Swanson, Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator, and other visitors. The President had his lunch, as usual, at his desk.

The Cabinet meeting was held in the afternoon and lasted two hours. The press was seen next and then Mr. Roosevelt brought his working day to a close with a conference with Secretary Hull and Norman H. Davis, American delegate to Geneva, on the disarmament question.

BANKS WILL TRANSFER SUMS ON CHECKS PRIOR TO MONDAY

President Roosevelt was highly gratified last night by the progress made yesterday toward immediate and complete clarification of the banking situation on a Nation-wide basis.

Both State and National banks are to be authorized to resume under the necessary Treasury authorizations as quickly as the licenses can be distributed. Only the merchanics of administering this tremendous task stand in the way of general banking resumption, it was explained officially.

Banks, which are opened in any community thus will bear Treasury certification as to their soundness.

It does not follow, however, that banks which open first are more sound than those which open later. The matter of days between openings in the same community may depend entirely upon the routine of obtaining licenses. Resumption applications are being handled by the Treasury and the twelve regional Reserve Banks as rapidly as received.

President Roosevelt has made it plain that all of the Federal Reserve member banks are moving toward reopening early next week, and State banking authorities have been advised formally there will be no Federal obstructions of any kind thrown in the path of State bank resumption, under the same standards of solvency and soundness as are applied to the member banks of the Reserve System.

As a matter of administrative routine, the word of the respective State banking authorities will be taken by the Treasury as the only necessary certification of soundness in the case of State banks.

Telegrams Sent Out.

Telegrams went forward from the Treasury last night by tens and by hundreds to all parts of the country advising of the perfecting here of the resumption machinery.

At the same time the twelve Federal Reserve Banks were directed by Secretary of the Treasury William H. Woodin, to begin today, the distribution of the new bank notes authorized in Thursday's emergency legislation. This legislation authorizes member banks to obtain money from their district reserve bank up to 100 per cent of their Government obligations and 90 per cent of their other sound assets.

So swiftly did the resumption machinery move yesterday in Washington that the governing board of the New York Stock Exchange discussed informally last night the prospect of beginning trade again Monday. No definite decision of the termination of the exchange holiday will be made, however, until it is known when banks in the principal financial centers will reopen on the unrestricted basis.

Slight Relaxation Hinted.

Although the Federal authority will keep its hands firmly on American gold supplies for the time being, and will press vigorously through the Department of Justice for the elimination of currency hoarding inspired by malicious intent, a hint was given in President Roosevelt's executive order yesterday that some slight relaxation on essential foreign gold payments is only a matter of days.

The President's executive order formally transferred to the Secretary of the Treasury the emergency banking control powers sanctioned by Congress Thursday. The section dealing with gold stipulates that the Treasury may, by regulation or license, permit certain gold transactions. Another section on foreign exchange operations specifically permits regulations covering such transactions "as may be undertaken for legitimate and normal business requirements, for reasonable traveling and other personal requirements, and for the fulfillment of contracts entered into prior to March 6, 1933."

Authorization Is Given.

After hinting these relaxations on foreign payments, the executive order concluded with this paragraph:

Every Federal Reserve Bank is authorized and instructed to keep itself currently informed as to transactions in foreign exchange entered into or consummated within its district and shall report to the Secretary of the Treasury all transactions in foreign exchange which are prohibited.

As the Treasury is looking forward to the gradual reopening of banks on a basis of unlimited withdrawals, it was explained informally yesterday that evidence of malicious hoarding of either gold or currency would be turned over to the Department of Justice as quickly as reported from the regional Reserve Banks.

Attorney General Cummings declined to indicate after yesterday's Cabinet meeting how such cases would be handled, but indicated the Department is prepared to proceed vigorously against any and all violations of the President's emergency proclamations.

Roosevelt Gives Plan.

While the complicated routine of licensing general banking resumption speeded forward at the Treasury yesterday, President Roosevelt laid before Congress the second phase of his legislative program for financial stabilization.

Describing the mounting governmental deficits of the last three years as a central contributing factor "to the recent collapse of our banking structure," Mr. Roosevelt asked for broad powers to slash the Federal budget, particularly on veteran payments and administrative economies in the departments. He requested immediate action in order that the savings he contemplates may become effective even before the end of the 1933 fiscal year next June 30.

"I give you assurance," he told the Congress in his second special message in as many days, "that if this is done there is reasonable prospect that within a year the income of the Government will be sufficient to cover the expenditures of the Government."

Mr. Roosevelt's budget policy, as outlined in the message, contemplates no increases whatever in Federal taxes for the fiscal year 1934.

His demands for sweeping budget slashes compared in vigor with the economy pleas sent to Congress by President Hoover in December, 1931 and 1932.

"Upon the unimpaired credit of the United States rests the safety of deposits, the security of insurance policies, the activity of industrial enterprises, the value of our agricultural products and the availability of employment," Mr. Roosevelt said. "The credit of the United States Government definitely affects these fundamental human values. It therefore becomes our first concern to make secure the foundation. National recovery depends upon it."

Further along the message warned:

"Too often in recent history liberal governments have been wrecked on rocks of loose fiscal policy. We must avoid this danger."

Authority Is Extended.

Step by step with the resumption of commercial banking, the Treasury has moved this week to maintain Government credit transactions through the Federal Reserve Banks. On Tuesday permissive regulation No. 7 authorized the resumption of Federal Reserve Banks in their capacity as fiscal agents of the Government. Order No. 16 yesterday further extended authority to all banks to carry through "for their own account or the account of their customers" any transactions necessary to complete payment on subscriptions for Treasury bills placed as of March 6.

The text of Treasury Regulation 16 follows:

All banking institutions are hereby authorized to take such steps and carry through such transactions as may be necessary to complete for their own account, or the account of their customers, payment on any subscriptions for Treasury bills of the United States for which payment was due on March 6, 1933.

Text of Treasury Order.

The authority to clear preholiday checks was extended last night in Treasury Order No. 17. It reads:

"Any banking institution may, when the owners consent thereto, pay checks issued prior to March 6, 1933, and received in due course of business by the drawee banking institution, by charging the amount thereof to the accounts of the drawers and crediting such amounts to the accounts of such owners on the books of the drawee banking institutions.

A further aid to large sections of the population next week was in prospect last night following disclosure that the Bureau of Internal Revenue now has under consideration special arrangements for handling March 15 income tax payments in cases of individuals and corporations pressed for funds by the banking holiday. No official information was available as to the plan to be announced. March 15 is the last legal filing day for income tax returns for the calendar year 1932, and under the law payments aggregating at least one-fourth of the tax must accompany the returns.

Ely Will Retire Foote Minus Pay

Chief of Massachusetts Police to Lose Job After Probe.

Boston, March 10 (A.P.).—Gov. Joseph B. Ely today said Alfred F. Foote, commissioner of public safety, would be retired next Wednesday without a pension. He is commander of the State police, which has been under investigation.

The troubles of the State police grew out of a complaint made to the governor by a group of Fall River business men. They claimed that the police were mishandling their funds, that there were forgeries on some expense accounts and that the police were giving protection to some illegal Cape Cod resorts.

Dr. J. P. Greene Dies in Missouri.

Liberty, Mo., March 10 (A.P.).—Dr. John Priest Greene, president of William Jewell College here from 1902 to 1923, died today at Santa Ana, Calif. Funeral services will be conducted there Monday.

CAPITAL BANKS DUE TO RESUME MONDAY

Woodin Expected to Reveal Names of Those Given Permits Tomorrow.

The resumption of normal business activities by virtually all banks in Washington is expected to begin at 9 o'clock Monday morning, it was disclosed early today in informed financial circles.

Secretary of the Treasury Woodin is expected to announce before midnight tomorrow the names of the banks which will be licensed for unrestricted operations, subject to the exception that no gold or gold certificates shall be disbursed.

Every national bank in the Capital has made application to the Federal Reserve Bank at Richmond for licenses to begin business again. In addition, the five trust companies and the majority of the savings banks—of which there are 17—have made similar application to the Comptroller of the Currency.

Gold Hoarders Sought.

Every local bank which is affiliated with the Federal Reserve System has received a letter from Gov. George J. Seay, head of the Federal Reserve region, asking for the names of customers who have withdrawn gold since February 1, and who have not redeposited it at the close of business on Monday.

The list to be sent to Gov. Seay will not include the names of those who have redeposited the gold or redeemed it for currency by Monday night. This was taken as a preparatory move to the prosecution of gold hoarders.

So that no seeming preference will be given to any of the banks, the Washington Clearing House Association yesterday directed a letter to Secretary Woodin, requesting that the names of all banks which will be licensed to operate, be made public simultaneously.

Pay Rolls Are Provided.

Meanwhile, the banks will continue to perform such limited functions which are permitted by the regulations previously promulgated by the Secretary of the Treasury, such as relieving distress and facilitating food shipments.

The savings banks here are incorporated under the laws of various States, and their nearest authority is the Comptroller of the Currency, while the national banks, under the terms of the Executive order, must make their applications to the Federal Reserve Bank at Richmond.

Aid was brought to thousands of employes of private concerns when banks yesterday began the partial disbursement of pay roll funds. In cases of small business houses, the pay roll checks were met generally in full, while the larger companies, the pay rolls of which amount to huge sums, were permitted to draw only such funds as would care for the absolute essentials of employes.

Distribution of the funds were allowed under the Treasury regulation by which withdrawals may be made for necessities. Bankers pointed out that to grant withdrawals by large corporations to meet full pay rolls would impose a heavy drain on money supplies while the banks are still prohibited from accepting deposits.

The pay rolls were being met by issuing money to corporations, to pay their employes in whole or in part, in the case of large corporations; or in full, where small business houses applied for funds. Wage checks presented by individuals were cashed if the amount was not "too large."

There were only a moderate number of depositors who applied yesterday for money for necessities. This privilege of withdrawing deposits for absolute needs will be continued during the bank holiday, as well as all other functions which have been adopted by the Clearing House from the Treasury Department regulations.

Georgia House Rejects Repeal Convention Bill

Atlanta, March 10 (A.P.).—A call for a convention in Georgia to pass on repeal of the eighteenth amendment was rejected today by the House of Representatives by the slim margin of three votes.

Advocates of the convention served notice they would move to reconsider the question. There are 205 members of the House and 100 voted for a convention with 97 voting against it. A vote of 103 was necessary to carry the move. The resolution that was rejected called for an election of delegates June 7, and the convention July 10.

Victim of Holdup Fished From River

Laredo, Tex., March 10 (A.P.).—The body of a man recovered from the Rio Grande on the hook of a fisherman's line was identified by letters today as that of Jose Dimas Garcia, 40, a baker, who was on his way from Mexico to Houston, Tex.

Coroner De La Garza reported the man had been robbed and slain on the Mexican side of the river, then thrown into the river. His hip pockets had been cut out.

Letters from his wife in Houston, addressed to Garcia at Torreon, Mexico, were found in other pockets, as well as a note dated February 13 stating that if anything happened to him, persons whose addresses were listed should be notified. Nuevo Laredo officers began an investigation.

Shore Leave of Britons Curbed by Bank Holiday

New Orleans, March 10 (A.P.).—Several hundred British officers and sailors attached to H. M. S. Norfolk, now in port here, had a pay day yesterday, but it was a hollow one.

Shore leave brought no spending spree because local banks regretfully explained their inability to return dollars for pounds because of the ban on foreign exchange transactions and the seamen said only a very few shops liked to deal in foreign currency. Such transactions as were effected in stores were on a guesswork basis in the absence of any official comparative quotations.

32 Hungarians Held as Reds.

Budapest, Hungary, March 10 (A. P.).—The newspaper Mai Nap reported today that 32 employes of the Municipal Railways had been arrested for alleged complicity in a Communist organization uncovered by the police.

BANK ORDER

By virtue of the authority vested in me by Section 5(b) of the act of October 6, 1917 (40 Stat. L., 411) as amended by the act of March 9, 1933, and by Section 4 of the said act of March 9, 1933, and by virtue of all other authority vested in me, I hereby issue the following executive order:

The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized and empowered under such regulations as he may prescribe to permit any member bank of the Federal Reserve System and any other banking institution organized under the laws of the United States, to perform any or all of their usual banking functions, except as otherwise prohibited.

The appropriate authority having immediate supervision of banking institutions in each State or any place subject to the jurisdiction of the United States is authorized and empowered under such regulations as such authority may prescribe to permit any banking institution in such State or place, other than banking institutions covered by the foregoing paragraph, to perform any or all of their usual banking functions, except as otherwise prohibited.

Must Apply for License.

All banks which are members of the Federal Reserve System, desiring to reopen for the performance of all usual and normal banking functions, except as otherwise prohibited, shall apply for a license therefor to the Secretary of the Treasury. Such application shall be filed immediately through the Federal Reserve Banks. The Federal Reserve Bank shall then transmit such applications to the Secretary of the Treasury. Licenses will be issued by the Federal Reserve Bank upon approval of the Secretary of the Treasury. The Federal Reserve Banks are hereby designated as agents of the Secretary of the Treasury for the receiving of applications and the issuance of licenses in his behalf and upon his instructions.

Until further order, no individual, partnership, association, or corporation, including any banking institution, shall export or otherwise remove or permit to be withdrawn from the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof any gold coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates, except in accordance with regulations prescribed by or under license issued by the Secretary of the Treasury.

Can Not Pay Out Gold.

No permission to any banking institution to perform any banking functions shall authorize such institution to pay out any gold coin, gold bullion or gold certificates except as authorized by the Secretary of the Treasury, nor to allow withdrawal of any currency for hoarding, nor to engage in any transaction in foreign exchange except such as may be undertaken for legitimate and normal business requirements, for reasonable traveling and other personal requirements, and for the fulfillment of contracts entered into prior to March 6, 1933.

Every Federal Reserve Bank is authorized and instructed to keep itself currently informed as to transactions in foreign exchange entered into or consummated within its district and shall report to the Secretary of the Treasury all transactions in foreign exchange which are prohibited.

Money Judgment Holiday Declared

Austin, Tex., March 10 (A.P.).—Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson today issued a proclamation asking all trial courts to desist from entering money judgments in any litigation until March 25.

The proclamation was handed out by the governor's husband, James E. Ferguson. He said the moratorium was not "mandatory" as was the case when the chief executive a week ago yesterday ordered all banks and financial institutions to close.

"We are trying to give debtors as much protection as was afforded the banks in the financial moratorium," he said.

Cicognani Is Favored For Apostolic Delegate

Information from the Vatican is reported to indicate strongly that Mgr. Amelito Giovanni Cicognani, assessor of the Oriental Church Congregation, Vatican City, is to be appointed Apostolic Delegate to the United States, succeeding Archbishop Pietro Fumasoni-Biondi, who is to be elevated to the cardinalate.

Mgr. Cicognani was in Washington two years ago on an informal visit. He is known widely as a scholar and as a leader of the work of the church in Vatican City.

Trader Reports Scrip Old Story to Navajos

Albuquerque, N. Mex., March 10 (A.P.).—Scrip is old stuff to the Indians. But they call it "tin money."

Mike Kirk, Indian trader, said today many Indians, particularly the Navajos, use such types as round brass checks, each bearing the trader's name and the denomination. The "tin money" is used freely in exchanges between Indians.

Sing Sing Convict Is Fatally Stabbed

Prisoner Dies Four Hours Later Without Naming Knife Wielder.

Ossining, N. Y., March 10 (A.P.).—Joe Filingeri, 29-year-old Brooklyn convict, was mysteriously stabbed to death in Sing Sing Prison today.

He staggered up to Albert Peffers, a guard, during the exercise period and collapsed. There were seven wounds in his back and two in his chest. He died in the prison hospital four hours later after refusing to give authorities any information. A table knife apparently used by the assailant was found in the yard, and the other prisoners who were exercising at the time were questioned. All disclaimed any knowledge of the attack.

Filangeri had been sentenced to serve seven to fifteen years for robbery. He was admitted to prison February 24 and assigned to the reception company. Today was the first day he had been permitted to mingle with the other inmates.

STOCK MARKET SET TO RESUME DEALING

New York Exchange Will Reopen Wednesday If Banks Start Monday.

New York, March 10 (U.P.).—The New York Stock Exchange will resume operations Wednesday, provided banks reopen for normal business on Monday, it was learned authoritatively today.

The exchange today moved to permit resumption of dealings in stocks and bonds. Members were permitted to credit their clients' accounts with checks cleared through the clearing house, and in instances where the credits provided full payment delivery of the certificates was permitted.

Stock exchange machinery is intact and ready to commence full operations on an instant's notice. The only reason for a delay after banking business is resumed is to permit the banks to become adjusted to existing conditions before loading them up with additional stock exchange routine.

Traders were returning to the city today after an absence during the banking holiday. They were heartened by the speed toward solution of the bank troubles, and were equally impressed with the attempt being made to balance the budget by reduction of governmental expenditure.

The assistance of the United States fleet, whose battleships are lying off San Pedro, was asked and extended, Admiral Richard H. Leigh, the commander, informed the Navy Department by radio last night.

His message was brief, reporting there had been an earthquake the damage of which had not been determined.

The form of assistance usually taken by the Navy is in rescue work and police duty by the men, giving medical assistance and other aid.

The rest of the fleet, with such units as the submarines that might be endangered in a quake-affected region, were at San Diego.

At President Roosevelt's direction, Early asked Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Army chief of staff, to extend all assistance within their means in the stricken area. These instructions were transmitted immediately to naval stations and Army posts in the Los Angeles district.

Admiral Pratt was asked to have an immediate survey made by officers of the fleet and report as soon as possible to Washington.

Naval communications was informed early this morning that the relief resources of the ships stationed at Long Beach had swung into action and at that time were coping with the situation satisfactorily.

Navy Ready for All Needs.

These radio communications confirmed dispatches from Los Angeles that early reports of hundreds killed in Long Beach were exaggerated. The Navy radio did not attempt, however, to estimate the dead or injured.

Admiral Leigh, in a second communication to the Navy Department, expressed confidence the fleet could supply all assistance the Navy would be called upon to give.

With the battleships and cruisers centered at San Pedro, upward of 25,000 men were estimated to be there with the fleet, most of whom would be available for pressing into relief service.

The fleet also provides large medical and hospital facilities, including full medical stores for the officers and men. While the nearest naval hospital is at San Diego, it was considered valuable aid of this sort would be contributed by the Navy forces in the stricken area.

Warships Speed to Scene.

San Diego, Calif., March 10 (A.P.). All naval vessels in San Diego Bay were preparing at 8:45 o'clock tonight to depart at the command of Vice Admiral W. D. Leahy for Long Beach, a four hours' voyage.

A radio message from the commanding officer of the U. S. S. California, flagship of the battle force now standing off Long Beach, said, "in view of possibility of disturbances be prepared to send all available armed forces."

The message also asked that all available patrols be landed at Long Beach to report to Lieut. Comdr. W. A. Heard, of the California, commandant of patrols already ashore there. It asked that the maximum medical equipment be landed and all fire fighting equipment not needed for the safety of the ships.

All sailors on leave in San Diego were instructed to report to their ships in a special radio broadcast.

Elliott Roosevelt's Job Trek at Dallas

Dallas, Tex., March 10 (A.P.).—Elliott Roosevelt, son of President Roosevelt, stopped briefly here today en route to Tucson, Ariz., by automobile.

With Ralph Hitchcock, a friend, he planned to drive all night in hope of reaching Tucson late tomorrow. They had lunch at a hotel and were greeted by hastily summoned representatives of the Democratic party and newspapermen.

Both young men hope to find employment of some kind in Arizona, but declined to reveal its nature. Roosevelt said he left his advertising business in New York because he felt it might be embarrassing both to the company and his father.

Hoover May Start Boat Trip Early Next Week

New York, March 10 (A.P.).—Herbert Hoover, who has remained in New York since the inauguration of his successor in the White House and has twice called on the Nation to support the emergency Roosevelt program, will probably leave for the West the first of next week.

Lawrence Richey, secretary to the former President, said tonight: "We expect to leave within a few days. We probably will stay over until the first of the week." He explained there was no change in the original plan for Mr. Hoover to go to California by boat via the Panama Canal.

FARM CHIEFS RENEW SESSION HERE TODAY

(Associated Press.)

Fifty farm leaders, in search of a relief plan, determined last night to try again today despite first failure to agree.

Gathered at the call of Secretary Wallace of the Agriculture Department, the leaders of farm organizations were unanimous on one point:

"That the agricultural emergency calls for prompt and drastic action."

At the end of a long day's session they were substantially in accord on some fundamentals of farm relief also, but they put off until today or later a decision on how to obtain help in time to affect the crops of this year. It was their purpose to remain in conference until the task was done.

Basic Farm Products.

Only an advance in the prices of basic farm products can restore a fair exchange basis between agriculture and industry and make possible resumption of normal business activity," a statement from the group said, adding:

"The farm group agrees that farm production must be adjusted to consumption and favors the principles of the so-called domestic allotment plan as a means of reducing production and restoring buying power. The leaders admitted serious but not insurmountable differences of opinion in the method to be used.

"The plan in its final form, they hope, will avoid some of the objections made to previous measures. The proposal that some plan of renting land out of production be adopted is receiving favorable consideration."

Levy on Each Commodity.

Just before the meeting some of the leaders received copies of a bill drawn by staff members of the Department of Agriculture who have been assigned to it study of relief proposals. It called for allotting lands unneeded for production to fill domestic needs by States, counties and townships, with these lands to be leased by the Government with the funds to be raised by a tax on processors.

Only lands engaged in surplus production of cotton, wheat, corn, rice and tobacco would be retired from production under this plan. The tax would be levied on processors of each commodity except in the case of corn, where the tax would be levied on packers of hogs.

Green Sees Roosevelt On Jobless Problems

President Roosevelt went over his proposed unemployment program yesterday with William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. They were in conference at the White House for almost an hour.

Afterwards Mr. Green said they had discussed the employment situation generally. He declared employment conditions were not improving and that the banking crisis had halted the slight recovery which had been noticeable in recent weeks, but that there was "a great improvement in the state of mind."

DANIELS MENTIONED AS ENVOY TO MEXICO

Gore Indorses Will Rogers for Any Diplomatic Assignment.

(United Press.)

Josephus Daniels, publisher, of Raleigh, N. C., and former Secretary of the Navy, is being considered for appointment as ambassador to Mexico, it was reported in well-informed circles last night.

Earlier reports had indicated Daniels would become chairman of the Transportation Unification Agency which President Roosevelt is contemplating in connection with his Government reorganization scheme.

It was made clear, however, that Daniels' name is one of three or four being considered for the Mexican post, which Mr. Roosevelt considers of the greatest importance.

Selection of the ambassador to Mexico is expected to be made within ten days.

Reports that Will Rogers, Oklahoma humorist, was being considered in connection with the ambassadorship to Mexico could not be confirmed and were believed in reliable circles here to be without foundation.

The mere rumor that Rogers was being mentioned for this job, however, drew favorable comment here yesterday.

Senator Gore, of Oklahoma, said he had not heard that Rogers had such aspirations "but if he has I'm for him as Ambassador anywhere."

Senator McAdoo, of California, likewise said if Rogers had any such aspirations, "I'd be glad to hear from him."

Former Secretary of the Navy Daniels is a close friend of President Roosevelt. The Chief Executive served under the publisher when he held the naval post in the Wilson Cabinet.

A shrewd political expert, Daniels was consulted often by Mr. Roosevelt during the campaign and was credited with having been largely responsible for delivering the heavy North Carolina vote to the Chief Executive.

Raleigh, March 10 (A.P.).—Josephus Daniels, Raleigh publisher and Secretary of the Navy under President Wilson, tonight declined to discuss Washington reports that he is being seriously considered by President Roosevelt for Ambassador to Mexico.

"I prefer not to say anything," Daniels replied in answer to a request for comment.

Since his retirement from the Wilson Cabinet in 1920 Daniels has edited his News and Observer here. He was mentioned in 1932 as a Democratic candidate for Governor of North Carolina, but chose not to make the race.

QUAKES' TOLL IS HEAVY

houses were burned, while an oil fire was reported raging in the Union Oil Refinery in the harbor district.

In the southwest section of Los Angeles were a number of fires.

Homes of motion picture stars in the Malibu Beach colony were damaged but slightly, telephonic reports said. The chimney of the residence of Walter Morosco was tumbled.

Hundreds of Japanese men, women and children fled Terminal Island, between San Pedro and Long Beach, fearing a tidal wave. Carrying household goods and blankets, they made their way to the mainland and slept in the foothills.

Railroads reported passenger trains operating generally on schedule. Inspectors rode ahead of Southern Pacific trains on gasoline cars to examine tracks and tunnels.

Buildings Are Swayed.

The first shock struck at 5:55 p. m. Downtown streets in Los Angeles were thronged. Buildings swayed violently, from north to south. Lights flickered. Bricks crashed from the fronts of old buildings. Merchandise spilled in confusion from store shelves as plate glass windows shattered and crackled on the sidewalks.

Similar scenes were enacted in more than 100 communities of the Los Angeles metropolitan area.

Shock followed shock. In five or ten minute intervals new shocks added terror to the panic stricken inhabitants of the entire regions, some 2,000,000 persons.

In virtually all communities American Legion members answered emergency calls and organized protection quickly established.

Panic and Destruction.

Panic and destruction, fire and death spread through the great metropolitan area as the shocks recurred.

The first and most severe caught tens of thousands of homeward-bound citizens in the downtown area. White-faced, they rushed here and there seeking safety.

Reports of the destruction wrought by the first quake were just beginning to come in when a second one struck at 6:06 p. m. Four minutes later there was a third, and the fourth shock was only two minutes behind that. At 6:16 p. m. the fifth quake shook the area. Then there was a pause until 6:28. The seventh shock came while reports of the dead, dying and injured were beginning to come in.

Long Beach, which was believed to have been at the epicenter of the shock, was isolated. The quake had been expected by seismologists for years, but their forecasts had not been made public.

Are Taken From Ruins.

The walls of the old Chamber of Commerce Building fell in. Los Angeles and many injured were reported taken from the ruins. A part of the old police station fell into the street. A fire in downtown Los Angeles was soon quenched, the water mains having held. A building collapsed at Central and Slausen streets in the southwest section of the city. Several were injured.

At studios in Culver City plaster cracked and fell from the walls. Cracks appeared in the buildings but first reports mentioned no injuries there.

All Los Angeles fire equipment was in action a few minutes after the first quakes.

The auditorium of the Huntington Park High School was aflame, as were several industrial structures nearby.

Man Killed by Auto.

Racing through the lower floors of the city hall, a woman who gave her name as Mrs. Virginia Welborn hysterically informed police that she had just killed a man in front of the building as her car ran out of control as a result of the quake. The body was removed to a hospital by a passing motorist.

Five hundred physicians and surgeons, 56 ambulances, scores of private vehicles and practically all the registered nurses in the city were working at various hospitals and hastily organized emergency centers.

There were reports of a tidal wave striking beach cities, but this could not be confirmed from the life guard stations reached.

Medical Supplies Needed.

An appeal from Compton said every masonry building in the town was leveled or badly damaged and that medical supplies were badly needed.

Harry Parsons, Compton newspaperman, telephoned that he took a carload of medical supplies to the hospital and health center and found the institutions overflowing with injured.

As additional reports came in it was revealed that the temblors shook and twisted virtually every city and hamlet south of the Tehachapi Mountains; that is, southern California proper.

Appeal to Governor.

Calls came from many communities for medical aid and police protection. An appeal was sent from Long Beach to the governor to call out the National Guard for police duty.

The main shock seemed to center down the region of the Santa Ana River, which was first named by the white settlers the "River of the Sweetest Name of Jesus of the Earthquakes." On the banks of that river in 1778 a band of Spanish soldiers were badly shaken. They named it in tribute to the tremor.

The Los Angeles harbor district, which Long Beach adjoins, was first known by the Spanish settlers as the Bay of the Earthquakes.

Another Heavy Shock.

Another extremely heavy shock came at 8:40 p. m.

About every 75 years the area has been stricken, the last major earthquake being in 1857.

The tower of the City Hall in Inglewood caved in and the walls and roofs of numbers of downtown buildings were damaged. No casualties were reported.

Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz ordered his complete force of deputies to Long Beach and Compton.

At 8:30 p. m. it was reported that a large bakery in the eastern part of Los Angeles was aflame, the heat being so great no one could approach. It was not known whether workers were trapped inside the structure.

Homes and streets were flooded at Ninety-fourth street and Western avenue in Los Angeles when the quake knocked a big water tank from its supports.

Panic prevailed among patients in the General Hospital as one shock followed another. Hundreds rushed screaming for exits and plaster fell from ceilings and walls. Many fainted and were saved by nurses from being trampled under foot.

Long Beach police broadcast an appeal for at least 100 doctors and nurses to aid those locally available in treating the injured. Six surgeons and eight nurses from the Los Angeles Georgia Street Receiving Hospital, already filled to overflowing with injured, were dispatched to Long Beach in a fire department bus shortly after 8 p. m.

Another of the series of earthquakes, even more violent than the first, rocked southern California at 9:10 p. m.

Carnegie Institution Expert Warned California of Peril

Harry A. Wood, in August, 1925, Told Architects and Engineers in Southern Area to Prepare For Strong Shocks.

Los Angeles, March 10 (A.P.).—Warning to southern California architects and engineers that they should prepare for strong earthquakes was sounded in August, 1925, by Harry O. Wood, research associate in seismology of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, and vice president of the Seismological Society of America, it was recalled tonight.

Wood's warning was issued shortly after the Santa Barbara earthquake of June, 1925. He pointed out that the total energy of the Santa Barbara tremor, which took eleven lives and caused damage to the extent of $10,000,000, was small. The damage was due chiefly though not wholly, he said, to poor or unsuitable buildings.

"In the century and a half since California has been occupied by Europeans many shocks as strong if not so destructive as the Santa Barbara earthquake have occurred and in southern California alone there have been two or three major shocks," Wood said.

In 1769 a shock strong enough to terrify Indians and members of the Portola Expedition in camp near the site of Santa Ana, 36 miles from Los Angeles, was recorded. In the late autumn of 1812, a destructive shock, or perhaps two or more, Wood said, destroyed missions at Purisima, at San Juan Capistrano, at Santa Ynez and at Santa Barbara, and caused severe damage at the missions of San Buenaventure, San Fernando and San Gabriel.

In 1857, Wood said, much of south central and southern California was shaken by a great earthquake, "probably the strongest that has occurred in the Coast range region since the coming of the white man."

"It is reasonable," Wood said, "to look upon shocks like those of 1812 and 1856, and probably 1769 also, as relieving shocks; that is, shocks due to great widespread rock strain gradually accumulated during a long time which finally is relieved. * * * Strong local shocks which precede such greater shocks may reasonably be viewed as evidence of strain thus accumulated and not yet relieved."

Line's Busy

Phone Operator Apologizes Because Quake Prevents Connection.

New York, March 10 (A.P.).—As the first reports of the California earthquake were being received here tonight a woman who declined to give her name called the news department of the New York Times.

"You might be interested," she said, "in knowing that I have just tried to communicate with Los Angeles by telephone. When I had made connection with the Los Angeles operator the girl's voice, calm and unhurried, came over the wire:

"'Sorry, I can not connect you. We are having an earthquake.'"

Frightened Populace Flocks to Sea Beach

Kansas City, March 10 (A.P.).—Radio reports received over the Transcontinental & Western Air short-wave station here tonight told of widespread ruins and fires in the Los Angeles vicinity as viewed from the air by Pilot Jimmie James.

James, who flew from San Pedro to Los Angeles, said the ocean beaches at Long Beach were crowded with frightened people who had abandoned their homes. He reported sighting what appeared to be bodies of victims in parking lots and at filling stations.

50,000 at Funeral Of Mayor Cermak

Chicago's Most Impressive Rites Honor Slain Executive.

Chicago, March 10 (A.P.).—Mayor Anton Joseph Cermak, Chicago's first foreign-born mayor, who started in the coal pits, rose to the mayoralty and died from an assassin's bullet, was buried in the Bohemian National Cemetery today in the most impressive funeral the city ever saw.

It was just 23 days after he was wounded by a shot intended for President-elect Roosevelt at Miami, Fla. He fought gamely to live as the Nation watched and applauded his message to the President, "I'm glad it was me instead of you."

The police estimated 50,000 persons—soldiers, sailors, municipal employes and citizens—marched in his funeral procession—a line 5 miles long. The 12-mile route to the cemetery was lined with additional crowds estimated in hundreds of thousands.

Studios Rock

Famous Movie Stars' Work Halted by Earthquake, but Resumed.

Hollywood, March 10 (U.P.).—Hollywood movie studios felt the full force of a series of earthquakes that struck southern California tonight.

Cameras were still grinding and famous stars were in grease paint under blazing arc lights when the shocks started.

The huge stages in Hollywood proper, Burbank and Culver City shook heavily. A moment before the initial temblor came cameras stopped grinding and the lights flickered out, as the electric energy was interrupted before the shock was felt. Stars, directors, extra girls and technical men rushed into the open, and stood watching surrounding buildings.

At Warner Bros.' Studios in Burbank the high water tower swayed so much that water spilled over the sides and onto actors below.

A meeting of important studio executives, in session on the top floor of the Roosevelt Hotel, was interrupted, and they rushed into the halls, being unable to reach the ground until some moments later.

After the first shock at the studios the actors and studio workers returned to the stages and resumed work.

1769 Quake

In California Was First to Be Recorded; 35 Since 1856 Reported.

Los Angeles, March 10 (A.P.).—Earthquakes have been associated with the very beginning of Los Angeles.

When Fra Juniper Serra, Franciscan leader encamped in 1778 on the Santa Ana River, 30 miles from here, he named it El Rio Del Dulcisimo Nombre de Jesus de Los Temblores ("The River of the Sweetest Name of Jesus of the Earthquake").

In the same year he named the valley of San Gabriel to the southeast El Valle de Los Temblores ("The Valley of the Earthquakes").

Even before that, in 1769, when the Portola expedition was shaken by an earthquake which terrorized the conquistadors, the San Gabriel River, near which they were encamped, promptly was named the "River of Earthquakes."

More than 35 temblor of varying intensity have been felt in this section since 1856. Several have visited Santa Barbara and the Imperial Valley.

4 Persons Are Found Killed on Iowa Farm

Newton, Iowa, March 10 (A.P.).—Four persons were found shot to death on the Floyd Sanford farm near Reasnor late today. Sheriff Earl Shields advanced the theory of a triple slaying and suicide.

The sheriff said it was his opinion that Marland Shipley, 60, hired hand, killed Mr. and Mrs. Sanford and their daughter, Rosalie, and then ended his life.

U.S. Reserve Banks Flooded With Gold

New York, March 10 (A.P.).—Torrents of hoarders' gold today deluged the Federal Reserve Banks of the United States, with estimates of total receipts ranging between $100,000,000 and $200,000,000.

Scourged by threats of confiscatory taxes, exposure and even prison penalties, repentant and rather frightened "modern Midases" swarmed into the central banks of the twelve Federal Reserve Districts from as early as 8:30 a. m. to around 5 p. m.

Federal Reserve officials were of the opinion that, if the gold tide continues for a few days, not only the funds withdrawn just prior to the banking holiday will have been returned, but coin and bullion that has been in hiding for several years may find its way to daylight.

93 Candidates Qualify In Annapolis Mind Test

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 10.—Authorities of the Naval Academy today announced a list of 93 candidates for admission as midshipmen who qualified successfully in mental examinations held in February. Seventy-eight of the number are those who took the substantiating tests in mathematics and English, while the other fifteen passed the regular examinations in all subjects. The examinations as usual were conducted throughout the Nation under civil service regulations.

The second and last of this year's entrance examinations will be held in April under like conditions.

SILVER ADVOCATES MOVE FOR REVIVAL

(Associated Press.)

Senators from the West yesterday initiated a move to turn the monetary emergency into rejuvenated prices for silver.

In three bills designed to bring silver into wider use as money and to lift from the market the existing surplus, Key Pittman, of Nevada, Democratic president pro-tempore of the Senate, renewed a campaign begun last session.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, reintroduced his bill for the remonetization of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 with gold, the old war cry of William Jennings Bryan in his campaign for the Presidency.

One of Pittman's bills would permit Great Britain to pay up to $100,000,000 of her war debt in silver, with the maximum allowance to be 45 cents per ounce.

Another would authorize the Government to buy 5,000,000 ounces a month of the domestic production, while the third proposed that this country purchase $250,000,000 worth in the open market, to remove the world surplus.

Against all the silver acquired under the Pittman bills, currency would be issued and the metal added to the base of the Nation's monetary system at the rate of $1.29 per ounce, the value of silver now in monetary use in this country.

Charles C. Foster Is Dead at Havana

Publicity Man for Jockey Club May Be Buried in Capital.

Havana, March 10 (A.P.).—The body of Charles C. Foster, 61, veteran newspaperman, who died here yesterday of heart disease, will be sent north tomorrow on the Key West boat.

It will be taken to Washington, D. C. Burial, members of the family said, probably will take place in Washington, although that had not been definitely decided.

A native of Lexington, Ind., Foster resided for years at Alexandria, Va., when he was not away covering races at one track or another. For the last seven years he has been director of publicity for the Cuban-American Jockey Club here.

Counterfeit Coin Passer, Believed Victim, Freed

Convinced he was only a victim of circumstances, police yesterday released Robert A. Wrenn, 20, 1557 Thirty-third street northwest, a teller in a Washington bank, who was taken into custody for investigation in connection with the passing of an alleged counterfeit 50-cent piece in payment for three gallons of gasoline.

It was pointed out that the coin probably had been in circulation for some time. The coin was given to Charles R. Bradshaw, manager of a gasoline filling station at Forty-first and Brandywine streets northwest.

Drive to Cut Cotton Production Started

Drastic Federal Measures Held Needed to Avert Fall of Industry.

Baton Rouge, La., March 10 (A.P.).—The launching of a campaign for "drastic Federal measures for control of cotton production in the South in order to prevent complete collapse of the industry" was announced tonight by the agricultural extension division of Louisiana State University.

The extension division said letters and telegrams had been sent President Roosevelt, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and Congress members urging the placing of cotton gins under Federal license, with subsequent issuance of gin tags restricted to permit the ginning of only 70 per cent of the growers' five-year average cotton production.

Gov. Rolph Signs Bill To Halt Foreclosures

Sacramento, Calif., March 10 (A.P.).—Gov. James Rolph, jr., today signed an urgency bill providing for a 60-day moratorium on foreclosures of mortgages and trust deeds on California homes and farms.

The provisions of the bill become law immediately.

Los Angeles to Demand Extraordinary Bank Aid

Los Angeles, March 10 (U.P.).—The Los Angeles Clearing House Association announced tonight that "extraordinary relief" from the provisions of the national bank holiday will be asked tomorrow for Southern California.

CHINA HURLS FRESH FORCE INTO BATTLE

Chiang, Highest Officer, in Direct Command; Nippon Claims Pass Taken.

Peiping, China, March 10 (A.P.).—Chiang Kai-Shek, China's highest ranking military officer, took over direct command of the Army of the North today and immediately ordered a division into battle with the Japanese in the area of Kupeikow, the Great Wall pass on the main highway from Jehol City to Peiping.

(A dispatch from Chinchow, Manchuria, said that Japanese headquarters there had announced that Maj. Gen. Tadashi Kawahara's brigade had completed occupation of Kupeikow this afternoon.)

Marshal Chiang became military overlord of North China in succession to Marshal Chang Hsiao-Liang, whose resignation was accepted and who will retire to private life, it was announced, surrendering his membership in the Nanking government councils as well as his army posts.

It was reported tonight the Japanese Legation had received instructions from Tokyo to warn the Chinese that unless their military concentrations in the vicinity of the Great Wall are withdrawn the Japanese may be forced to pass the wall and continue military operations in China proper. This warning was especially directed, it was said, at concentrations in the Kupeikow and Shanhaikwan areas.

Ohio Electrocutes Two for Murders

Execution of Pair Is Done Within 15 Minutes at Columbus.

Columbus, Ohio, March 10 (A.P.).—Within less than fifteen minutes, two men died tonight in the electric chair at Ohio Penitentiary. John (Red) Downing, of Cincinnati, slayer of two women, entered the chair at 7:30 o'clock. Six minutes later he was pronounced dead.

Guards then led Mathay Brown, Cleveland Negro, to the chair. He likewise was pronounced dead within six minutes after the current was applied.

Downing was given the death sentence for slaying Mrs. Mauree Bonzo, wife of an Ohio penitentiary official. She had befriended him while he was on parole from a previous sentence for slaying Inez Williams, of near Cincinnati. Brown was convicted of murdering Mrs. Florence Holt, Cleveland Negro.

Steward Pledges Salary Slash Aid

Curran Urges Roosevelt Support, but Taylor Seeks Delay.

The National Federation of Federal Employes last night pledged cooperation with President Roosevelt in the fair administration of the extraordinary powers planned for the Executive, in a statement issued by Luther C. Steward, president of the group.

Officials of the American Federation of Labor were scheduled to meet this morning to determine what attitude they will take toward the authorization.

Meanwhile, John Thomas Taylor, vice chairman of the national legislative committee of the American Legion, wrote members of Congress that "the step you are about to take amounts to the complete demolition of the present structure of veterans' legislation."

"The American Legion does not and will not oppose justifiable reductions in veterans' benefits," he said.

Director Henry H. Curran of the National Economy League, in a statement last night called on every member of Congress "to give at once to the President the powers he requests."

Train Wreck Fatal To 2 Trespassers

B. & O. Freight Derailed on "Old Main Line" in Maryland.

Lime Kiln, Md., March 10 (A.P.).—Two men were killed when a freight train was derailed on the "old main line" of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad near here today. A third man was reported missing. All were described by Baltimore & Ohio officials as "trespassers."

None of the crew was hurt, according to early reports. A total of 21 cars left the track. The accident was believed to have been caused when the cars buckled. The two men who were killed were buried under the debris from the wrecked cars. Their bodies were badly mangled.

Acting Coroner Sherman P. Bowers, of Frederick, immediately began an investigation as the wreckage was being searched for additional bodies.

Matamoros Beer Drops to 5 Cents

Value of Dollar Remains Same Across Border Despite Holiday.

Brownsville, Tex., March 10 (A.P.). American money still buys just as much as formerly in Mexican merchandising establishments of Matamoros, across the Rio Grande from Brownsville, although the peso has taken a jump since the bank holiday was declared in the United States.

For the first time in more than 20 years, the 5-cent glass of beer has appeared in Matamoros bars and the price of other drinks, in American money, is as low or lower than ever before.

The Mexican peso is now quoted at from 2 to 2½ for $1, compared to the almost 4-to-1 exchange ratio existing several weeks ago.

Cocktail Outlook Brighter

Diplomats Will Retrieve Cargo in New York With Fleet of Trucks; Cost of Carriage to Be $1,000 Greater Than from Baltimore.

(United Press.)

The cocktail situation on Embassy row took a turn for the better last night as diplomats made plans to man a fleet of trucks and start to New York to retrieve a shipment of choice liquors which has become entangled in the maze of American customs regulations.

The liquor, shipped from Liverpool, England, was unloaded at New York instead of being carried through to Baltimore as usual. Custom laws forbade its being shipped to Washington by rail or common carrier.

For a while yesterday diplomacy was gloomy. The State Department was unable to act. The delegates were informed the only apparent solution to the problem was to move the liquor from New York to Washington in trucks which would be protected by diplomatic immunity.

The shipment is the largest in six months. It was brought from Europe in the American steamer Winola County. The vessel cleared for Baltimore, but for some reason put in at New York.

The consignment was understood to be owned by the Norwegian, Danish, Swedish, Irish and Nicaraguan legations. It was intended for use during the spring entertainment season.

The legations usually receive their liquor at Baltimore, only 40 miles from Washington. It is brought here by truck. It was estimated the cost of bringing the liquor by truck from New York would be about $1,000 greater than if it were brought from Baltimore.

HULL IS ASSEMBLING TRADE PARLEY DATA

New Regime Soon to Rouse World Enthusiasm on London Session.

(Associated Press.)

The concentrated force of the Roosevelt administration is to be turned full upon the problem of adjusting by international agreement the tangle of trade and exchange restrictions as soon as the present banking emergency is met.

This intention to seek an immediate loosening of the strangle hold on world commerce was made known in unmistakable terms yesterday at the State Department. Economic experts already are preparing masses of data for use at the world economic and monetary conference in London this summer as well as the diplomatic conversations through which Secretary Hull and Mr. Roosevelt hope to prepare the way for success at London.

Through diplomatic channels both here and in foreign capitals, Secretary Hull said he plans to exchange views with other great powers in advance of the conference to provide a favorable background for action and to stir up world enthusiasm for positive and effective accomplishments.

At the heart of the difficulties which this momentous gathering of the nations this summer on a date not yet determined will undertake to solve is the matter of prohibitive or excessively high tariffs which grew up as nation followed nation in seeking to solve its financial troubles by selling goods, but refusing to buy them.

Secertary Hull told newspaper men yesterday that he felt reduction of trade restrictions and of armaments lie at the foot of efforts to start the world on an upward business trend.

Return of Flames Levels Residence

Fire last night completed the destruction of the home of Master Sergt. Clark Trumbull on the road between Wheaton and Four Corners, Md., which it had begun in the afternoon. A fire in the late afternoon destroyed the back of the two-story frame stucco house while the front of the house was badly damaged by a second fire which started several hours later. Damage was estimated at approximately $10,000.

Volunteeer firemen from Kensington and Silver Spring battled with the flames for several hours in the afternoon. Water was pumped through two lines of hose from Sligo Creek more than 1,000 feet away. A high wind fanned the flames to such fury that the firemen were unable to do much more than wet down the front portion of the house.

The fire apparently extinguished, the firemen went home shortly after 6 o'clock. An hour or so later they were summoned again to a fire which had broken out in the front.

Howard W. Smith Gets Rules Place

Alexandria House Member Is Assigned by Ways and Means.

(Associated Press.)

Representative Howard W. Smith, of Alexandria, a second termer in the House, yesterday was selected by Democratic members of the House Ways and Means Committee for assignment on the important Rules Committee.

At the same time Representative Colgate W. Darden, new member from Norfolk, was picked for Naval Affairs, the same assignment his Republican predecessor, Menalcus Lankford, held.

The assignments of other Virginia members are: Bland, Newport News, Merchant Marine, Radio and Fisheries (chairman); Woodrum, of Roanoke, Appropriations (subcommittee chairman); Montague, of Richmond, Judiciary (subcommittee chairman); Drewry, of Petersburg, Naval Affairs; Burch, of Martinsville, Postoffice and Postroads, and Flannagan, of Bristol, Agriculture.

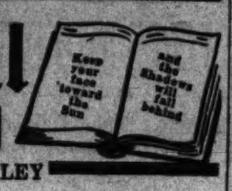
Overcoats and suits valued at $125 were stolen from the tailor shop of Penye Goldstein, 1128 Ninth street northwest, Thursday night by burglars, who forced a rear door.

The Federal Diary



By GEORGE D. RILEY

MATILDA MANDUE drew her last salary check the other day, retiring after fifteen years, eight of which she was head charwoman, Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

She served in the latter capacity until June, when several bureaus, including the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, moved to the South Building and practically the entire char force was transferred to the office of the division of operation. At her request, she then was assigned to the bureau's library to the work of keeping the books and shelves clean.

After the pay line had dispersed February 28, a number of workers lingered in the conference room, where Matilda had been invited to come. A hearty clapping greeted her entrance. F. J. Hughes made a brief address, in which he made it plain that she had been a friend as well as fellow worker and referred to her work in the most appreciative terms. He then turned to Miss Lacy, bureau librarian, as having something furthe to say. On behalf of the bureau she handed Matilda a small leather shopping bag and referred to the fine character of service which a reference to the records showed she had consistently maintained throughout her connection with the bureau.

WHEN Matilda opened the bag, she found it to be bulging with new crisp dollar bills and to contain as well a small leather purse also well filled with the bills. Miss Florence Lee, Live Stock, Meats, and Wool Division, is responsible for selection of the bag and purse and the clever arrangement of the money, amounting in all to $70. Matilda's response delighted her hearers. The group filed by to wish for her a long and happy period of the rest she has so well earned.

The char force also contributed $15 with which to buy an "easy" chair. They are giving her the opportunity to select it herself.

Matilda's first efficiency report, prepared by the woman then in charge, contains the following comments that apply to her work during the entire period of her service in the bureau.

"Matilda Mandue is one of my best workers. She is always looking for work to do and what she does she does well and is so pleasant. I want to try and keep her in this bureau."

WE know a stenographer in this town who once enjoyed the reputation of being quite efficient. She seldom took chances when transcribing odd words, but, dutiful worker that she was, she always looked them up.

Being a quite efficient stenographer it came about that occasionally she was summoned after office hours to assist the Washington correspondent for a chain of technical journals in the typing of material for his paper. The work interested her mightily and the compensation therefor augmented her slim official stipend. Fine!

One night the poor stenographer was weary, even very weary. She forgot to be efficient—she didn't much care to be. The technical correspondent held forth at length upon a western reclamation project, in which, of course, many dams were involved. Page after page of typing issued from the machine, and as the end came on apace the stenographer was about to heave a great sigh.

Instead of a sigh there followed something between a gurgling gasp for breath and an explosion. The technical correspondent half rose from his chair to administer first-aid, but sat down again at the sign of an upraised typist hand. Quoth the correspondent, "Pray, what is the matter, Miss ——?" Quoth she, "Not a thing except that I have spelled 'dam' 'damn' all the way through your article. Now must I erase all those n's?"

DR. JOHN I. HARDY, animal fiber technologist, Agriculture, is possessed of an unique volume. Swarmi Pedd is free to say it is a "world encyclopedia of wool," an excellent handbook of graphic data on this subject. Fiber specimens have been collected from all corners of the universe and artistically fastened on card boards. At the left of each page is a detailed, historical description of the particular sample. Aside from its encyclopedic usefulness it gives, in many instances, a composite picture of the various steps which occur after wool has been clipped from the live animal and is eventually woven into fabric for commercial purposes. The volume has necessitated considerable painstaking work in its preparation but returns for this investment, a dividend in knowledge useful to all persons interested in this field, whether a student, scientist or textile expert.

Postmaster General Farley announces that, with personal approval of President Roosevelt, an enthusiastic stamp collector, he has directed issuance of a special stamp to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the issuance of the proclamation of peace, at Newburgh, N. Y., April 19, 1783.

The stamp will be of the three-cent denomination in purple. It will show Washington's headquarters at Newburgh, with his flag flying from the staff and depict the surrounding mountains and river. At the top of the stamp will be the words, "U. S. Postage."

The stamp will first be on sale at the Newburgh Postoffice April 19, and at the Philatelic Agency, Washington, the day following.

There will be 50,000,000 printed at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

Interior Department Branch, Federal Employes Union, No. 2, N. F. F. E., will hold a card party at headquarters, 710 Fourteenth street northwest, March 18, at 8 p. m. It will be a social gathering following election of officers March 14, in the auditorium, Interior Building. It also is hoped to raise funds for an educational campaign to correct erroneous and misleading statements disseminated among the public, which are regarded as unjustly disparaging to Government clerks.

It is proposed to furnish actual facts on which the public can arrive at sane, reliable conclusions concerning need or lack of need for any particular governmental function, and to eliminate hysteria engendered in the public mind by propagandists.

This activity is in line with the history of the Federal Employes Union and the Interior Branch, which as one of the first groups in the federation, is continuing its record of more than 16 years among the leaders in activities for the welfare of Government clerks.

The committee in charge of the card party appointed by President John F. Deeds, follows: Albert M. Reising, Secretary's Office, chairman; John E. Dano, Reclamation Service; Mrs. Estella Versheldea, General Land Office; Miss Mary C. Ryan, National Park Service; David E. Thomas, Indian Office; Miss Lela Gillespie and Mrs. M. Dorothy Dick, Geological Survey.

COL. BROWN, FRIEND OF ROOSEVELT, DIES

Georgian, Democratic Chief, Opened Virginia Caverns for Tourists.

Col. Edward T. Brown, 75, close friend of President Roosevelt and prominent in the Democratic party, died Thursday of pneumonia at the Mayflower Hotel.

His illness was said to have been caused from a cold which he contracted while reviewing the inaugural parade in the stand with the President.

Since the regime of President Wilson, Col. Brown had devoted his time to the Democratic party and was in no little way responsible for the election of the President.

Born in Gainesville, Ga., in 1858, Col. Brown began the practice of law in Athens, Ga., following his graduation from Davidson College, in North Carolina. He later practiced in Atlanta.

Developed Virginia Caverns.

It was during this time that Col. Brown became interested in tourist travel and he was largely responsible for the development of the caverns in the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia as a tourist attraction.

Many years ago he was made a lieutenant colonel on the staff of Gov. Candler of Georgia and had since carried the title of "Colonel."

A first cousin of Woodrow Wilson's first wife, Col. Brown became a close personal friend and political ally of the war-time President. He served as chairman of the State Democratic Committee of Georgia for many years and was one of the organizers of the Federal Reserve Bank at Atlanta.

He was the owner of the Eastern Printing Corporation of New York City and the Southern Printing Co. of Atlanta.

Lived Here Since 1913.

Col. Brown had been a resident of Washington the greater part of the time since 1913. He lived at 1712 I street for some time, later purchasing the property at 1637 Massachusetts avenue, now occupied by representatives of the Soviet government.

Col. Brown is survived by a son, Maj. Edward M. Brown, manager of the Endless Caverns, and a daughter, Mrs. Marjorie King, whose husband, Benjamin King, is manager of the Virginia Caverns, nearby. A second son, Lieut. Henry Brown, died shortly after his return to the United States after the World War.

The body was taken to Athens yesterday and will be interred there today beside his wife, who died in 1925.

Democratic Chieftains Mourn Col. Brown's Death

A resolution of condolence and esteem upon the death of Col. Edward T. Brown was issued yesterday by the Democratic advisory committee of the District of Columbia, of which Col. Brown was a member.

Members of the committee accompanied the body to a train en route to Athels, Ga., his former home.

George E. Tralles Expires in Denver

Former Officer of Morton Cadets Once Practiced Law in Capital.

George Edward Tralles, former Washington attorney, who was a first lieutenant of the Morton Cadets when that organization won an interstate drill contest, died recently in Denver, Colo., according to information received here yesterday.

Mr. Tralles left Washington about 20 years ago for Tucson, Ariz., where he stayed for a short time and moved to Denver where he began law practice. Before leaving Washington, he was associated in law practice here with Henry F. Woodard.

Mr. Tralles visited here some time ago during a reunion of the Morton Cadets, when 34 former members of a drill team of 40 members attended a celebration at the Willard Hotel.

He is survived by his wife and two daughters, Mrs. Willard Herkes and Miss Ruth Tralles. Funeral services were held yesterday in Denver.

Annie R. Macfarlane, Famous Critic, Is Dead

Montreal, March 10 (A.P.).—Annie R. Macfarlane, widely known as an author and critic twenty years ago, died here last night. She was 82.

SHEEHAN RITES TODAY.

Former Washington Lawyer Died at Paterson, N. J., of Stroke.

Funeral services will be held today in Paterson, N. J., for Daniel John Sheehan, 42, member of the New Jersey and District of Columbia bars, who died at his home in Paterson Wednesday following a paralytic stroke. Interment will be in Paterson.

Mr. Sheehan, a graduate of George Washington University Law School, practiced law here after the World War for about five years, returning to Paterson in 1924.

Tear Gas Bomb Blast Causes $35,315 Suit

San Francisco, March 10 (A.P.).—An attempt by Fenwick L. Smith to deposit a pair of eyeglasses in the instrument board compartment of Mrs. Elizabeth H. Metcalf's motor car last November resulted in filing of a $35,315 damage suit against the society woman today.

Smith contended in his petition that Mrs. Metcalf failed to warn him of the presence of a tear gas bomb in the compartment, which exploded, burning him.

Utah Woman Gets Life For Husband's Murder

Salt Lake City, March 10 (A.P.).—Mrs. Elizabeth Droubay, 40, was sentenced to life imprisonment today for the slaying of her husband, Capt. C. Edson Droubay, of the Salt Lake City fire department.

Droubay was shot last November. The couple had engaged in numerous quarrels.

DR. GREEN, FORMER EDUCATOR, IS DEAD

Late Dean of Episcopal Seminary Is Heart Attack Victim.

The Rev. Dr. Berryman Green, former dean of the Episcopal Theological Seminary of Virginia, died suddenly yesterday of a heart attack at the home of his son, Dr. Berryman Green, in Riverside, Calif., where he had, with his wife, just arrived for a visit. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Nina Bouldin Green, and his son.

Dr. Green was associated with the Episcopal Theological Seminary of Virginia for nearly 30 years, leaving Christ Church, Alexandria, in 1902, after seven years as rector, and for a number of years had been dean of the seminary. He left his duties at that institution shortly over two years ago, first being given a sabbatical year prior to his retirement. He was a native of Charlotte County, Va., and since retirement had made his home in Alexandria, until the past few weeks, when he and Mrs. Green left for California.

Dr. Green was elected Bishop Coadjutor of Virginia a number of years ago, to assist the Bishop of Virginia, the Right Rev. Robert Gibson. He declined the election, but at a special session of the Episcopal Council held later, was again chosen for the office, and accepted. Just prior to the date set for his consecration, Dr. Green suffered a slight stroke of paralysis, and immediately sent his resignation to the bishop. The Right Rev. Arthur Selden Lloyd, Suffragan Bishop of New York, was then elected.

The funeral will be held at 2 p. m. next Thursday from the Seminary Chapel and the burial willl be in the cemetery at the seminary. The body will reach Alexandria next Wednesday, accompanied by Mrs. Green and her son.

Annis F. Williams Dead at Dumfries

Confederate Veteran, 94, Was Wounded Twice; Rites Tomorrow.

Annis F. Williams, 94, Dumfries, Va., a Confederate veteran who was wounded in the battles of Gettysburg and Five Forks while attached to the Forty-ninth Virginia Regiment, Company A, died yesterday at his home.

Known as "Grandpa" Williams to friends and neighbors, the veteran was decorated for bravery in action during the War Between the States. Surviving him are two sons, Lemuel A. Williams, of Dumfries, and Frank Williams, of Indianhead, Md.

The body is at the undertaking parlors of Hall & Davis, Occoquan, Va. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the Dumfries Methodist Episcopal Church. Burial will be in the Minnieville (Va.) Cemetery.

$1,301 Found on Man Shock of Fire Killed

Forreston, Ill., March 10 (A.P.).—William A. Adams, 82, started a grass fire on a lot here today. When he saw it was spreading beyond his control, he called for help, then fell dead.

In his shirt was found a $1,000 bill and $301 in smaller bills.

ZANGARA IS DEFIANT IN SENTENCE TO DIE

Florida Judge Metes Chair for Nihilist Murderer of Mayor Cermak.

Miami, Fla., March 10 (A.P.).—Boastfully shouting his unconcern and defying the court, Giuseppe Zangara, the assassin who tried to kill President Roosevelt, today was sentenced to die in the electric chair for the murder of Mayor Anton J. Cermak of Chicago.

"You is crook man too," Zangara screamed at Circuit Judge Thompson after sentence was pronounced. "I no afraid. You one of the capitalists. Put me in electric chair."

Zangara asserted he wanted to kill "all presidents and kings" because he had a feud with capitalists and because his stomach hurt him. His murderous desire was to make Mr. Roosevelt suffer "fifty-fifty."

Under Florida law, Zangara must be taken to Raiford, the State Prison farm, to pay the penalty for his mad act in Bay Front Park here February 15.

His aim at the President, diverted by spectators, resulted in the mortal wounding of Mayor Cermak and the shooting of four other persons.

Unity Is Requested By Commissioners

D. C. Board's Proclamation Calls for Support of Roosevelt.

Along with the governors of the 48 States the District Commissioners yesterday issued a proclamation calling for united support of President Roosevelt. The proclamation read:

"The Commissioners of the District of Columbia join with the governors of the States in urging unity on the part of the people in support of the President, without regard to any consideration other than the common good.

"Every American citizen should show his loyalty to the President in his patriotic effort to lead the Nation out of its present difficulties. The situation demands the fullest measure of confidence in, and support of, the President to bring about a return of economic, banking and financial stability. These are days when the spirit of unselfish patriotism should be practiced by all of us."

Charleston to Select Committees for Union

Appointment of the executive, membership, contact and constitution and by-law committees will be made by President J. W. Charleston, of Interdepartmental Lodge, No. 20, American Federation of Government Employes, at a meeting at 8 o'clock tonight at the Twelfth street branch of the Y. M. C. A.

Newly elected officers of this lodge, besides Mr. Charleston, are George H. Rycraw, first vice president; Harvey L. Bean, second vice president; Miss Eunice V. Diggs, third vice president; Joseph R. Branson, fourth vice president; Frank D. McKinney, fifth vice president; Frederick L. Slade, secretary-treasurer; Richard Coates, sergeant at arms, and C. S. Jones, chaplain.

Former Convict Is Sworn in As House Members Applaud

Francis H. Shoemaker, Farmer-Labor, of Minnesota, Seated Pending Citizenship Probe; Resolution To Delay Action Is Lost.

(Associated Press.)

Francis H. Shoemaker, former inmate of Leavenworth Penitentiary, took the House oath yesterday as Minnesota's fifth Farmer-Labor representative.

It was administered by Speaker Rainey amid applause after a 230-to-75 vote that Shoemaker be seated pending a committee investigation of his citizenship and a final determination of his permanent rights.

The ballot was on a resolution by Shoemaker's colleague, Kvale (Farmer-Labor), Minnesota, offered as a substitute for one by Carter of California, Republican whip, which would have denied the oath until after the investigation and final action.

Carter contended that under Minnesota law Shoemaker lost his citizenship when convicted of a felony to which he pleaded guilty. His position was supported by Bulwinkle (Democrat), North Carolina, while Kvale led the triumphant Shoemaker forces.

Lemke (Republican), North Dakota, said that one R. W. Putnam was president of a bank and trust company that paid heirs of an estate in "worthless bonds" of the trust company.

He said the trust company later was forced by court action to pay the heirs in cash in full and that Shoemaker's offense was addressing an envelope to "R. W. Putnam, robber of orphans and widows."

"Citizenship was not taken away and could not be taken away under the charge of sending defamatory literature through the mail," Lemke said.

JOHN HEWITT MILLS FUNERAL CONDUCTED

Eastern Star and Masonic Rites Accompany Burial; Was U. S. Employe.

Funeral services for John Hewitt Mills, 65, prominent Eastern Star patron, who died Tuesday at his home, 15 Manor Circle, Takoma Park, from heart trouble after a long illness, were held yesterday at 2:30 p. m., at the Takoma Park Baptist Church. Interment was in the Congressional Cemetery.

Dr. W. E. LaRue, pastor of the church, of which Mr. Mills was a member, and Dr. F. W. Johnson, a former pastor, officiated. The services of the Eastern Star were used at the church, while Masonic rites were used at the cemetery.

At the time of his death, Mr. Mills was associate patron of the Mount Pleasant Chapter, Eastern Star, and was a member of the Masonic Order, No. 16, Washington.

He was born in Cambridge, Mass., and came to Washington many years ago as a member of the Public Utilities Commission until the World War when he served in the Navy Department. Since that time he has been connected with the Woodward & Lothrop Co., of this city.

He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Miss Gladys E. Mills, of Takoma Park.

Bill Would Make Police Woman's Bureau Legal

Representative Ernest W. Gibson (Republican), Vermont, yesterday reintroduced his bill to establish the Woman's Bureau of the Metropolitan Police Department by law, so that it could not be abolished at the discretion of the District Commissioners.

The measure would give the director of the bureau the rank and pay of an assistant superintendent of police, and permit her five assistants, one with the rank and pay of a captain, another with the rank of lieutenant, and three with the grade of sergeant.

Coffee Pot Explosion Scalds Baltimore Man

Sprayed with boiling coffee when a pot he was heating on his engine exploded, Joe Hazell, 38, Baltimore, an engineer for the Potomac Electric & Power Co., was seriously burned about the face and arms yesterday afternoon.

The accident occurred on a switch engine which Hazell was operating at First and U streets southwest. He was treated at Emergency Hospital.

Bill in House Asks Shield for Insured

Harlan Urges Emergency Powers Be Given to D. C. Board.

A bill to confer emergency powers on the District superintendent of insurance, "to safeguard the interests of policyholders, beneficiaries, creditors and the general public," was introduced in the District yesterday by Representative Byron B. Harlan (Democrat), Ohio.

The bill which Mr. Harlan hopes to get up under a suspension of the House rules, would prevent undue preference among the policyholders of insurance companies, and conserve the income and assets of such companies for the benefit of policyholders, beneficiaries and creditors.

It would give the superintendent of insurance power to make, amend, or rescind rules and regulations for the conduct of "any insurer" to preserve the stability of insurance companies. The authority would expire midnight, March 1, 1935.

Kansas City Suspect Is Arrested in Threats

Kansas City, March 10 (A.P.).—Postal inspectors said today a plot to extort at least $5,000 from Michael Katz, wealthy Kansas City druggist, by threatening letters had been thwarted by the arrest of a man giving his name as John C. Schmidt.

Katz was kidnaped several years ago and is purported to have paid $100,000 ransom for his release.

Unusual Offer Is Made by Vicks on New Mouth-Wash

The makers of Vicks VapoRub have put out a new antiseptic mouth-wash and gargle. It will do everything that any mouth antiseptic can and should do . . . and at half the usual cost.

The proof is actual use in your own home. To furnish this proof, 5 million bottles in a special trial size were supplied to druggists, below cost—a 25c value for only 10c.

But the demand has been enormous. If your druggist is already out of the trial size, the regular 10-ounce size of Vicks Antiseptic is an even bigger bargain—a 75c value for only 35c. And, after using it a week, if you are not delighted with its quality, and amazing economy, you can return the unused portion and get your money back.—Adv.

PARIS MAY PROTEST NAZIS' RAID AT KEHL

500 Hitler Storm Troopers Said to Have Occupied Barracks in Baden.

Paris, March 10 (A.P.).—Diplomatic protests against the occupation by Adolf Hitler's Nazis of the barracks at Kehl and against the legalising of the Nazi brownshirts, became a possibility today after an all-day conference attended by the heads of the French and British governments.

Dispatches from Strasbourg announced that 500 Nazis occupied the demilitarized Kehl barracks yesterday and raised the Nazi Swastika flag. Kehl is on the right bank of the Rhine 3 miles east of Strasbourg. It is in Baden.

Premier Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour informed Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon, that the French considered the Kehl occupation and the legalising of the brownshirts as violations of the treaty of Versailles. (The Nazi storm troopers in Germany recently were made supplemental police officers.)

Kehl Raiders Leave.

Strasbourg, France, March 10 (A.P.).—Nazi forces which occupied the barracks at Kehl yesterday were reported today to have evacuated the place and dispersed. They hoisted the German Imperial and the Hitlerite flags before their departures.

Berlin, March 10 (A.P.).—Chancellor Adolf Hitler in an appeal to the German nation tonight ordered his Nazi storm troops to remember their discipline, refrain from molesting business life and to prevent any attacks upon foreigners in Germany.

(Several complaints have been made at the American Embassy in Berlin recently that Nazis had interfered with the rights of Americans. The American Ambassador was assured that the rights of foreigners would be protected.)

Two More Killed.

Nazi drives against Communists and Republicans got under way in earnest today in Bavaria, the last stronghold of Chancellor Hitler's opposition, where a Nazi federal commissioner took control yesterday.

Meanwhile the federal government rushed ahead with its program of bringing the states into an alignment with the Nazi's central administration. The cabinets of Saxony and Baden resigned, and in Saxony Baron Manfred von Killinger, Nazi leader, took over the executive authority.

Two persons were reported killed and more than a score injured in political disorders in various parts of the nation.

and of what had been accomplished by the assembled nations in the last eight months. He asked a few searching questions and the result of the conference was that Mr. Davis' departure for Geneva was postponed sine die. It became known last night that the United States will withhold its principal delegate, Mr. Davis, from the conference until the present discussions have progressed far enough to allow some hope of agreement on the main subjects.

The scene of the principal discussions has been transferred from Geneva to Paris since Thursday night when Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald with his Foreign Minister Sir John Simon arrived in Paris en route to Geneva.

Conference in Paris.

Instead of proceeding directly to the League of Nations the British delegates remained over in Paris, where they have been holding a series of conversations with Premier Daladier and his foreign minister, Paul-Boncour. The topic of concern with both nations has been the rapid rise to power of Hitler in Germany with all the implications that his arrival to power means for the continuance of the conditions of the Treaty of Versailles. The French delegates to the conference will seek a new clause in the projected treaty destined to safeguard French security in the face of what it fears may become a new German attack on the Versailles conditions of peace.

The Paris meetings between the chiefs of both governments is said to be based chiefly on the attempts of both chiefs of state to agree on some mutually satisfactory program to lay before the delegates. The assent of the United States or at least the passive acceptance of this country is a necessary prerequisite to this agreement and the United States is seemingly not disposed to write a blank check for the foreign governments to fill in for their military security.

ECONOMY BILL TALK PORTENDS BIG ROW

President. The only question is, How far we should go?"

Representative McDuffie (Democrat), Alabama: "The bill grants very broad power. The President has the courage to carry it through, which should be done."

One prominent Democratic member of the committee said privately that "it can't pass and it ought not to." He said some substitute might be worked out to effect the economies without turning so much power over to the President.

Another Democrat on the committee described the bill as "awful" in his private comment on it, but refused to discuss it for publication.

Others in Congress had this to say:

Representative Rayburn (Democrat), Texas—"I think that balancing the budget is vital. It is a question of more taxes or reducing expenses. I think the better way is to reduce the cost of Government."

Representative Fish (Republican), New York—"The action of the Congress in creating this Economy Committee to move toward carrying out his recommendations shows, in my opinion, that the President will have the earnest cooperation of the Congress in attempts to balance the budget. Without a balanced budget I think it is virtually impossible to restore public confidence."

Full Text of Roosevelt's Message to Capitol Hill

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

The Nation is deeply gratified by the immediate response given yesterday by the Congress to the necessity for drastic action to restore and improve our banking system. A like necessity exists with respect to the finances of the Government itself which requires equally courageous, frank and prompt action.

For three long years the Federal Government has been on the road toward bankruptcy.

For the fiscal year 1931 the deficit was $462,000,000.

For the fiscal year 1932 it was $2,472,000,000.

For the fiscal year 1933 it will probably exceed $1,200,000,000.

For the fiscal year 1934, based on the appropriation bills passed by the last Congress and the estimated revenues the deficit will probably exceed $1,000,000,000 unless immediate action is taken.

Thus we shall have piled up an accumulated deficit of $5,000,000,000.

With the utmost seriousness I point out to the Congress the profound effect of this fact upon our national economy. It has contributed to the recent collapse of our banking structure. It has accentuated the stagnation of the economical life of our people. It has added to the ranks of the unemployed. Our Government's house is not in order and for many reasons no effective action has been taken to restore it to order.

Upon the unimpaired credit of the United States Government rest the safety of deposits, the security of insurance policies, the activity of industrial enterprises, the value of our agricultural products and the availability of employment. The credit of the United States Government definitely affects these fundamental human values. It, therefore, becomes our first concern to make secure the foundation. National recovery depends upon it.

Too often in recent history liberal governments have been wrecked on rocks of loose fiscal policy. We must avoid this danger.

It is too late for a leisurely approach to this problem. We must not wait to act several months hence. The emergency is accentuated by the necessity of meeting great refunding operations this spring.

We must move with a direct and resolute purpose now. The members of the Congress and I are pledged to immediate economy.

I am, therefore, assuming that you and I are in complete agreement as to the urgent necessity, and my constitutional duty is to advise you as to the methods for obtaining drastic retrenchment at this time.

I am not speaking to you in general terms. I am pointing out a definite road.

The last Congress enacted legislation relating to the reorganization and elimination of executive agencies, but the economies thus to be effected are small when viewed in the light of the great deficit for the next fiscal year. They will not meet the pressing needs of our credit situation. Provision for additional saving is essential, and therefore I am asking the Congress today for new legislation laying down broad principles for the granting of pensions and other veteran benefits, and giving to the Executive the authority to prescribe the administrative details. We are unanimous in upholding the duty of the Government to care for those who suffer in its defense and for their widows and orphans. The application, however, of this great principle to large numbers of people involves complications—so great that it is almost impossible to draw legislation with sufficient flexibility to provide substantial justice in varying situations. The proposed legislation states the principles and, limited by them, permits the Executive to draw the lines of differentiation necessary to justice.

In accord with the same purpose of substantial justice I request also the enactment of legislation relating to the salaries of civil and military employes of the Government. This would repeal the existing furlough plan, substituting therefor a general principle and authorizing the Executive to make application of this principle. The proper legislative function is to fix the amount of expenditure, the means by which it is to be raised and the general principles under which the expenditures are to be made. The details of expenditure, particularly in view of the great present emergency, can be more wisely and equitably administered through the Executive. The flexibility of the measures which I am proposing is not only practical, but proceeds along the road of constitutional government.

Such economies which can be made will, it is true, affect some of our citizens; but the failure to make them will affect all of our citizens. The very stability of our Government itself is concerned, and when that is concerned the benefits of some must be subordinated to the needs of all.

When a great danger threatens our basic security it is my duty to advise the Congress of the way to preserve it. In so doing I must be fair not only to the few but to the many. It is in this spirit that I appeal to you. If the Congress chooses to vest me with this responsibility it will be exercised in a spirit of justice to all, of sympathy to those who are in need and of maintaining inviolate the basic welfare of the United States.

I ask that this legislation go into effect at once, without even waiting for the beginning of the next fiscal year. I give you assurance that if this is done there is reasonable prospect that within a year the income of the Government will be sufficient to cover the expenditures of the Government. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

The White House, March 10, 1933.

HOUSE GROUP VOTES POWER TO PRESIDENT TO SLASH PAY

of the present, would go into effect the first day of the month following approval. It would apply alike to civil and military personnel.

Repeal of the suspension of annual leave provision under the economy act, will mean restoration of 15 days' annual leave with pay. This provision alone would mean compensation amounting to about 4 per cent of the cut.

Veteran Benefits Cuts.

Senator Robinson estimated that the pay-cut provisions would save approximately $120,000,000, while the more sweeping authorization affecting veterans' benefits would save around $400,000,000.

Briefly, the President's authorization to cut veterans' benefits would call for:

Discontinuance of payments for nonservice connected disabilities since the Civil War, except where the disability is permanent.

A 10 per cent cut in pensions from all wars prior to the Civil War.

Adjustment of payments to Spanish-American and World War beneficiaries between the minimum and maximum rates of from $6 to $275 a month in cases of disability, and between $12 and $75, in case of death.

Veteran Aid Restrictions.

Authority to fix the dates of the beginning and end of hostilities, for purposes of compensation. This would pave the way for eliminating many from the rolls whose services were before or after the actual start and finish of the war.

Authority to fix the minimum number of days of service entitling a veteran to compensation, and power to fix the time limits on filing of claims and proofs of injury.

The right to limit emergency retired officers' compensation to those whose injuries were suffered prior to November 11, 1918, and to eliminate presumption that emergency retired officers' injuries were all traceable to service.

Hospital care only for the permanently disabled, and for veterans actually injured in the service.

Introduction of the President's bill "to maintain the credit of the United States" was followed immediately by the adjournment of the Senate to allow time for Senate Finance Committee consideration of the measure and, in the House, by the appointment of a Special Economy Committee of five members.

McDuffie Put in Charge.

Representative McDuffie (Democrat), Alabama, chairman of the old House Economy Committee, was put at the helm of the new one. To serve with him, Speaker Rainey named Representative Milligan (Democrat), Missouri; Representative Woodrum (Democrat), Virginia; Representative Taber (Republican), New York, and Representative McGugin (Republican), Kansas. Appointment of the group was under authorization of a resolution pushed through the House by Democratic Leader Byrns.

Chairman Harrison of the Senate Finance Committee invited the new House economy group immediately to meet in joint session with the Senate body, and from 3 to 5:30 o'clock members of both groups questioned Budget Director Lewis W. Douglas, Veterans' Administrator Frank T. Hines and J. O'Connor Roberts, solicitor for the administration, on provisions of the emergency measure.

Employes to Be Heard.

After the session, Senator Harrison said representatives of veterans and Federal employe organizations would be permitted to present very brief statements after the hearing resumes at 10 o'clock this morning. He said he hopes to get the bill out of committee this morning, and predicted favorable action by the House and Senate.

The House Economy Committee held a meeting immediately afterward and in less than three minutes, unanimously voted the bill favorably out of committee. Chairman McDuffie will report the measure when the House convenes following this morning's Democratic caucus.

Speaker Rainey was optimistic as to the prospects of favorable House action.

Passage Today Forecast.

"We will pass the bill tomorrow," he predicted flatly.

Wide divergence of opinion among senators attending the Senate Finance Committee session indicated the road to Senate passage may not be so easy. Opinions of those leaving the committee room were poles apart.

"It doesn't go far enough," said Senators King (Democrat), Utah, and McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee.

"It goes too far," said Senator Dickinson (Republican), Iowa.

"It is the most revolutionary measure ever introduced in Congress," said Senator Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts.

"Some such power should be given the President," said Seatonr Byrnes (Democrat), South Caroline. "It is only a question of how far it should go."

Borah Sees State Banks Menaced

(Associated Press.)

Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, said last night he voted against President Roosevelt's emergency bank bill because he felt it would destroy State banks and chiefly benefit New York City banks.

Asked why he opposed the bill, along with six other senators, Mr. Borah said:

"There were several reasons why I voted against the bill. One of them was that I feared its indirect effect would destroy our State banks, and, from the telegrams I have received today, I judge I was correct in my diagnosis.

"Second, I felt only a few banks were sufficiently liquid to really get the benefit of the bill and that most of these were in New York City, and that the other banks would in a large measure be unable to comply with the terms of the bill."

Brazilian Border Guard Hard Hit by Diseases

Manaos, Brazil, March 10 (A.P.).—Two Colombian gunboats arrived here today from Sao Paulo de Olivenca, a frontier post, bringing to hospitals Brazilian soldiers ill with typhoid, beri-beri and malaria.

The troops were members of a garrison guarding Brazilian neutrality not far from the Leticia area, over which Peru and Colombia are in dispute.

MONTGOMERY BILLS WAIT STATE ACTION

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 10.—A big group of bills affecting fiscal matters of Montgomery County was among many new legislative proposals presented to the House of Delegates today, before the General Assembly adjourned for the week-end, to reconvene again next Monday night.

Emergency bank legislation was left in an unsettled state because of the many complex problems that have arisen, and the governor's budget for the next biennium and the new gas tax distribution bill, are among many other measures to be disposed of before the 90-day session ends April 4. The latter measure has passed the House, but there are now indications that a fight will be waged against it in the Senate.

Ritchie Makes Plea.

Gov. Ritchie has appealed to all members of the Legislature and State government who have contacts with Maryland's representatives in Congress to communicate with them in behalf of the amendment to the Federal bank relief act that will protect State banks not members of the Federal Reserve System. Meanwhile it was announced that a measure providing for the issuance of State-approved scrip by county banks may be presented to the Assembly when it reconvenes Monday, for passage as a precautionary measure.

Included in the Montgomery proposals were the county's fiscal budget and the following other measures:

Authorizing the commissioners to issue notes in anticipation of proceeds of bond sales, and also for refunding outstanding bonds, including $289,000 maturing before June 30, 1935, and the $100,000 loan for reimbursing deficits from abatements and insolvencies.

Two Bond Measures.

Validating and confirming $60,000 certificates of indebtedness and providing for renewing same; also validating $200,000 emergency fund certificates and $100,000 revolving fund and providing for their renewal.

Authorizing county commissioners to employ agents or brokers to assist in selling bonds and certificates and ratifying said appointments.

Extending the time for payment of uncollected special assessments.

Validating the action of the commissioners in transferring the proceeds of $50,000 road bonds from the 1929 to 1932 levy for use in incorporated towns and special taxing areas and the commissioners district road funds.

Street Renaming Urged.

Cancelling the special assessment levied for street improvements against property abutting upon certain streets in the Bethesda area and authorizing a new assessment.

Empowering the mayor and council of Gaithersburg to postpone tax sales under the 1932-33 and 1933-34 fiscal years until after they are six months in arrears.

Delegate Farrington presented a measure authorizing the park and planning commission to proceed with renaming streets and renumbering houses in certain areas of the Maryland-Washington metropolitan district in order to correct existing confusion over duplications.

The commissioners of Prince Georges County are empowered to reduce from $15,000 to $13,500, the appropriation made to the volunteer fire department of the county, under a bill by the county delegation in the House.

Sackett Confident Dollar Prime Risk

U. S. Envoy Makes Farewell Address to Germans, Lauding Recovery.

Berlin, March 10 (A.P.).—Ambassador Frederic M. Sackett, making a farewell address here today to a German audience before returning to the United States, said he considered the dollar still the best investment under the sun and expressed the opinion that America would quickly overcome its difficulties.

He paid tribute to Germany's marvelous recovery since he assumed the ambassadorship in 1930.

Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen remarked that if all Mr. Sackett's German admirers were to assemble, no hall anywhere would be large enough. Sir Horace Rumbold, the British Ambassador, also attended.

Germany to Mourn Her 2,000,000 Dead

Von Hindenburg to Attend Berlin Service Today Honoring Fallen.

Berlin, March 10 (U.P.).—Germany tomorrow will mourn its 2,000,000 World War dead.

Flags will be flown at half mast on all Federal and most public buildings throughout the nation. The bells of all churches of every denomination will ring for a quarter of an hour, from 1 to 1:15 p. m., in memory of the many who died for the "Fatherland."

A memorial service attended by President Von Hindenburg and other government leaders, will be held in Berlin, promptly at noon, simultaneously with other services in almost every city, town and village in the republic.

Mrs. Teddy Roosevelt Talks to 400 Children

New York, March 10 (A.P.).—At Roosevelt House, a memorial to her husband, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt spoke briefly today at the presentation of Roosevelt honor medallions to 400 boys and girls of New York City.

The widow of the former President stressed the need of character building in youth, saying that while scholarship and intelligence are of great importance, they are secondary to character and honor.

WHEAT VALUES RISE IN WINNIPEG DEALING

Chicago Board of Trade Remains Closed; Dall Seeks Seat.

Chicago, March 10 (A.P.).—Definite announcement was made today that the Chicago Board of Trade will not reopen tomorrow.

President Peter B. Carey said today resumption of business on the exchange must wait upon the banks. "We are so closely allied with the banks that it would be impossible to open before they are in full operation," he said. "If the banks open tomorrow, we could not, as it would take us fully 24 to 48 hours."

Approximately 6 cents a bushel increase in Chicago prices of wheat was indicated today as compared with a week ago, and values of Board of Trade memberships have jumped 50 per cent within 48 hours.

Among new applicants today for a Board of Trade membership was Curtis B. Dall, of New York City. Mr. Dall, a son-in-law of President Roosevelt, holds memberships both on the New York Stock Exchange and the New York Cotton Exchange.

Rise at Winnipeg.

A maximum fresh rise of 1⅝ cents in Winnipeg wheat quotations today drew sharp attention to evidence that Chicago wheat prices were up about 6 cents since this time last week. Chicago grain houses had bids from millers today for immediate delivery of hard winter wheat rates roughly figured as 6 cents above the price which prevailed for May delivery contracts when the Chicago market was closed on account of bank holidays.

Before grain trading was suspended here, the current rate for immediate delivery wheat varied from the same as that for May contracts to ½ cent higher. Latest Chicago quotations on May wheat then was 48¾ to 48⅞ cents a bushel. Temporarily, the 6-cent price jump indicated today can not be turned into cash until the Board of Trade is reopened.

Chicago Traders Buy.

Winnipeg, March 10 (A.P.).—Given a good start by strong support from Chicago traders, wheat futures continued to forge ahead on the grain market today. Offerings again were light and advances were easily held. Trading was fairly active.

Opening ¼-½ cent higher, futures continued to climb steadily. More than an hour after the start values were ¾-⅞ higher, May at 52½, July 53½ and October 54⅞ cents.

Higher opening prices at Liverpool and scarceness of selling pressure offered a strong background to the buying orders put forward by Southern interests. With no prospect of their own market's opening, Chicago grain traders again turned to Winnipeg for an outlet. Their purchases, however, were not made on the scale of yesterday, but were sufficient to give good buoyancy to the market.

For the fifth consecutive day no overnight export trade in Canadian wheat was reported, due to the continued unsettlement of money markets.

Lightness of offerings and support from Southern traders combined with a measure of short covering accounted for further fractional advances and wheat prices closed the session nearly 1 cent higher.

May and October futures closed ⅞c higher at 52¼ and 55, respectively, while July gained ¾ cent to close as 53⅝.

Exchange on London, 88.47. The dollar was unquoted.

Mexico City, March 10 (A.P.).—The National City Bank was paying 3.40 pesos to the American dollar today, slightly more than was paid last week before President Roosevelt's bank holiday.

Reports were current that a foreign and Mexican banking pool had lost heavily in an attempted raid on the dollar.

Banks of Nation Awaiting Orders to Push Industry

New York, March 10 (A.P.).—Spirits were buoyed in financial centers of the Nation today by the prospect of resumption of normal banking activity in many localities by tomorrow or Monday.

The big Wall street banks were ready to resume normal business tomorrow, and awaited permission of Treasury Secretary Woodin, while Stock Exchange quarters looked for resumption of business next week.

Gold and currency was returned to the banks in large volume in New York and many other cities as gold hoarders turned penitent and holders of currency again concluded that the logical place for it was in banks where they had always kept it.

Several quarters in Wall street hoped that the drastic program adopted to put the banking structure on a sound footing once more would mark the end of three years of deflation through restoration of confidence.

Toronto, March 10 (A.P.).—The outlook for higher prices for commodities supported listing on the Toronto Stock Exchange today and gave the market a firm close and with a majority of gains. Traders are awaiting apparently for the New York market to reopen before assuming any additional commitments and the result was low trading volume, only 5,372 shares.

Firmness in the base-metal stocks, nickel and smelters, imparted a good tone to the whole list. Moving within a swing of only one-eighth, International Nickel closed with a gain of ½, at 9⅝. Volume in the stock was the lowest of any session so far this week. Smelters continued an active trader and closed with a gain of half a point, at 64½.

Montreal, March 10 (A.P.).—Buying on London account forced up the price of British Columbia Power "A" 2¼ points, to 17¼, on the Montreal Stock Exchange today. Sales in the issue during the first two hours amounted to upward of 1,000 shares. The "B" stock was steady at 4.

The rest of the market was quiet but firm. Both International Nickel and Brazilian registered quarter-point advances, the former at 9¾ and Brazilian at 8¼. Consolidated Smelters added ½, at 64½, while Canadian Pacific remained stationary at 11⅜.

International Nickel lost part of its early gain to close ⅛ higher, at 9⅜. Consolidated Smelters was up at ¾, at 64¾; Brazilian Traction was ¼ higher, at 8¼, and Canadian Pacific moved up ¼, to 11⅛.

British Columbia Power advanced 2¼ to 17¼, a new high for the present movement, on the strength of London buying. Other utilities did not budge from Thursday's closing level.

London, March 10 (A.P.).—Business on the stock exchange closed quietly confident, some irregular movements being due to profit taking after the recent rise in prices.

Transatlantic shares showed up best in the trading and scored general net improvements, including a rise of two points in United States Steel from $39 at the opening to $41.

NEW YORK.

SUGAR—Raw sugar was quiet today, and aside from confirmation of a sale of 31,500 bags of Puerto Rican concluded late yesterday at 2.96 cents no sales were reported. This represented a decline of 2 points from the last previous sale of nearby sugars, and while it was generally believed refiners would pay this price for certain positions the demand was not very general. On the other hand, nothing was firmly offered below 3 cents. Some holders asked even higher.

The refined market was unchanged at 4.10 cents. Withdrawals against contracts placed earlier in the week continued fair, indicating that the invisibles were being built up.

COFFEE—Quiet, but steady today. In the spot market Santos 4s were quoted nominally at 9¼ to 9¾ cents, and Rio 7s at 8¼ cents. Cost and freight offerings ranged from unchanged to 10 points higher. Santos Bourbon 3s and 5s being held at 8.40@8.70. Demand, which had been broad early in the week at levels 10 to 20 points lower, had tapered off.

BALTIMORE.

PRODUCE—Chickens, medium, 14@15; young, colored, 15@17; broilers, 1¾ to 2¼ lbs., 18@21; others unchanged. Eggs, 13.

REOPENING OF BANKS.

Under the executive order issued by the President yesterday the process of reopening banks will begin at once. The twelve Federal Reserve banks will open today and will distribute the new currency to member banks which have obtained licenses from the Secretary of the Treasury. Slight delays on the part of some banks in offering prescribed securities in exchange for new currency may defer the time of reopening, but will not give ground for the inference that such banks are unsound. The Treasury has worked out a standard for the granting of licenses to banks belonging to the Federal Reserve system.

By agreement between Federal Reserve banks and State authorities, the reopening of State banks will coincide with the reopening of national banks, all under the limitations prescribed in the President's order. No banks may pay out gold or gold certificates except in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury. Foreign exchange transactions needed for the fulfillment of contracts entered into before March 6 will be permitted. Americans traveling abroad will be enabled to obtain gold.

The provision of the new law which authorizes banks to issue preferred stock, to which the Reconstruction Corporation may subscribe, will enable many banks to resume normal functions after brief delay. In other cases the prompt appointment of conservators will safeguard the interests of depositors and may bring about the reopening of many banks.

The amount of new currency about to circulate is not fixed, but will depend upon the needs of banks. Supplies of currency are now speeding to all parts of the country, to be distributed through Federal Reserve banks.

Federal authorities are well pleased with the progress already made toward restoration of normal conditions by taking quick action under the new law. No obstacle now remains to prevent the reopening of solvent banks. The time required for obtaining licenses and converting securities into the new currency will be very short. Therefore it may be expected that the President will soon issue his proclamation terminating the bank holiday.

AN OLD REMEDY.

The similarity between the present bank crisis and the panic of 1907 has been frequently noted. It now appears that the Government intends to use a remedy that was devised as a result of that emergency.

No extended period of hard times preceded the 1907 crisis. It was merely a monetary panic. In some States the governors declared banking holidays. Savings banks required three months' notice for the withdrawal of deposits. All banks suspended specie payment, and clearing house certificates were issued in most cities.

As a result of this panic Congress made an investigation of banking and monetary conditions and devised the Aldrich-Vreeland act, which was passed in 1908. It provided for an emergency issue of bank notes so that banks would be in a position to pay their depositors and thus allay their fears. Groups of national banks, having an aggregate capital and surplus of at least $5,000,000, formed national currency associations. These associations were authorized to take bonds and sound commercial paper from their members in return for currency. No bank was allowed to obtain an amount of these notes in excess of its capital and surplus.

In this way more currency could be poured into the banks in times of emergency. Such emergency notes were put in circulation as a result of the financial strain of 1914 due to the world war. Apparently they served a useful purpose. Fears were quieted, and credit once more became normal.

Congress was extremely careful in that act to provide for retirement of the emergency notes. It is easy to put currency into circulation. The difficult thing is to retire it. If the securities supporting the notes were not government bonds, the notes were taxed at the rate of 5 per cent a year, with taxes gradually increasing to 10 per cent. When the demand for currency was pressing the banks could afford to pay the tax, but when the demand subsided they were forced to retire the emergency notes and thus reduce the circulating medium to normal proportions. The emergency was met without debasing the currency.

NOW FOR ECONOMY.

President Roosevelt's demand for a balanced budget, coming on the heels of his sweeping measures to restore confidence in the banks, is a powerful blow at the depression. It was not necessary for the President to enumerate the perils that have been brought upon the country by the failure of Congress to put Federal finances in order. The people realize too well that the "Government has been on the road toward bankruptcy." They realize that the Nation can not go forward so long as the Government continues to pile up huge deficits. With a thundering voice of approval the public joins with the President in demanding reduced expenditures.

The country is anxiously waiting to see what Congress will do in response to this message. Mr. Roosevelt asks for a broad grant of power to slash expenditures. But Congress can not escape its responsibility. The Constitution forbids Congress to delegate its legislative powers to the President or any one else. Congress passed the laws under which about $950,000,000 are paid out to veterans. If extravagant doles to veterans who suffered no injury as a result of their service are to be eliminated from this vast outlay, Congress must repeal or modify the law under which they are paid. The country is looking to Congress for immediate action in this direction.

In his last annual message to Congress President Hoover urgently recommended a slash in veterans' expenditures as the only practicable means of balancing the budget. The "lame duck" Congress ignored his advice, and sent to him for signature a bill which increased the allowance for veterans. Mr. Hoover promptly vetoed it, thus giving President Roosevelt this opportunity to demand immediate reduction of the veterans' dole.

A new Congress is now in session. President Roosevelt emphasizes the fact that "the members of the Congress and I are pledged to immediate economy." He points out a specific method by which that economy can be brought about. There will be some hedging and squirming on Capitol Hill, but no member of Congress can evade the issue. Mr. Roosevelt insists on carrying out the covenant which the Democratic party made with the people in the campaign. No Democrat can refuse to stand by him without being false to his party. No member of Congress can oppose this assault on extravagance without exposing himself as a foe of the taxpaying public.

The people will scrutinize every vote on the new veterans' compensation bill without regard for partisanship. Members of Congress who fail to heed the demands of the public for relief from the burden of veterans' doles may expect to feel the sting of public resentment.

Savings that might be made by further reduction of Government salaries, if Congress should consider that extreme measure necessary, would be insignificant in comparison to the possible economies in the Veterans' Administration. Enormous aggregate doles to individuals who render no service to the Government, and not Federal salaries, are the crux of the issue.

Elimination of the deficit for the next fiscal year through economies would be the greatest contribution that Congress could make to recovery. Business is waiting for a solid basis on which to build for the future. If Congress manifests its courage and its ability to act on this problem, many difficulties of the near future will be smoothed out. With the Government's finances on a sound basis, more employment will be created in private industry than the Government could hope to create through public works. Let Congress clear the way for private enterprise to function.

WAGES AND DIVIDENDS.

Exaggerated statistics, purporting to show an increase in the earnings of capital while the wages of labor are severely contracted, have been frequently published in recent months. In many instances they have proved inaccurate, and in some cases where technically accurate they have been extremely misleading because only one phase of the situation has been presented. Using Government figures wherever they are available the Standard Statistics Company, of New York, has published a report to set the matter straight.

Dividends paid to common stockholders did not increase between 1929 and 1932, as has been frequently claimed, but decreased by 56 per cent. During the same period total wage payments in manufacturing industries fell off 62 per cent. When the total pay rolls for all industries are considered the fall in wages is shown to be somewhat less than that. These figures should not be confused with the actual amounts going into wages and dividends. Wage payments amount to about seven times the total of dividends during a year.

It is apparent from this study that investors and wage earners fared much the same during this period of depression. There has been a great deal of pressure for the maintenance of wages and retention of employes, but most corporations have compromised, trimming down their forces as well as reducing their dividends. The wisdom of this policy is open to serious question. Reduction of pay rolls is more quickly reflected in loss of purchasing power than is reduction of dividends. If all industries had given more attention to bolstering up purchasing power and less to payment of dividends to maintain fictitious stock values, the depression might have been less severe.

Workingmen and their families must live whether they have work or not. When unemployed they become a burden upon society and must be maintained through higher taxes which are imposed upon industry. It might be cheaper to retain employes than to pay taxes to give them jobs building unproductive government buildings.

One other factor is still more vital. Economists seem to agree that lack of purchasing power was a vital influence in bringing about hard times. Contraction of purchasing power is a danger signal that no manufacturer can afford to ignore. The experience of this depression may induce industrial chiefs to lay more emphasis upon wages than upon dividends. When the great need of industry is a market it is disastrous to prevent the extension of purchasing power in favor of building up a larger capital structure. The day may come when industry will learn to keep a better economic balance by raising wages and lowering dividends when a speculative boom begins.

Reduction of Federal pay that has already been reduced will not help much, but elimination of compensation to non-war-disabled veterans can save $400,000,000 in one fell swoop. It's up to you, Congress!

Don't forget that present measures insure American adherence to the gold standard and the honest dollar. The United States has both the necessary gold and the necessary integrity.

One expense the people are not going to complain about is the excessive use of electric light at the White House in the last few nights.

CONGRESS AND TRANSPORT

From the Traffic World.

Out of a session of Congress that was expected to produce nothing of importance in the field of transportation regulation came a forward step in the act providing for further regulation by the Shipping Board of common and contract carriers by water in interstate commerce engaged in transportation by way of the Panama Canal.

The passage of this act by Congress and its approval by the President constituted a significant change of attitude on the part of Congress as, until this session, it had ignored pleas for such regulation. Further regulation of the intercoastal shipping lines as provided in the act subjects an important form of transport service to regulation in a manner at least approaching that to which the railroads are subjected. Therefore, Congress has set a precedent in the direction of equalization of regulation of transport agencies.

This action by Congress may be the forerunner—and we hope it is—of similar treatment of other carriers by water, such as those on the inland waterways, including the Government barge line so long as it is in existence, and of highway transport.

Equalization of regulation of the various agencies of transport has been urged by us for a long time and we are gratified to see this accomplishment, though it is not in accordance with our ideas as to one regulating body—or coordinated regulating bodies—for all agencies of transport. We are advised, however, that this end may be accomplished by President Roosevelt under the reorganization powers conferred on him by Congress, so far as the regulation of shipping is concerned, by transfer of the regulatory duties of the Shipping Board to the commission. We hope that the reports that President Roosevelt plans to centralize all regulation of transport agencies in the commission are true. If the new Congress, as it should, deals effectively with the question of regulation of motor transport, and the President's reorganization plan should result in making the commission the transportation regulating agency, we think a great step forward will have been taken toward ending the chaos that exists because of lack of equalization of regulation.

It was originally proposed that the Shipping Board should have power to prescribe minimum rates after hearing. We think this power should have been granted, as it would have enabled the board to regulate the rates more effectively. Grant of such power would have put the board in the position of preventing rate wars among the steamship lines. However, the publication and observation of the known rates and charges will be of substantial benefit in bringing about stability in intercoastal rates.

Spring Is Here!

POST HASTE.

Not being able to decide whether to be proud of its celerity or abashed over its present unimportance, Congress is temporarily hiding behind its inferiority complex.

From the way it was returned to the authors it must have been discovered to be manu-scrip.

That astute political sleuth, Frank Kent, has discovered that the Democratic after-taste with dark brown spots, prevalent in the non-Rainey group, is caused by the realization that the Tammany Tiger effected the winning combination.

It will take a long time for "bank holiday" to regain its former cheerful significance, with visions of seashore and country.

Abu Ben Borah led the opposition band of seven in the reappearance of "a little group of willful men."

The army of office-seekers is mightily cheered. Positions for about 5,000 "conservators" appear in the offing that they hadn't counted on.

If you can understand the provisions of the emergency banking bill don't hesitate to announce your candidacy for the Federal Reserve Board.

A number of congressmen who were out-ducked last week are sticking around to poke fun at the fetters of the newly inducted.

A lot of folks are discovering that a financial storm, like any other, is not as bad after it breaks as was feared from the foretokening darkness, thunder and lightning.

When at a loss for a novel metaphorical comparison why not call the depression war?

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE PRINCIPLE OF THE THING.

The meanest man I've ever known
Of principle a fetish made;
He wanted all that was his own.
The final penny must be paid.

And this the burden of his cry,
And this the song he used to sing:
"'Tis not the money sued for. I
Have principles to which I cling."

Poor principle is that I find
A right the poor of purse to grind
Although men do it legally.

Rather than stand for what is right
At such a cruel painful cost
I'd rather soundly sleep at night

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE: You have reached the point, to which all youth of any promise comes soon or late, where the long way stretching ahead threatens to be a desert waste unless you can accomplish something big in the world.

Well, perhaps you are destined to set the woods afire. If you have the gift, nothing can stop you. But don't burden yourself with the idea that all of us are here to accomplish something big, failing in which we are disgraced and doomed to a life of shame and remorse.

The plan of nature, as you may learn by observation or by study of the little history man has uncovered, is one of growth and development.

Progress may be slow, but our race, like the earth we inhabit, is in a constant state of change that develops new merits step by step without ceasing.

There may be little change in one generation, and the ultimate goal of perfection may be millions of years away, but the process continues always and each advance makes the plan seem clearer.

To prevent any possibility of failure, nature is prodigal beyond all understanding. If one egg is to be made fertile, a million life germs are provided to fertilize it.

The tree in the forest develops and scatters ten thousand seed where but one more tree has space to grow.

The fish in the sea lay so many eggs that if all should hatch and the young reach maturity, there soon would be no open water in which to swim.

Turtles crawl upon the warm beach to lay their eggs, and millions of baby turtles hatch safely in the sand and then hasten to reach the safety of the sea.

Why so many? To make sure that the necessary few will survive.

Do all people move civilization forward? Not one in many thousands. Some follow a leader; some lag behind; some interfere. In each generation there may be but one to collaborate in the great plan and set a new and higher standard.

Many are called and few are chosen. Only the rare great spirits can be partners of God.

If you have five talents, use them. If you have none, be content to enjoy the privilege of living.

In any case you will be useful—whether you realize it or not. The seeds that seem wasted are eaten by the birds, or they enrich the soil for the one destined to become a great tree. Love, DAD.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Republicans Stand By.

New York Times.

Democrats in the Seventy-third Congress are all dressed up with a majority of 195 in the House and a majority of 22 in the Senate—but nowhere to go. Of what earthly use are towering majorities if there is no minority to tower over? What possible satisfaction can there be in mighty Democratic avalanches poised to crush and rend and sweep all obstacles out of the way if the Republicans spring forward as one man, not to stand in the way, but to cooperate?

Will Help Prices.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

The importance of the proposed expansion of currency lies in the fact that it will provide money for business to move. It is entirely likely that the rock bottom of the depression has been passed. The expansion should tend to stimulate prices. This is precisely the tonic that business needs. If the administration and the bankers keep the expansion within legitimate bounds, the issue is certain to be enormously helpful.

They're Busted.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

This ought to be a good time for the technocrats, who say they can do without money, to circulate ergs.

Detroit News.

The world map is just a jig-saw. After it is laboriously put together with blood and tears no one can think of anything to do but break it up again.

Bargain Days.

New York Sun.

You can buy a seat on the New York Stock Exchange now for $90,000. And have a "Do Not Disturb" sign, two pillows and an extra blanket thrown in.

Robinson Retains Post.

Houston Post.

Retention of Senator Joe T. Robinson, of Arkansas, as floor leader of the Democrats in the Senate is an act by Senate Democrats that is reassuring to the country. It is one more development justifying popular confidence in the new deal at Washington.

The Democrats are now the majority in the Senate and Mr. Robinson becomes majority leader. His responsibility is greater than when he was leader of a minority. That he will measure up to the demands of his position goes without saying. The senator has had long experience in leadership of his party on the Senate floor, and he has demonstrated his ability and his far-seeing statesmanship.

The country is fortunate in having a man of Senator Robinson's experience and sanity in the leadership of the majority in the upper house during this critical period.

British Faith in Roosevelt.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

Comments from Great Britain upon the inauguration of President Roosevelt at a time of financial crisis contain statements which should be reassuring to the American people. Summarized, these comments, as reported in press dispatches, reveal that the British believe the Federal Reserve banking system of the United States to be in an eminently strong position, so that the work of restoring the economic situation should be facilitated; that the immediate crisis is one of internal banking only, and that there is nothing insuperably baffling or mysterious in present condition, which should enable the American people, under the strong leadership of the President to recover from it quickly. With practical unanimity, the London newspapers express the opinion that Mr. Roosevelt is fully equal to the task.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Bank Depositors Act According to Human Nature—Why Not Shape Banking Laws Accordingly?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Because bank depositors are given only trivial consideration in much of what is said in the public discussion of financial panics, I would like to say something in that connection.

In my opinion where we principally fail in our concept of national economics is in not keeping constantly in mind the primary definition of money in the abstract—that is, in its unobstructed functioning as a medium of exchange. To the extent in which it is hampered by its necessarily concrete basis it falls short of being the ideal handmaid of barter, which we would like it to be.

If they fully realized this, our public and private thinkers would not constantly treat the temperamental reactions of bank depositors as an unknown or uncertain quantity, making not much of an effort to give it anything like a definite relationship to the fiscal scheme. The "banking business" would itself see the futility of academic talks on the evils of hoarding and the need for confidence as an economic safeguard, and our best minds would be set to work to give confidence a footing solid enough for the reassurance of human nature as at present constituted.

It is not too much to say that it is the fault of the banks rather than of the bank depositors when there is a banking panic in a country like ours, blessed with abundant wealth, potential as well as accrued.

The methods and scope of the banking business can be changed to fit changed conditions, while the reactions of human nature in respect to hard-earned savings, deposited in banks are not subject to change. That is where the traditional and common idea of banking fails to meet the requirements of present-day populations of hundreds of millions. The framework of the crudely standardized system of the past should be legislatively modified to meet the situation.

Yet there are still many who seem to be under the influence of something sacerdotal in the old system. There are politicians, college professors, professional economists and even editors whose way of looking at it continues to be that in the mysterious workings of Providence runs on banks are bound to happen like stampedes of wild Western steers in a round-up.

In his condemnation of those who may consider it ethical to take gambling chances with the money of others, President Roosevelt seems to be headed in the right direction.

PLAIN CITIZEN.

American Academy of Music at Vienna Will Cultivate Old Traditions.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Courses in music especially arranged for American students will be the principal feature of the new American Academy of Music, in Vienna. Richard Strauss, the famous composer, has accepted the honorary presidency of the institution. He will be supported by Clemens Krauss, conductor of the Vienna Opera; Alban Berg and Ernst Krenek, among others. The University of Vienna and the State Opera, in cooperation with the Austro-American Institute of Education, are sparing no effort in making the new academy worthy of the best cultural traditions of Austria.

The object of the school is to bring American teachers and students of music into direct contact with modern composers and compositions and to familiarize them with Slav, German, Austrian and Hungarian folk lore and folk song as well. It is hoped that this contact will create a deeper understanding between the musicians of both continents.

In addition to the teaching of instrumental and vocal music of all kinds, composition dancing, folk dancing and folk lore will be included in the regular courses. The new academy is in part an outgrowth of the vacation courses organized during the past 10 summers by Dr. Paul Dengler, head of the Austro-American Institute of Vienna. The courses have formerly been held in Vienna and in the North Tyrol. These will be supplemented next summer by an additional one to be held at Baden, near the Austrian capital.

J. F. PARKER.

Confidence Is a Double-Geared Proposition—Banks Should Have Confidence in the Public.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The press and our Government are exhorting us to have confidence in our banks, but the public can have little confidence in their banks unless the banks show confidence in the public.

How many banks have openly laid their cards on the table, and posted up an accurate statement of their affairs for everyone who can read?

This should plainly state the amount of cash on hand, and the amounts and nature of their investments, and indicate in no uncertain terms the grave effects which would certainly ensue if they were forced to realize those investments by compulsory sale.

It must be most emphatically and clearly emphasized that a run on a bank brings about the ruin of depositors making it. At the same time it can be plainly shown that by moderate and reasonable withdrawals, the deposits are absolutely safe.

The vast majority of our business men are reasonable and open to honest argument.

If the people trust the banks, the banks must trust the people.

There are many more able minds than mine who could draw up an appeal suitable for the occasion.

Miss Irma Briggs will sing several selections, accompanied by Milton Strauss. Frederic William Wile will address the group.

Christian Science Churches

"Substance" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow. The golden text is from Hosea, 12:6: "Turn thou to thy God; keep mercy and judgment, and wait on thy God continually." Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "For the invisible things of Him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead" (Romans 1:20). The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Text Book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "How true it is that whatever is learned through material sense must be lost because such so-called knowledge is reversed by the spiritual facts of being in Science. That which material sense calls tangible is found to be substance. What to material sense seems substance, becomes nothingness, as the sense-dream vanishes and reality appears." (Page 312.)

WASHINGTON BISHOP CATHEDRAL SPEAKER

Dr. Freeman Will Preach at Evensong; Lenten Rites Continued.

The Right Rev. Dr. James Edward Freeman and the Rev. Dr. G. Freeland Peter will be the preachers at the services to be held in the great choir on Mount St. Alban tomorrow. Bishop Freeman will occupy the pulpit at the people's evensong service at 4 o'clock, and Canon Peter will deliver the sermon at the service of morning prayer and Holy Communion at 10:30 o'clock.

There will be celebration of the Holy Communion in the Bethlehem Chapel at 7:30 o'clock. After the two services in the great choir pilgrimages will be conducted through the Cathedral and its crypts.

Lenten lectures will be held in the Cathedral immediately following evensong at 4:30 o'clock, in accordance with the following schedule:

Wednesday, the Rev. Calvert E. Buck, superintendent of the Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital, on "Doctrine, Basis of Conduct."

Bishop of Ohio Lenten Preacher

Right Rev. W. R. Rogers at Epiphany Church Next Week.

Dr. Z. B. Phillips, rector of Epiphany, will occupy his pulpit at the 11 a. m. service tomorrow, and the preacher at evensong, at 8 o'clock, will be the Rev. Alvin Lamar Wills.

The special preacher at the noonday services next week, Monday to Friday, inclusive, will be the Right Rev. Warren L. Rogers, Bishop of Ohio. Congressional Club Tea Attended by Mrs. Roosevelt.

MRS. ROOSEVELT YESTERDAY afternoon attended the regular Friday tea at the Congressional Club, which was given by the members to honor the wives of the new members of Congress.

Mrs. Roosevelt arrived at 4 o'clock, accompanied by her secretary, Mrs. Malvina Thompson Scheider, wearing a smart ensemble of gray, which was a divergence from her favorite blue. She was met by Mrs. Clarence C. Dill, wife of Senator Dill, elected president of the club. In the tea room, the wives of the new members of Congress had assembled in a line, and Mrs. Roosevelt herself, proposed going down the line to greet each one individually rather than having them pass in front of her.

Mrs. Dill and members of the governing board presided at the tea table, which was decorated with spring flowers, and were assisted by Mrs. Charles West, Mrs. Samuel B. Hill, Mrs. Carroll L. Beedy, Mrs. John H. Small and Mrs. Paul J. Kvale.

On returning to the White House Mrs. Roosevelt received a small group of friends for tea.

The Ambassador of Germany and Frau von Prittwitz und Gaffron will be the guests of honor at a breakfast to be given tomorrow by Mrs. Mark Reid Yates at the Collingwood Tea House on the Potomac.

The Minister of Hungary, Count Szechenyi, will leave the end of this month to go to England. Countess Szechenyi and their four daughters will remain in Washington during the spring, possibly until June.

The Minister of Bulgaria and Mme. Radeff will entertain at dinner this evening.

Mme. Sze, wife of the Minister of China, is not expected to come to Washington until autumn.

Mrs. Bloom, wife of Representative Sol Bloom, entertained at luncheon yesterday, having among her guests Mr. and Mrs. John Franklin Carter, jr., Mrs. Kendrick Phillips, Mme. Sokolowska, Miss Vera Bloom and Mr. Donald Friede, of New York. Mr. Carter's latest book, "Death in the Senate," was reviewed at the Friday morning book review at the Carlton by Mrs. Phillips.

Mr. and Mrs. Carter entertained at tea yesterday afternoon in honor of Mr. Friede.

Representative Fred J. Sisson, with Mrs. Sisson, has taken an apartment at Wardman Park Hotel, where they will be in residence until the end of the present session.

Representative D. Lane Powers, of New Jersey, who is at the Shoreham, has been joined by Mrs. D. Lane Powers and daughter, Miss Elane Powers, where they expect to remain permanently. Mrs. Powers' mother, Mrs. Peter D. Thropp, and Mr. Peter D. Thropp, jr., of Trenton, N. J., are visiting them.

Senor Luis Olivares will sail March 15 from Europe to assume his duties as First Secretary of the Spanish Embassy here. Senor Olivares is taking the place of Senor Jose Gomez-Acebo, who was transferred.

The Assistant Military Attache of the French Embassy, Lieut. Col. Emmanuel Lombard, will go today to New York to attend the annual reunion of the First Division of the A. E. F. at the Commodore Hotel this evening.

Gen. and Mrs. Crosby to Give Dinner on March 17.

The retiring Commissioner of the District, Maj. Gen. Herbert Crosby, and Mrs. Crosby will entertain at dinner Friday evening, March 17, before the Friday evening dancing class.

Lieut. George D. Crosby, who has been visiting his parents, has left for his post at Fort McPherson, in Atlanta, Ga., accompanied by his sister, Miss Jane Crosby, who will visit Lieut. and Mrs. Albert Morgan at Fort McPherson for a month.

The Rev. Dr. W. Coleman Nevils, S. J., president of Georgetown University, will entertain at tea on Sunday, March 19.

Mrs. Monroe Irwin, of San Francisco, Calif., has arrived in the East for a lengthy stay and during her visit in Washington will be at Wardman Park Hotel.

Mrs. C. R. Warder, of this city, has moved to Wardman Park Hotel.

Letters of a Capital Society Divorcee to Her Mother

Dearest Mother: At last Clare's ring arrived! It is a square diamond and enormous. She is wearing it today, although she doesn't get her divorce until tomorrow. It seems so funny to me, these girls who wear engagement rings when they are still married to someone else. We had a little supper party in her apartment and are going to bed fairly early so we will be fresh and rested to get her divorce. Mr. Sadler, the manager of the hotel, is her resident witness, and he and I and her lawyer leave tomorrow at 9 o'clock for the court. Her beau called her up twice today to tell her to be calm and not to make any slips, and tomorrow night after the divorce she is going to call him. The telephones work overtime out here. Then we have a cocktail party right afterward, and a luncheon and a dinner party tomorrow night in her honor, and she leaves at 9:20. I want to go, too, and can hardly wait for my turn to come. I will certainly never forget Reno. I suppose the time will go somehow, but I feel as if I have been here all my life.

Did I tell you about the woman who got very nervous before the judge and when he asked her where she lived she said, "What do you mean—out here or at home?" Her lawyer frowned at her and the judge repeated the question, and the second time she said, "Oh yes, Reno." Then the judge asked her if she intended to make Reno her permanent home, and she said, "Oh no, I just came out here to get the divorce." She was trembling and shaking and nearly passing out. Even after such breaks, the judge granted the divorce. They said he was sweet about it and seemed to feel only sorry for her. I suppose that woman was less obnoxious to him than a woman who answered "Sure do!" to every question. Devotedly

Personal Property Tax Put on Buses

Firms Must Pay Levy as Well as Eight Mills Per Carrier Mile.

Companies operating common carrier buses in the District must pay personal property taxes, as well as 8 mills per bus mile, as specified in the new District license act under regulations adopted yesterday by the District Commissioners upon recommendation of Corporation Counsel William W. Bride.

Sightseeing and charter buses must pay an initial license fee of $100 plus personal property assessments. All buses must pay taxes on mileage over the highways under the jurisdiction of the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks as well.

These regulations were adopted after hearings by the Corporation Counsel's office and over the protests of several of the bus lines.

Friends Here Send Cash To Maj. Pratt in Florida

Friends of Maj. Henry G. Pratt, former superintendent of police here, yesterday rounded up sufficient cash to rescue him from a stranded condition at Key West, Fla., where the bank holiday caught him without funds.

The retired police head appealed to his friends when he discovered that his check book was not effective. He was spending a short vacation in Florida.

AVOIDING A GRAND SLAM.

UNTIL the adoption of the new International Code of Contract laws, it was not difficult to keep out of Grand Slam bids, because few players ever attempted anything but lay down Grand Slams either in Rubber or Duplicate play. The risk of losing to an undiscoverable Ace in the opponents' hands or even possibly a minor honor in the trump suit or the taking of a losing finesse was too great to justify a bid of this type. However, with the increased bonuses for Grand Slams, the bidding of them has become much more frequent, because the human quality of greed works as a powerful incentive to urge the player on to take a chance, and this chance should be taken if the probability of success is at least even, because of the greater premium for the Grand Slam. The Four and Five Notrump Convention, the new device in the Culbertson System for pointing the way to safe Grand Slams and avoiding unsafe Grand Slams, was clearly shown on the hand below, played recently in a New York City Duplicate match by Mr. William B. Tower, jr., in the South position. The fact that in making it Mr. Tower had the opportunity for that rather rare play, the Grand Coup, is only incidental. The point is in the bidding, in which Mr. Tower and his partner stopped at the Small Slam instead of going on to the Grand Slam, as some playres did who did not use this safety device in Slam bidding.

South, Dealer.

1—The Jump Trump Rebid, showing a six-card or longer suit with not more than one loser.
2—Using the Four-Five Notrump Convention, this bid shows two Aces and the King of a bid suit. The bid is perfectly safe, despite the fact that North does not hold adequate support for hearts and South has not supported diamonds because of the Jump Trump Rebid by Mr. Tower.
3—If South held two Aces, he would now bid five notrump, but as he holds but one he puts on the brakes by rebidding his suit.
4—North's choice is close between six hearts and six diamonds. However, South has never supported diamonds and has shown no more than one loser in his trump suit. In view of this, unquestionably six hearts is the better bid, as North can easily run up against extremely unfavorable distribution.

The Opening lead was the club Ace, followed by a second round of the suit. Mr. Tower then laid down two rounds of trumps, finding that, in order to make his contract, it would be necessary to shorten his own trumps to the same number as those held by East, so that the trump Knave might be picked up through a coup. A diamond was led and won with the Ace in Dummy, and a small diamond returned and trumped. Dummy was reentered by leading the third round of clubs, the King of diamonds led and ruffed in the closed hand. The shortening of the long trump hand had been accomplished. Now a small spade was led to the Ace in Dummy and another diamond led, upon which a small spade was discarded by Mr. Tower. The coup was successfully executed by the lead of the last diamond from Dummy.

A New Yorker at Large

By MARK BARRON

New York, March 10.—A bizarre phenomenon in New York is the enthusiasm with which the town has become Mae West-conscious.

This blonde woman is indeed an amazing, fascinating character. With her insinuating nasal voice and her intriguing eyes, she has captivated the town that once sent her to jail because she had been a naughty girl on the stage.

What a comeback! And how she must chuckle to herself when she gets applause from a city that condemned her a few years ago.

No Ingenue.

Not that I'm trying to picture Mae as a sweet little home girl. She is anything except that. She knows life, knows all the answers and has ever since those days when she hired Harry Richman as a pianist and started out to show vaudeville audiences "that wild shimmy dance."

She admits she likes men, especially the big "rough, tough and ugly type." But, she's never gotten married and is glad she didn't.

To The Station, James!

It seemed that the police censors were backing the patrol wagon up to the stage door and hauling her actors to the calaboose almost every night.

People were making accusations against her then, the kind of charges that are derived mostly from malicious gossip. I remember getting a letter from her about that time defending herself against these accusations.

The one time I've seen her outside the theater was at a party the other afternoon. She came alone, didn't smoke, didn't drink, seemed utterly bored with all the hilarity and went home early.

Mae admits an age of 27, but there are those who call 32 nearer the correct figure. She grew up in Brooklyn, and first started acting at the age of 5 when roaming around Flushing doing an imitation of Eva Tanguay. She was only 12 when she joined a stock company and played, of all things, the role of Little Lord Fauntleroy.

Her father was a middleweight prize fighter, and quite a top notcher. Her mother was born in France, and, until she died in 1930, was Mae's constant pal.

When they brought her word that her mother was dead Mae was starring in the very successful "Diamond Lil." Well, she was one trouper who ignored the old axiom of "the show must go on." She closed the play for four nights.

The Meanderer

Finds Choice Sea Food Appealing to Many Housewives—and Low Prices on Common and Uncommon Foods.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Spanish mackerel, shad and trout are selling rapidly in sea food markets with the necessity in many families of planning Lenten menus. Bass, halibut, flounder and pompano are attracting buyers, also.

Tomato juice is bought economically in a 50-ounce can for 25 cents. This tomato juice is of standard brand, selling in a chain store.

Canned Florida grapefruit, a staple on many pantry shelves, costs but 10 cents a can in the chain store selling the low-priced tomato juice.

Calf's foot jelly, flavored with port, sherry or brandy, or unflavored, often chosen as a delicacy for invalids, is supplied patrons in a well-known, well-stocked grocery on Fourteenth street downtown.

Large-sized capers in vinegar, the largest the Meanderer has found on the local market, sell in an Italian importer's shop in a big downtown market.

Cheese of an excellent brand in attractive packages has been reduced to 15 cents for half-pounds in chain stores.

The spice cake for 49 cents that has become almost an institution with Meandererings readers is selling today in the two bakeries in the shopping district where the cake originated. The spice cake is put together with raisin-caramel icing.

Swiss sap sago, or green cheese, used as any other cheese is used, is particularly good as an appetizer, after being grated, mixed with butter and spread on rye bread. Two places in the Meanderer's rounds are sources for this green cheese.

Peanut oil is being introduced for cooking in a special package featured by a department store. The package, costing 28 cents, contains a pint of peanut oil, a 10-ounce jar of peanut butter and a recipe book.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

POOR-APPETITE CHILDREN.

THE charge that doctors disagree is partly true—about as true as the lack of agreement between judges on the bench and of lawyers before it; of politicians, merchants, financiers and economists. The alliteration "listens so easily" that in the popular mind it is given more prominence than it deserves. Occasionally, however, they do manage to agree. One subject that they do not quarrel over in this year of grace is the cause of poor appetite in babies and older children.

They are of one mind on the subject of unimportance of diets. They are agreed that when a child has a poor appetite the cause is not to be sought in the bottle or in the foods set before older children. The fault lies with the child. They even go further and agree that the trouble with the child is on the mental and social side rather than the physical.

"Children have dominating personalities. A strong element of negativism is present in most children. The older they are the more opinionated they become.

"Two prevailing styles are hard on babies. (The lean mama and the fat baby styles are what he refers to.)

"Conflicts over food should be avoided from birth and even thereafter. Never force a child to eat anything. Children are creatures of habit. Ease them into new foods."

All of these statements are not true of every child, but if mothers and nurses would bear them in mind there would be fewer mothers complaining that their children eat poorly, fewer changes would be made in foods, and fewer medicines would be given.

A baby is self-centered. He wants to have his way. He resents direction from his nurse and still more from his mother. Every child, at some time or other, in some way or other, is antagonistic to those in authority. This impulse, sometimes called negativism, varies in degree and in its manifestation from one period of life to another.

"PISCES."

IF March 11 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 2:30 p. m. to 4 p. m., from 5 p. m. to 5:45 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m. and from 6:30 p. m. to 7:30 p. m.

Your cares will rest lightly on your shoulders on this March 11. You may not yet see a solution to some of your problems, but deep within you will be a firm conviction that at last things are about to come your way. In all probability your "hunch" will prove a reality.

Born on this March 11, the child will be blessed with an unusually good disposition. He will escape quite possibly most of the so-called children's diseases. Fear of anyone or anything will be quite unknown to him. Look for him to lead a very active life and to have his share of youthful adventures.

If March 11 is the date of your birth, you are undoubtedly a person of infinite resource. You never to feel yourself at a loss as to do next or as to how to do in the most unusual and difficuations. You are somewhat of venturer.

If March 11 is the date on you were born, yours is an afate and loving nature. You means a great deal to you, an you seek to find expressions finer things of life. If you woman, you strive hard to kee home neat and orderly; you to reflect the qualities of pness and love. You are incl be a bit too ambitious for yo dren and you are sometimes ger of pushing them along too school. Do not expect them complish things that are re yond their years. Your marri no doubt be a happy one.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

HERE'S a comfortable day dress that has many points that produce a graceful length of line, so slimming and charming.

The scarf collar, you'll see at a glance, flatters the neckline and cuts undue bodice breadth. Then there is the pointed seaming to narrow the hips.

You can cut it out and run it up in a few hours' time, it's easily put together. And think of the saving in cost.

Style No. 3478 is designed for sizes 16 and 18 years, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 46 inches bust. Size 36 requires 3½ yards 39-inch, with ⅝ yard 35-inch contrasting. Price of pattern, 15 cents.

Our new fashion magazine for spring contains all of the new spring styles for women, misses and children. In addition, it contains the most interesting illustrated articles—beauty hints, hairdressing, how to reduce sensibly, poise as an aid to fashions, dressmaking hints, &c.

The supply is limited and so we suggest that you send 10 cents for your copy today to Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-third street, New York City.

Lemon Sponge Pie.

Another good bet for pleasing men, women and children is lemon sponge pie. It has a bit more body and a blander flavor than the others. And here's how you change it from mere butter, eggs and what-not—into food for the gods.

First beat 2 egg yolks. Add 1½ tablespoons melted butter, 1-3 cup lemon juice, grated rind of 1½ lemons, 1½ cups granulated sugar and 3 tablespoons flour. Mix these ingredients well, then gradually stir in 1½ cups milk. Last, fold in the stiffly beaten whites of 2 eggs.

Line a deep 9-inch pie plate with pastry, brush this with a little unbeaten egg white, pour in the mixture, and bake in a fairly hot oven (375 to 400) for about 10 minutes, to set the crust. (Do not leave oven at this temperature too long or mixture will curdle.) Then reduce the heat to 350 degrees, and bake the pie until firm in the center.

HOLY NAME SOCIETY WILL HEAR DR. LANG

Son of Passion Play Actor to Be Speaker Tomorrow in Alexandria.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Dr. Anton Lang, jr., son of Dr. Anton Lang, who for many years played the role of Christus in the Passion Play at Oberammergau, will be principal speaker at a breakfast of the Alexandria Holy Name Society in the George Mason Hotel at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow, which will be attended by more than 200 Catholic laymen.

The communion mass will be celebrated by the Rev. E. A. Brosnan, spiritual director of the Holy Name Society in Virginia. William J. Fugent will be in charge of the choir and congregational singing during the mass, and Talbott Haslett will sing a solo. Herbert E. Cady is marshal of the Holy Name Society, and will lead the men from the church to the hotel.

In addition to Dr. Lang, W. J. McNeal, president of the Holy Name Society of the District of Columbia, will attend, as will Lieut. Edward Trumbull, U. S. M. C., formerly commandant of the Nicaraguan National Military Training School. Miss Christine West will give "Ave Maria" at the breakfast, invocation will be by the Rev. L. J. Koster, of St. Rita's parish, Mount Ida, and greetings from St. Rita's parish will be extended by M. J. McFarland. Francis H. Fannon will act as toastmaster.

The committee in charge of arrangements, which is headed by the Rev. Hugh J. McFadden, spiritual director of the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's Church, is composed of M. T. McFarland, Reginald Dyson, James Igoe, Frank H. Nowland, Charles Callum, J. M. Krafft, Judge William P. Woolls, Leo P. Harlow, Earl Rothmund, Edward Johnson, Raymond Graumann, Joseph L. Lash, Ted Conlon, William J. Greenan, Capt. John Murphy, C. Raymond Hellmuth, Herbert Cady, Thomas McFarland, E. A. Sweeley, James R. Duncan, R. E. McGahey, Frank T. Quinn, Charles B. Sullivan, George W. Kimball, Thomas Nugent, William Nugent, Bernard Fegan, Frank Monroe, Martin E. Greene and Lawrence Corbett.

The executive board of the Virginia Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs will convene in George Mason Hotel, Alexandria, at 2 p. m. today, presided over by the State president, Miss Hilda Marshall, of Martinsville, Va. Representatives of the 23 clubs in the State Federation are expected to attend.

At 7 o'clock tonight the dinner in compliment to the board members will be held at the hotel, in conjunction with the annual public relations dinner of the local club.

The Alexandria banks have taken action to reduce any inconvenience caused its patrons by the bank holiday, a meeting of bankers being held yesterday at which it was decided to adhere to Regulation No. 10, issued by the Treasury Department, with some restrictions. Under this regulation the banks yesterday were permitting withdrawals of funds in amounts not to exceed $25 for food, medicine and other essentials.

The greatest relief afforded by the banks has been the agreement to take care of pay rolls due today. More than 400 employes of the Fruit Growers Express had their pay checks cashed yesterday at the Citizens National Bank, the treasurer of the company, which has its offices in Washington, having made the necessary arrangements by depositing the cash to meet the pay roll.

It is understood that several other large concerns, with offices outside of Alexandria, will make similar arrangements as their pay rolls become due.

The local banks are not cashing any checks, except United States Treasury checks, and pay rolls, and those for urgent necessities. In drawing the latter checks, a certificate is signed setting forth the necessity. The banks are ready to resume business as soon as permitted to do so by the Treasury Department.

Funeral services for Mrs. Louisa Ann Bettis, who died Thursday, will be conducted at 3:30 p. m. today from the Cunningham funeral home, Alexandria, by the Rev. William B. McIlwaine, jr., pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church. Interment will be in Bethel Cemetery.

Woodland Beach Rule Made Ready

Rate of Taxes Decided On Pending Passage of Resort Bill.

Members of the board of directors of Woodland Beach Property Owners Association have made plans for governing this summer resort in Maryland if a bill introduced in the Maryland Legislature in February passes. The bill provides that the Beach become a municipality, governed by a mayor and council.

If the bill passes and Woodland Beach is incorporated, there will be a 50-cent tax rate on each $100 valuation and a 50-cent road tax. Pending the first official election in September, the present board of directors shall constitute the mayor, clerk, treasurer and town council from June 1 to September 2, when the election will be held.

The line-up is as follows if the bill passes: Mayor, J. L. Carr; clerk, E. C. Scott; treasurer, C. C. Griggs, and councilmen, William H. McGrath, C. J. P. Weber, E. C. McGregor, R. H. Sanford, James Keefer, C. E. Marx, S. K. Markley, V. A. Simmel, T. V. Ward, T. B. Morrow, D. S. Smith and C. E. Buete.

Montgomery Milk Men Agree to Assist Needy

Montgomery County members of the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association have agreed to donate 1 per cent of the amount of milk they ship to Washington to needy persons here. The milk will be hauled, pasteurized, bottled and delivered free under the direction of charity and welfare organizations, according to O. W. Anderson, county agent.

Other areas belonging to the association are expected to do the same.

NEW CINEMA OFFERINGS

LOEW'S FOX

"THE CRIME OF THE CENTURY." Paramount picturization of Walter Maria Espe's play, "The Grootman Case," featuring Jean Hersholt, Wynne Gibson, Stuart Erwin and Frances Dee. Directed by William Beaudine. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

With that button-eyed and hair-trigger comedian, Master Eddie Cantor, as its most blinding luminary, a swell stage band as background and a group of accomplished specialists as embellishment, Loew's Fox this week offers a miniature revue that alone would be worth more than the price of admission, at the modest house tariffs, and shatters all precedent by going still further and presenting one of the most baffling mystery pictures ever filmed as chief screen feature of the same bill. By such managerial profligacy is the current program rendered as nearly perfect as such things are ever apt to be in this life.

Mr. Cantor, as his contribution to the gayety of the occasion, quips, sings, jokes, kids, philosophizes, comes as near dancing as he ever does, ad libs all over the place and serves gratuitously and genially as his own master of ceremonies. Apart from these few modest chores, he has practically nothing to do! And he does it all excessively well, spontaneously and in the opulent manner reminiscent of his more fruitful days in vaudeville, his livelier moments on that mocha and java hour on the Sabbath evening air and the remote splendor of his adventures in the late lamented Flo Ziegfeld's "Follies."

Master Cantor is Master Cantor and beyond that there is nothing—unless it be Al Jolson and Will Rogers, both of whom he slightly, oh, ever so slightly, resembles.

Benny Meroff and his orchestra are Cantor's main reliance in the moments when he is not personally on the stage. Mr. Meroff is a diminutive and versatile young man, who takes a whirl at a little bit of everything—playing all the instruments in the band, juggling a battered old plug hat, dancing, singing, doing imitations, being an acrobat and putting his boys through their varied paces, to mention only a few of his fleeting occupations—and permits the talented members of his ensemble pretty thoroughly to run wild, too, much to everybody's delight.

Jack Holland and the blondely beautiful June Knight demonstrate to what artistic heights ballroom dancing may be elevated at a time when ballroom dancing is not among the public passions, and Bobby Bixley, a quivery young gentleman with rubber bands for legs, steps off a lesson in nervousness and coordination that is a marvel to behold. An added touch of beauty is brought to the revue by the Four Abbottiers—which the screen announcement spells Abbotteers, if that makes any difference—a quartet of handsome young women, half blonde and half brunette, who, as their name betrays, are exponents of the Abbott school of dancing that flourishes out Chicago way.

"The Crime of the Century"—there is a film on the bill, you will recall—is a novel camera drama that introduces itself by expounding a complete technique of homicide and then contrives two murders, almost before your very eyes, that cry out for solution.

Thanks to the clever work of a splendid cast, led by Jean Hersholt, Wynne Gibson, Stuart Erwin, Frances Dee, David Landau and William Elliott, the chances are you will not be among those to put the finger unerringly on the culprit—not even with a minute out in the midst of things to give you time to think it over, which is another of the picture's innovations.

The Movietone News and approximately 9 miles of trailers complete an elegant entertainment.

PALACE

"FAST WORKERS." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of the play, "Riveters," by John McDermott, with added dialogue by Laurence Stallings, starring John Gilbert, with Robert Armstrong and Mae Clarke. Directed by Tod Browning. Reviewed Friday afternoon by Richard Q. Jones.

After so surprising a revelation of a number of things as was presented in "Downstairs," in which John Gilbert was not too terrible and benefited from an excellent supporting cast, "Fast Workers" is a disappointment, not so much in the work of the support as in the delineation offered by Mr. Gilbert himself.

In this story of steel workers, who take their beer and their women where they find them, "Gunner" Smith and "Bucker" Riley are pals, unwittingly on the make for the same girl, Mary, whom Riley secretly marries. When Riley finds out about Mary's relations with Smith, and other events of her past, he clips part of the scaffolding and Smith is only miraculously saved from death. But it all works out all right.

Others in the cast include Muriel Kirkland, Vince Barnett, Virginia Cherrill, Starling Holloway, Guy Usher, Warner Richmond and Robert Burns.

Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy try baby adoption as "Their First Mistake," in an effort to placate "Mrs. Hardy." Terry-Tunes are evidently going into the fairy-tale business in a big way, "Hansel and Gretel," the current release, combining the best elements of this story with those of the Old Woman who lived in a shoe. The Flying Codonas, aerialists extraordinary, are seen in "Swing High," a cinematic account, in slow and normal motion, of their thrilling circus stunts. A release of the Metrotone News rounds out the program.

Fairfax Courthouse Cupola Blind Missed

Missing—One wooden window blind for the cupola of the old historic Fairfax County, Va., courthouse. County authorities have suddenly discovered that the above described article is missing, and no one knows how long it has been gone. A thorough search has been made for the blind, but "nary a splinter" has been found.

It has been suggested to Sheriff Eppa P. Kirby, custodian of the courthouse, that it was probably carried off by some soldier in 1862, when the Union Army occupied Fairfax.

EARLE

"FROM HELL TO HEAVEN." Paramount picturization of a screen play by Percy Heath and Sidney Buchman, featuring Carole Lombard, Jack Oakie, David Manners, Sidney Blackmer and Adrienne Ames. Directed by Eric C. Kenton. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

What, for want of a beter name, may be termed the "Grand Hotel" method of play construction here moves out into the open air with signal success.

Heretofore, it has been deemed necessary to keep the unrelated groups of characters, destined eventually to become enamared in a single web of circumstances, safely assembled under one roof, as was done in "Grand Hotel," for outstanding example, or, more recently, in "Rome Express," where the various coaches of a smart continental train were utilized in place of the rooms in a swagger metropolitan hostelry.

In "From Hell to Heaven," a fashionable race course on Derby Day—or its equivalent—is employed to supply the common interest that may serve to draw together a pair of crooks, in quest of a third who has run out with their split; a young absconder and wife, intent on winning enough back his peculations; a pair of horsemen, intent on the game's sake; a bookmaker and his former sweetheart, who deserted him to marry into Cape Cod aristocracy and tired of her bargain; a discredited jockey and his girl; a hotel clerk and his telephone operator wife; a dusky hotel bellhop, who engineers himself into a soft spot, and a radio announcer-song writer, who maneuvers himself into a tough one.

The title of the picture is derived from a cogent observation included in its early footage that a horse race may mean anything "from hell to heaven" for the thousands who watch it run. The scenes at the track, incidentally, are excitingly realistic. If the film were not so strikingly in the "Grand Hotel" manner it would be suggestive of "Checkers," "The Whip," "Mickey" or any number of others that have centered their climaxes in the running of a hoss race.

Although Carole Lombard and Jack Oakie are featured in the picture's billing, their parts are no more vital to the action than those interpreted with equal skill by Adrienne Ames and David Manners, as the embezzlers; Bradley Page, Rita La Roy and Shirley Grey, as the crooks; Sidney Blackmer, as the bookie, or Clarence Muse, as the bellhop. The long cast also includes such known names as Walter Walker, Burton Churchill, Cecil Cunningham, Thomas Jackson, who does especially well as Lynch, the plain-clothes man hovering about the Luray Springs Hotel; Dell Henderson and Verna Hillie.

Perhaps outweighing the feature picture in impotrance this week, is Ben Bernie, the Old Maestro, and all the lads, in a surpassing stage interval of orchestral music, singing, dancing and clowning, done in the intimate and inimitable manner of the hours on the air that have made this organization one of radio's greatest.

In addition to the band numbers, varied and richly entertaining, with Bernie's constant banter, Frank Prince and Pat Kennedy do a full share of singing and Billy Severn executes an acrobatic dance that will probably never be successfully imitated.

Other acts gaily introduced by Miss Maxine Doyle, shiny in shimmering satins, include the Three Victor Girls, gymnasts and aerial artistes, and Violet Carlson, in a group of amusing and seemingly arduous character studies in song and dance.

Freddie Clark's lively liberties with Gounod's "Faust" completed yesterday afternoon's capricious carryings-on.

METROPOLITAN

"42ND STREET." Warner Brothers picturization of a screen story by Rian James and James Seymour, based on a novel by Bradford Ropes, featuring Warner Baxter, Bebe Daniels, George Brent, Ruby Keeler, Una Merkel, Guy Kibbee, Ginger Rogers and George E. Stone. Directed by Lloyd Bacon.

Visualizing a story of genuine dramatic fiber, alive with sprightly music and vivacious dances, and interpreted by a cast of exceptional skill and balance, the peer of the best of all screen musicals today resumes at the Metropolitan the record-breaking run that terminated Thursday night at the Earle.

The Earle engagement was not merely figuratively a record-breaking run. It literally shattered every previous house record and set up new high marks in patronage and receipts for future attractions to shoot at.

This is a circumstance fully warranted by the superlative virtues inherent in the book, score and personnel of "42nd Street." It is in every sense an extraordinary exhibit of the high potentialities to which the musical cinema may aspire. It has rhythm, tempo and class. It moves with a briskness, humor and pictorial spendor that are as rare as they are exciting.

The story, to be sure, is a back-stage romance patterned after a more or less familiar formula, but it is breathed so full of life, authenticity and believability by Warner Baxter, Ruby Keeler, Guy Kibbee, Una Merkel, Ginger Rogers, George E. Stone, Robert McWade, Bebe Daniels, Allen Jenkins, Ned Sparks, Dick Powell and numerous other principals, and lent so many unusual effects by a huge chorus of stunningly beautiful young women, that it carries all the charm and all the thrill of a brand new adventure in picture making. It is something emphatically not to be missed by those who place any value on real entertainment.

A cartoon comedy, "Bosco in Person," and the Paramount Sound News will round out the program for the Metropolitan week.

CRONIN'S ROOKIES FACE ATLANTA CLUB TODAY

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE depression has the blue laws on the run. With the country turning to beer as a source of revenue for a sadly depleted budget, the individual States are but a step behind in recognizing sports as a fertile field for coaxing scarce dollars into State treasuries.

The depression is indeed an ill wind that is blowing somebody good. Mutuel betting bills which didn't have a ghost of a chance of being favorably reported by committees are now being passed by the Legislatures by astounding majorities. Oregon two days ago became the ninth State to legalize the mutuels and race betting measures are now pending in no less than 20 Legislatures.

Sunday baseball in Pennsylvania has received added impetus in view of the amusement tax that would keep the dollars flowing into the National Treasury and blue law opposition is quickly being overcome in the light of the country's need. Passage of the bill before the start of the big league season is expected.

Maryland's $585,436 Eyed Hungrily.

In these times of stress the States are eyeing hungrily the $585,436 that the mutuel betting for 1932 dumped into the Maryland State treasury, with like amounts estimated as the revenue in Florida and Kentucky, while Illinois netted nearly $1,000,000 as its cut of the mutuels.

Maryland is going even further in its attempts to rake in the sporting dollars with a bill providing for the licensing of bookmakers and a tax of 1 per cent on all wagers played with the bookies. The fee for bookmakers has been set at $2,500 with the likelihood that no less than 100 bookies will subscribe.

In contrast, New York, which has banned the mutuels and sanctions the oral betting, derives nothing from the racing industry which is controlled by the New York Jockey Club. The latter, comprised of the big names of the State, themselves have vetoed the mutuels in order that they will not lose control of racing which under a mutuel law must be vested in a State commission. But the past few weeks have marked a noticeable agitation in favor of the mutuels in New York.

No Hoarders at Race Tracks.

It is significant that staid old New England numbers two of the States which are seriously considering pari-mutuel legislation. Massachusetts and New Hampshire legislatures are now in the throes of racing bills with a better than even chance that they will pass. Thus has the trend been proved.

It is significant, also, that the Hialeah track at Miami has been able to operate during the past week with the Nation's banks tightly shut and cash at a premium. But race tracks are synonymous with ready money, and Florida has been so pleased with the results of its racing bill that Joseph D. Widener, operator of Hialeah, has been requested by business men to extend the meeting for five more days.

And there's not a hoarder in fifty million carloads of race track fans.

Hyattsville High Five To Battle Annapolis

Hyattsville High School's Basket Ball Team, champion of Prince Georges County, will meet Annapolis High, Anne Arundel County titleholder, in a first-round contest in the annual Maryland State championship tournament for public high schools tonight at 8 o'clock in the high school gymnasium at Catonsville, Baltimore County.

The winner of the Hyattsville-Annapolis contest tonight will face Belair High, Harford County champion, in a second-round engagement March 20 on a court to be named.

Hyattsville is a strong favorite to win over Annapolis, as the Blue and Gold holds two decisions over the quint from the Maryland Capital this season. Coach Stan Jenkins plans to start his regular line-up of Calhoun and Cain, forwards; Meade, center, and Cogar and Brown, guards; Clarke, guard, probably will also see action.

Promoter Accepting I. O. U.'s, Paying Tax

Atlanta, Ga., March 10 (A.P.).—Henry Weber, wrestling promoter, not only will accept I. O. U.'s for admission to his show next Tuesday night, but he'll pay the Government tax as well.

Weber announced today he would take the I. O. U.'s or "anything else negotiable" that fans might offer at the ticket window.

"If the folks haven't any ready cash at all I'll dig down in my own pockets and pay the Government tax," he said.

A. A. U. Court Thriller to Rockville

D. C. Firemen Bow, 27 to 25, as Rally Falls Short.

St. Martin's, Mercury, Savoys Win Other Titular Games.

BOBBY COLLINS scored only one basket for the Rockville A. A. quintet in the A. A. U. tourney last night, but it was the one that enabled the suburbanites to nose out the D. C. Firemen by a score of 27-25 in the A. A. U. championship tournament being sponsored by The Post at Tech High School.

The game featured a card of four games, which saw St. Martin's stake its claim to the 145-pound championship with a 32-16 triumph over the formidable Simpson's Pharmacy Club, while in the 130-pound class Mercury outclassed the Crescent Juniors and won by a score of 43-9. Savoys' 45-25 win over Northeast Boys' Club completed the program.

Rockville was away to a flying start against the Smoke-eaters and the game threatened to develop into a runaway in the first half. With Lanier showing the way Rockville amassed a comfortable 24-13 lead, and when the teams left the floor for the intermission the District aggregation's hopes were as bright as a broken electric light bulb.

Clarke Rallies Firemen.

But old Morris Clarke rallied his faltering forces and the Firemen staged a rally that almost ended disastrously for the visitors. While Rockville was held scoreless, the Firemen ran their score from 13 to 24 and tied the count. From then on play was at a break-neck pace, but in the end Collins' double-decker prevailed and the locals lost a heartbreaker.

St. Martin's assumed the lead at the start of its game with the Pharmacists and was never headed. Every man on the winning squad was pressed into action. Dunn, center, led the attack with six field goals and a foul for 13 points. Gilliam and Sullivan were the only Simpson players to score from the floor.

Simpson's battled every inch of the way, but was able to make but little progress against the ironclad defense of their opponents.

Mercury Boys Win Easily.

A single field goal was all the Crescent Juniors could make against the stout defense of the Mercury tossers in the first half, while each of the Southwest players was making at least two. The situation was little better in the final periods. Vermillion, guard, and Hartnett, center, led the winning attack.

A trio of high-scoring men, Scheinerman, Silverman and Pittiglio, kept a steady stream of balls going through the hoop to insure the Savoy clubmen of victory against the Northeast Boys Club. Colton, of the losers, topped the scoring with 19 points.

Tropical Park Meet To Open as Scheduled

Miami, Fla., March 10 (A.P.).—Despite persistent rumors here today that the seventeen-day race meeting at Tropical Park from March 13 to March 31 would not open as scheduled, the management of the Coral Gables track said tonight that the meeting will go through as planned.

Frank J. Bruen, president of the Gables Racing Association, was authority for this statement.

The Hialeah meeting ends this week and the Florida Racing Commission and the Hotel and Business Men's Association here requested Joseph E. Widener to run for five days more, with an extension in dates to be granted by the commission if Tropical did not open.

N. B. A. Also Orders Stribling Suspension

Lansing, Mich., March 10 (A.P.).—W. L. Stribling, heavyweight boxer, today was ordered suspended for 90 days by James ("Bingo") Brown, head of the National Boxing Association, effective in all States where the national association has jurisdiction.

The N. B. A. is affiliated with the International Boxing Union of France, where Stribling was suspended for an unsatisfactory bout Monday.

So It Goes

Race Followers Purest Patriots If Hoarding Is Unpatriotic.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

THE bank holiday is not likely to have serious effect on those citizens who follow the horses from place to place, summer and winter, and whose only fear of death always has been that it might catch them with a few dollars left unspent. This scheme works out perfectly only when the subject's life and his bank roll come out exactly even. A few dollars left in the pants pocket hanging over the foot of the bed would mean that somewhere there had been a slight miscalculation and that some little enjoyment had been missed.

Perhaps he should have bet those few more dollars on the red in the play room of the night club the other evening. Then he would have had action for his money, anyway, instead of leaving it to some deputy coroner, who might save it for a rainy day. The ideal way, I think, would be for our subject to lay him down with just one dollar left in his pants, and, then, in the morning send a boy out for the dope sheet, fifteen cents for the dope sheet and eighty-five cents for the bellboy. Then quiet, modest demise. Exactly even.

All in Same Boat, It Seems.

Such a citizen called me up in Washington last Sunday morning and said, "Ha-ha, am I laughing at my host of loving friends who always used to be taking me aside and giving me good advice? They said I was very foolish to be spending my earnings in night clubs or buying bets on horses and drinks for beautiful ladies. Now I ain't got any money, as usual, and they ain't got any money, too, so we are all even, except that I always got a run for mine. Let this be a warning to you, my friend. Never save your money."

I know numerous citizens of this type, and I must say that if it is unpatriotic to hoard money, then the purest patriotism will be found around such places as Hialeah and

BAER MATCH WELCOMED BY N. Y.

Mara Gains Sanction as Bout in Gotham Is Hinted.

NEW YORK, March 10 (A.P.).—Timothy J. Mara, boxing promoter, received permission from the New York State Athletic Commission today to promote a Max Schmelling-Max Baer heavyweight match, either at the Yankee Stadium or the Polo Grounds, June 1.

While neither Jack Dempsey, who signed both heavyweights for the match, nor Joe Jacobs, manager of Schmeling, would say definitely that Mara would join them in promoting the bout, it was generally accepted that the fight would take place here on that date. Dempsey has just completed a "shopping" tour of the country, considering sites for the match.

Race With Garden For First Date.

Mara's action started somethnig of a race with Madison Square Garden, which has scheduled a heavyweight title match between Jack Sharkey and Primo Carnera in the bowl on Long Island for some time in June. With both factions determined to get to the customers first, it was hinted at the Garden that the Sharkey-Carnera bout would be rescheduled for sometime in May.

Dempsey intends to shift his match to a still earlier date, if the Garden finally decides to attempt outdoor promotion so early in the spring.

G. U. Quintet Host To Carnegie Tech

League Game Tonight at Tech High Ends Season for Hilltop Five.

Georgetown reaches the end of its basket ball campaign tonight at Tech High School, where the Blue and Gray plays host to Carnegie Tech, of Pittsburgh, starting at 8:30 o'clock. The fray will be incorporated in the records of the Eastern Intercollegiate League.

Georgetown has much at stake. First of all it wants to erase the stigma of defeat suffered in its first meeting with the Pittsburgh quintet. Secondly, a victory will enable the District collegians to tie their guests for third place in the loop with a record of three victories and four defeats.

It will be the final game in Georgetown livery for Capt. Jack Crowley, who blossomed into a star after enjoying only mediocre success last season. Vernon Murphy, reserve forward, is another who concludes his collegiate career tonight.

But the pair are leaving an ambitious group of youngsters and several of these—Ed Hargaden, brilliant forward; Tommy Carolan and Bob Smith—will make a strong bid for recognition on the league's all-star team.

Tommy Armour Signs As Chicago Club Pro

Chicago, March 10 (A.P.).—Tommy Armour, formerly national open golf champion, today signed as professional at the Medinah Country Club, which has four courses. He succeeds Abe Espinosa, who is negotiating with one of the leading clubs of the East.

Armour, formerly stationed at Washington and Detroit, will report here April 1. He intends to make another bid for the national open championship and also the British title.

Stamina Wins Rosenbloom Decision

Rallies After First 6 Rounds to Defeat Heuser, German.

Champion Is Nearly Floored in Second by Body Blows.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, March 10 (A.P.).—Needing every bit of his strength and stamina, Maxey Rosenbloom, champion of the night class as well as the light heavyweights of New York State, barely managed tonight to beat off the challenge of Adolph Heuser, barrel-chested German, in a slam-bang fifteen-round battle.

His usual night life pallor lost beneath a heavy coat of Florida tan, Rosenbloom was in the finest condition of his career—and he needed to be to overcome Heuser's early lead and eke out a narrow decision.

Nearly Drops Champ In Second.

The Bulldog of the Rhine, a lightning puncher with either hand, belted Rosenbloom through the first half dozen rounds as the Harlem Harlequin never before had been punched in a New York ring. He whipped Maxie into the ropes in the second round and nearly sank him with a body barrage; caught him again in the fourth and had the champion wobbling under left hooks and right smashes to the chin.

But Maxie, with stamina to burn, came back magnificently. He bounced around Heuser through the latter stages of the fight, flicking his face with lefts, slapping his head resoundingly with rights, baffling him at close quarters. Heuser stuck doggedly to his task, but his left eye, shrouded in the eighth, all but closed after the tenth and he bled freely from deeply cut lips.

Unanimous Decision Cheered by Crowd.

Heuser always was dangerous, but he could not match Rosenbloom's closing burst. The champion, on the Associated Press score card, had an edge in six rounds, while Heuser won five and four were even. Heuser weighed 172 pounds, Rosenbloom 174.

The crowd of 11,648 cheered the unanimous decision of Referee Jed Gahan and two judges.

G. W. Riflists Hand Navy First Defeat in 4 Years

Probably the brightest achievement scored by George Washington University rifle teams in the past five years was recorded yesterday by the National Rifle Association which announced that a check-up showed George Washington the winner over Navy's rifle team in a match shot last Monday by a score of 1,395 to 1,390. This was the first defeat suffered by the Navy rifle team since 1928 when the Colonials out-shot the Middies for the national championship.

The George Washington University team is coached by Frank Parsons, International Rifle Champion in 1928 who has been uniformly successful in the development of crack teams at the downtown institution.

Fair Grounds Racing Remains Suspended

New Orleans, March 10 (A.P.).—Fair Grounds race track, which suspended racing last Monday, today abandoned plans for reopening the track tomorrow, announcing continuance of the suspension "until further notice."

The Crescent City Jockey Club indicated racing would be resumed with resumption of general banking.

POST MORTEMS . . .

Larry Boerner, former Washington sandlotter, is a holdout with Nashville . . . he was released during the winter by the Red Sox . . . held the Yankees to two hits for eight innings last year, but was as shy on control as a falling snowflake . . . The Cleveland Indians are deducting one day's pay from the salaries of Wes Ferrell and Willis Hudlin for every day they are late in reporting . . . despite the fact that the players draw no pay until the season starts . . . but the club gets away with it by calling it a fine . . . Remember that Roy Spencer's holdout tactics cost him three weeks' pay with the Nats a few years ago . . . Under the league rules the club manager can decide when a player is in condition and hold up his pay until that decision . . . Cronin's appointment as manager was a hit with the headline writers . . . Colleges in the North are experimenting with raising the basket ball backboards from 10 to 12 and 14 feet . . . with 12 feet the likely compromise . . . Middle West teams are invariably comprised of tall boys . . . but the East's select little group of City College of New York, St. John's, Manhattan and Fordham give the big boys the go-by and probably turn out better teams.

Race track touts weighing under 125 pounds invariably claim to be Jockey Robertson's brother . . . A. B. Thorn, former Woodmont Club golf pro, is seeking connections in New York . . . Kenwood boasts the District's two club-breaking champions in Al Houghton and Maury Fitzgerald . . . who follow up dubbed shots by gently placing their offending clubs across the knee and bending the shafts firmly until gratified by the sound of shattering wood, or steel, as the case may be . . . The inside tip is that Bob Boken will beat out Cecil Travis for the utility infield role with the Nats . . . and that Bluege will be secure on third base when the season opens . . . and that the National League pitching will prove a tonic to Joe Judge's batting average . . . and that Joe Cronin will fine the first Nat pitcher who feeds one high and wide to Al Simmons . . . Jack Dempsey was the only heavyweight champion since Sullivan to carry his knockout punch in his left hand despite the fact he was not a southpaw.

Dark Horse Candidate for Infield Berth With Nats

From Kansas City has come Bob Boken, pictured in fielding and batting action, to give Cecil Travis competition for the utility infield job with the Nats. Boken, bigger even than Travis, is conceded to be a better fielder and that he has batting possibilities is revealed by his .378 average in the Texas League in 1930.

HACK WILSON THREATENS TO QUIT

Says Brooklyn Must Raise $10,000 Offer by Sunday.

MIAMI, March 10 (U.P.).—Hack Wilson, outfielder, today threatened to quit the Brooklyn Dodgers if their offer of $10,000 for the season's play is not increased by Sunday.

Wilson is understood to be seeking $12,500.

Chuck Klein Clouts Two "Homers."

Winter Haven, Fla., March 10 (A. P.).—Two "fence-busting" hits by Chuck Klein today officially opened spring training for the Phillies' slugging outfielder. Klein, in camp for the first day of training for infielders and outfielders, sent the horsehide far and away from the plate.

A novelty in camp—a mustache—arrived with Cliff Heathcote, outfielder, this morning.

Ryan, Rookie Star, Shines for Giants.

Los Angeles, March 10 (A.P.).—John Ryan, rookie shortstop just up from Buffalo, of the International League, put on a great fielding exhibition as the New York Giants defeated the National League champions from Chicago, 5 to 3, at Wrigley Field today.

The young infielder handled fourteen chances, getting credit for four put-outs and ten assists. The Giants won the game in the second inning when they collected five hits for four runs. One of the blows was a homer by Johnny Vergez, third baseman, over the left-field fence with one on.

Pirates Win in 9th On Finney's Single.

San Francisco, March 10 (A.P.).—Pittsburgh's Pirates defeated San Francisco's Seals, 2 to 1, here today in the opening exhibition game of the season.

The Pirates pulled the game out of the fire in the ninth when Hall Finney, catcher, singled to center to score a runner. Ralph Birkofer, recruit left-hander, pitched the first five innings for the major leaguers and made a good impression. Leon Chagnon, regular, finished up on the mound.

Rookie's Homer Features Braves' Game.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 10 (A. P.).—Arthur Hunt, from San Francisco, poled out a homer today when the Boston Braves' rookies held the regulars to a 4-to-4 six-inning tie in the first practice game of the spring season.

The rookies were trailing, 4 to 0, in the fourth when Hunt clicked his circuit wallop with Art Shires on base. Horace Ford and "Dutch" Holland also scored in that frame. All of the regulars' runs were made in the previous inning when Baxter Jordan tripled with the bases loaded.

GEHRIG SIGNS AT CUT OF $5,000

NEW YORK, March 10 (A.P.).—Lou Gehrig, junior half of the New York Yankees' home-run partnership, signed his contract for the 1933 baseball season today after the longest holdout siege of his larruping career. The "iron man" of first basemen will leave tomorrow, accompanied by his mother, for the Yankee training camp at St. Petersburg, where he will arrive in time to get into the first exhibition game and keep his playing record intact.

Neither Gehrig nor Ed Barrow, business pilot of the Yankees, would give the slightest inkling of the salary terms agreed upon. It is known "Hungry Lou" took a "cut," but the consensus was that it did not exceed $5,000 and that he probably would receive $22,500 for the coming season.

Ruppert to Deal With Ruth.

This leaves Babe Ruth, as usual, the sole remaining Yankee holdout and apparently facilitates plans for the capitulation of the Bambino or his employer, Col. Jacob Ruppert, or both, in St. Petersburg next week.

Col. Ruppert is due to reach the training camp either Monday or Tuesday. He has indicated no desire to compromise on the club's original $50,000 offer and Ruth has been emphatic in demanding at least $52,500, but it will not be strange if they settle their differences and summon the sound cameras again.

Ruth and Gehrig together have received at least $100,000 in salary for each of the past three campaigns. No matter how much their pay checks drop below that figure this year they still will carry the long range menace of the Yankee attack. The Babe already is in training and Gehrig will report in good condition. Golf and gymnasium workouts have helped Lou ward off excess weight.

Gehrig hopes this year to set a new all-time major league record for consecutive games played. He closed the 1932 campaign with a mark of 1,197 championship season games in a row and needs to play 111 more to pass the record of 1,307 now held by Everett Scott, former Red Sox and Yankee shortstop. Gehrig began his streak in 1925.

SOCCER GAME TOMORROW.

Soccer as played in the "Old Country" will be offered local fans Sunday afternoon when the Postoffice Stonecutters play the Interstate Stonecutters on the Monument Grounds at 1 o'clock. Both teams boast line-ups of players who performed in Europe and several played with professional teams.

HAYES FIRST AT BAT FOR WHITE SOX

Fonseca Moves Haas to Second Place in Hitting Order.

PASADENA, Calif., March 10 (A. P.).—After a week of jockeying about, Manager Lew Fonseca, of the Chicago White Sox, has decided upon Minter Hayes as the man to head the batting order.

Hayes led off for the Sox most of last season, but Mule Haas has had the call during the training season. Today Fonseca decided to move Hayes back to the top, with Haas in the second hole, where he batted for the Philadelphia Athletics.

Mack Pleased With Workout.

Port Myers, Fla., March 10 (A. P.).—Connie Mack, leader of the Philadelphia Athletics, returned to the spring training camp today and watched his proteges wind up their exercises before opening the season's first exhibition series. He expressed satisfaction with the advancement made since he left a week ago.

Tiger Squad Awaits Intraclub Game.

San Antonio, Tex., March 10 (A.P.). The Detroit Tigers will get their first real taste of baseball in this spring's training camp next Wednesday or Thursday in a five-inning game between teams made up of squad members.

The first real competition comes later next week against the University of Texas at Austin.

Hot Sun Shortens Red Sox Drill.

Sarasota, Fla., March 10 (A.P.).—A hot Florida sun today forced Manager Marty McManus to cut his scheduled three-hour Boston Red Sox workout in half. Volley ball made its first appearance in the Sox's camp and the squad's heavyweights spent 20 gruelling minutes tossing the balls.

Marvin Olson, second baseman, whose signed contract arrived today, is expected to arrive in time for the five-inning practice game tomorrow.

Outfield Gullic Signs With Browns.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 10 (A.P.).—Ted Gullic, outfielder, wired today that he had accepted the St. Louis Browns' terms and would report here next week.

Pock Starts Rookies In Game Today.

New Orleans, March 10 (A.P.).—The Cleveland Indians were given their longest and hardest workout of the training season today. Manager Roger Peckinpaugh said he would start his rookies against the New Orleans Pelicans tomorrow, but will send his regulars into action Sunday.

Red Lucas on Reds' Sick List.

Tampa, Fla., March 10 (A.P.).—"Red" Lucas, ace pitcher of the Cincinnati Reds, was on the sick list today, and teammates worried as to whether the "breaks" that crippled them last year are still with them. A twisted back muscle kept the big pitcher out of action. It was expected he would return to practice early next week, however.

Diana Fishwick Wins Belleair Title, One Up

Belleair, Fla., March 10 (A.P.).—Miss Diana Fishwick, women's golf champion of England, won the annual Belleair women's championship here today in a thrilling 18-hole match with Miss Barbara Pyman, also a member of the British golf team touring Florida. The match went to the last green, Miss Fishwick winning, 1 up.

Miss Pyman played spectacular golf on the first nine and was 4 up going to the seventh tee. She encountered ill luck on the incoming nine, however, going out of bounds on the thirteenth hole and taking a 7 and bounding off the green on the fifteenth hole, where her ball hit the flag. Miss Pyman was out in 39, but required 44 on the incoming nine, while Miss Fishwick put together cards of 42 and 40.

Linke's Speed Gets Test in Opener

Friederichs, Thomas Also to Hurl in Mobile Game.

Burke Reports Sore Arm, Bugaboo of Last Season.

By BOB CONSIDINE
(Post Staff Correspondent).

BILOXI, Miss., March 10.—Thirty years ago Clark Griffith, then in his prime as a pitcher with Chicago, used to take great delight in encountering hefty Wilbert Robinson, catcher for the great Baltimore Orioles of the National League. They were fast friends and still are.

Tomorrow, gray, a good deal heavier and much less active (for Robby weighs 230 and Griff has the lumbago), they meet again, this time as presidents of the Washington and Atlanta ball clubs. The game, Washington's first of the training season, will be played at Mobile, spring training base of the Atlanta Club.

Rookies Get Test On Mound.

Rotund Eddie Linke, who struck out between 220 and 234 men last year, with Davenport (depending on which paper you read), starts for Washington tomorrow, to be followed in the fourth inning by Bob Friederichs and later by Bud Thomas, the Washington sandlotter. Moe Berg will catch half the game and Cliff Bolton the rest. The infield will be composed of Kuhel, Myer, Cronin and Travis, who takes Ossie Bluege's place on third for the occasion. Bob Boken and Johnny Kerr, utility men, will relieve Cronin and Myer as the game progresses. Rice, Schulte and Harris will man the outfield.

Against Linke, Friederichs and Thomas, Uncle Wilbert has designated two former big leaguers to pitch. They are Bunny Hearn and Bob Hasty, both of them having labored for Connie Mack and Philadelphia. About half of the Atlantans are holdouts, but tomorrow's line-up will be approximately as good as they've got over there. Freddy Sington, whom Washingtonians remember from the three-cornered charity football game, among Alabama, George Washington, Georgetown and Catholic University, two seasons back, will play in the outfield for Atlanta. He was purchased this winter from Beckley, of the Middle Atlantic League, for whom he hit .390. Barron and McKee play the other outfield posts.

The other names don't mean anything to me either; Cummings, first; Goff, second; Chatham, short and Rollins, third, and Eiseman, catcher.

Burke Reports Sore Arm.

The first real tragedy of the camp struck today when Bobby Burke reported with a bad arm, a recurrence of his unfortunate trouble of 1932. There was much head-shaking as Mike Martin went to work on the limb of the left-hander. Burke, you remember, strained his arm last year trying to catch up with his colleagues on reporting two weeks late for spring training after a salary argument with Clark Griffith. Some integral muscle is believed to be pulled out of whack.

Ossie Bluege looked like the perennial million bucks (in cash, too) today in a sparkling workout at third base, with Cronin, Myer and Kubel in their respective places. Washington's two ambitious rookie infielders, Cecil Travis and Bob Boken, looked submissively on—as this pretty nearly incomparable quartet went through their errorless and exacting routine.

Golden Miller Still Held Grand National Choice

London, March 10 (A.P.).—The latest call-over of betting odds for the Grand National today showed Miss Dorothy Paget's Golden Miller still the choice to lead the field of 48 home in the famous 4½-mile steeplechase at Aintree, March 24.

Golden Miller, which will carry 170 pounds, was quoted at 19 to 2, while Mrs. M. A. Gemmell's Gregalach, 1929 winner and top weight with 175 pounds, was held at 100 to 9. Lord Inchcape's Annadale was the third choice at 20 to 1.

Bellizzi Gets Colt Home In Drive

The Break Makes Up Ground to Score in Opener.

HIALEAH PARK, Fla., March 10 (A.P.).—This was Henry L. Doherty day at the home of the Miami Jockey Club, and the one-mile feature event was named in honor of the man whose vision and generosity has done so much, materially and otherwise, for the welfare of Florida, Miami in particular.

Col. Doherty viewed the headline event from the stewards' stand in company with Joseph E. Widener. After the race he was introduced to the crowd and some 9,000 throats bellowed out a great reception.

The Brookmeade Stable's Jubilate, ridden by "Duke" Bellizzi, registered a driving victory in a thrilling finish, with Rip Van Winkle second by a nose over Village Vamp. Haggerson was a very close fourth. Jubilate ran the distance in the fast time of 1:36 3-5 and paid $11.20. Noelwood was installed favorite but the colt never could reach a contending position despite Johnny Gilbert's hard efforts. Haggerson was in the van until straightened out in the stretch, where Jubilate, always a close pursuer, made his move and drove to the front under strong handling. Rip Van Winkle, badly outrun most of the trip, closed with a cyclonic rush in the drive to the wire and barely nosed Village Vamp out of the place. The latter also made up a world of ground.

The Break Scores Despite Start.

A poor start marred the opening event, but The Break, last away, was good enough to overcome his handicap and win by a length to pay favorite players $5.10 for $2 in a driving finish. Englewood was a fast finishing second, beating Lucky Carter by two lengths.

The Break was turned sideways when the barrier was sprung, but Gilbert sent the gelding after his field and the son of Star Master gradually wore down the leaders. He took command in the stretch and held Englewood under control in the final drive.

Dodiodo Beats Out Electric Gaff.

Dodiodo found the right spot in the third race, but in winning the purse the Donnacona gelding interfered with several horses. Electric Gaff was second a half length back and a length before Darkling. Jim Macaw cut out the running to the stretch then began to weaken. Electric Gaff got through on the inside with Vespucci and Integrity also moving forward. Jockey Leishman brought Dodiodo around the leaders with a rush in the stretch and crossing over sharply impeded Vespucci and Integrity. The winner was up to beat Electric Gaff in the closing strides. Dodiodo paid $11.70.

Jockey Bobby Leishman made it two in a row when he piloted Bedight first home by a nose in the fourth race, the combination paying $11.99. Boy Crazy, the choice, beat Wayward Lad by half a dozen lengths for the place. Bedight had the most foot and Leishman made good use of it, nursing the son of Dress Parade along in front until Liqueur tired chasing the pace and Boy Crazy challenged. The latter was partially pocketed entering the stretch, but got free and was wearing the winner down.

Try It Displays Improvement.

Try It, a badly beaten trailer in his last start, showed startling improvement to register an easy victory over Solace, the favorite, in the sixth contest. Receiving stronger handling in the change of jockeys from J. Stout to Charlie Corbett, Try It won by three lengths to return $8.20. Solace beat Brown Sinner by another three spans for the place. Solace showed the way under light restraint for 7 furlongs, but went to a drive when Try It, well back early, came with a rush entering the stretch. The choice was no match for Try It in the final stages.

Northeast Backing Irving; Southwest Supporting Van

Rivals Who Clash at Portner's Tuesday Are Knockout Artists; Van Swimmer; Irving Soccer Player; First Main Go.

YOUNG VAN, Southwest Washington's leading candidate for the world's light-heavyweight championship in 1935, takes the longest step up the pugilistic ladder he has ever attempted Tuesday night at Portner's, where he collides with Henry Irving, kayo artist from Northeast. It is Van's first appearance in the feature spot and he is prepared to make the most of the opportunity.

The fight looms as a natural in every respect. The principals hail from opposite ends of the city, where they were born and raised. Both broke into the game as amateurs, fighting at smokers and club entertainments in three-rounders. Both ranked high in the simon-pure ranks.

Both Are Knockout Artists.

Knockouts galore dot the records of the lads. Van's debut in the pro game was marked by a succession of K. O.'s that reached seven before he encountered an opponent capable of weathering his punishing body attack. Irving's best bet is a terrific right-hand punch that packs enough dynamite to knock the best of them into slumberland. Irving boasts more than a dozen kayos.

Van is something of a national hero among the kids in his neighborhood. The day after he made his start as a pro sporting goods stores did a landslide business in boxing equipment. They all wanted to be boxers.

Van's powerful physique, which looks like a clipping from a physical culture magazine, was developed by swimming in the Washington channel. The neighborhood gang assembled each afternoon in the summer for a swim, and Van was among the best of them. He measures the length of swims in miles.

Where his opponent took to the water, Irving took to soccer and football as his principal means of diversion. Irving is recognized as one of the outstanding soccer players in the city and formerly captained the Rosedale eleven in the Capital City League.

Irving Learned From Lamar.

He struck up an acquaintance with Henry Lamar, former District heavyweight hope, the summer Lamar acted as lifeguard at the Rosedale swimming pool. Smart and possessor of all the tricks of the trade, Lamar imparted the finer points of boxing to Irving, whom he found to be a willing and apt pupil.

Irving carries one of the most feared right-hand punches to be seen at Portner's in some time. It is this punch Van will have to keep his eye peeled for Tuesday. On the other hand, the southwest battler is capable of serving a punishing body attack. Irving's weakest spot. So it looks like a question of the weaker of two vulnerable spots, Van's jaw or Irving's tummy. But there will be plenty of action before either goes down.

Barefoot Green's bout with Soldier Schmann has been canceled because of a bad cut over his eye sustained by Green in a recent fight. Willie Essinger and Jackie Levinson, the latter of Norfolk, have been drafted to fill the gap. They will go six rounds.

AT THE POST

—with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: MIAMI, MARCH 10.

What looked like a mighty tough day for four races turned out to be a profitable program for your old pal, W. W. Bennings. To make a long story short, I had the last three winners and with no technicalities attached. Jubilate, $11.20; Try It, $8.20, and Pernickerty, $7.70, right in a row. Before that we batted in hard luck. Englewood was beaten a length in the first; Tomfoolery ran out in the second; Dodiodo had to come from nowhere to beat my Electric Gaff in the third, and Boy Crazy was blocked in the stretch drive to lose a nose decision. Going right after the dough again tomorrow. It's the last chance. Okay, Bennings!

BILL.

FIRST RACE—FRIGATE BIRD showed excellent form last out and there is nothing better in this field. Should prove a winning favorite. The trouble may be supplied by the youngster of the party, SKY HAVEN, which is speedy on occasions. CALGARY KAY and the ancient jockey, Obert, have two straight to their credit and must be considered.

SECOND RACE—VON SION drops a lot of weight in this sprint and after that winning performance the other day gets the Bennings call. LEVAAL, a recent winner, will have GOLDEN FATE to battle for the place.

THIRD RACE—ROYAL RUFFIN has been assigned top weight of 120 pounds but I can't see that stopping him at 7 furlongs. This fellow is in rare form. AEGIS and BROWN WISDOM appear better than the others.

FOURTH RACE—DARTLE did everything here that I asked and goes on top of this gang. Will have the speedy SLAPDASH, from the Whitney barn, to beat, but I believe it can be done. HIGH GLEE for the show.

FIFTH RACE—I insisted as early as last fall that JUNGLE KING was a real horse and I can't pass him up here. Should win but is almost universally picked. If I play the race, it will be across the board on INLANDER. CHARACTER looks like the show proposition.

SIXTH RACE—Here's a group that beats each other. For tomorrow, I'm going to MY DANDY. Looks like a price from where I sit. CATHOP was shown up recently and will draw a lot of play. MR. SPONGE looks like he will get in the money.

JUNGLE KING 8-5 CHOICE TODAY

Pot au Brooms Held at 4-1 in $10,000 Florida Derby.

MIAMI, Fla., March 10 (A.P.).—The pick of the 3-year-olds in training will go after one of the winter turf's richest awards tomorrow in the renewal of the $10,000 Florida Derby at Hialeah Park.

An even dozen thoroughbreds, including all of the prerace favorites, were named today for the 1⅛-mile event, which will feature the final day of racing at Miami's beautiful course. The horses will move to Tropical Park Monday for a 17-day session.

Unless there is a change in track conditions before post time, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Jungle King is expected to be the outstanding choice at 8 to 5 or even shorter odds. The son of St. Germans, which will carry 118 pounds, has performed brilliantly over the Hialeah racing strip, beating a field of Derby candidates over one mile last Saturday in the fast time of 1:36 4-5.

Pot au Brooms Seen Second Choice.

Brooms, which trailed Jungle King by a half-length Saturday, also will carry 118 pounds and probably will be the second choice at 4 to 1. Isador Bieber's Character and Mrs. A. J. Contento's Golden Fate, which ran 3-4, respectively, back of the Whitney horse, will carry top weight of 120 pounds.

Character, leading money winner of the meeting, and victor in seven straight races until his last two starts, will run coupled with W. N. Adrian's Crap Shooter. The entry was quoted at 5 to 1.

Ebony Lady In Entry.

Pot Au Brooms will be coupled with Mrs. Jack Howard's speedy filly, Ebony Lady, a daughter of the Kentucky Derby winner, Flying Ebony. Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Inlander, also well regarded, was held at 6 to 1.

Other entries are C. V. Whitney's Redress, Bud Fisher's American Smile, W. W. Charles' Sun Gros, C. S. Bancroft's Idealist and Charley O. from the R. M. Eastman estate—all outsiders.

Horse.	Wgt.	Jockey.	Odds.
*Pot Au Brooms.	118	C. Corbett	4 to 1
Jungle King	118	A. Cousci	4 to 1
Golden Fate	120	M. Dabson	20 to 1
Charley O.	118	J. Gilbert	15 to 1
Idealist	118	H. Richards	20 to 1
*Ebony Lady	112	A. Robertson	4 to 1
Sun Gros	118	E. Pool	25 to 1
†Crap Shooter	118	H. Bazur	5 to 1
†Character	120	B. Hanford	5 to 1
American Smile	114	J. Long	30 to 1
Redress	116	R. Workman	30 to 1
Inlander	116	D. Bellizzi	6 to 1

Four Knockouts In Prep Tourney

Staunton, Va., March 10 (A.P.).—Seven scrappers moved ahead today in the first bouts in the South Atlantic Preparatory School Boxing tournament at Staunton Military Academy.

Eisler, S. M. A., 118-pounder started the afternoon's card with a technical knockout over Blanks of Petersburg High, who went down fighting although outclassed.

Garman, of Greenbrier, outpointed Covington, of Petersburg High, in the first of two featherweight scraps and in the other 125-pound event Morris, Augusta Military Academy captain, floored Dickson, of Danville Military Academy three times before the latter became the victim of a technical knockout.

McGrael, of S. M. A., outpointed Payne, of A. M. A., in a clever exhibition, and in the other lightweight bout, Pattisall, of Danville Military, knocked out Harris of the Charlottesville fives in the second round. Harris who went down for the count of eight in the opening round, lasted only 25 seconds of the next.

Harshbarger, of A. M. A., scored a first-round technical knockout over Lindsay, of Danville Military, in the first of two 163-pound events. In the other Zelonis, of S. M. A., won a three-round decision over Knight, of Greenbrier, after a hotly contested battle.

"Y" TEAMS IN MATCHES.

Two Washington Y. M. C. A. teams will engage invaders from Baltimore today at the local "Y" gym. At 3 o'clock the Washington handball squad will match wares with the Y. M. H. A. of the Monumental City. At 8 o'clock, the local wrestlers tangle with the Baltimore "Y" team in a match of eight bouts. Admission to the latter will be 25 cents. There will be no admission for handball.

SHOREHAM, CANOEISTS WIN.

DUB SWEEPS ARE LED BY KINNAHAN

171 Game and 647 Set Top; Dawson Second at Lucky Strike.

TWO records for the dub sweepstakes were shattered by Tom Kinnahan last night at Lucky Strike, where the fifth annual running of the event was inaugurated. Kinnahan clocked the headpin for a fat game of 171 and the record, following through with a consistent brand of bowling for a 647 set and his second record.

A field of 38, considered large by bowling officials in view of the present financial conditions, toed the mark for the first block, and while they answered to the name of dubs they looked like anything but that.

Dawson Is Second With 617.

Kinnahan rolls in the Typothetae League. Recreation League furnished the runner-up in Harry Dawson, who knocked the pins around for a score of 617. Ed Hurd, Bethesda League, was third with an even 600, while Ed Kessler, of Holy Name League, Section A, was fourth with 596. Dave Cox, the old maestro who makes Recreation his headquarters, rolled into fifth on a score of 588.

The second block will be rolled Friday night at King Pin Alleys, Eighth and E streets northwest. Prizes will be $60 for first, $40 to the runner-up, $25 to third high, $15 to fourth and $10 to fifth.

Grobmier, Steele Are Matched Here

Having fumbled a championship shot when he bowed to Frank Judson here recently, lanky Fred Grobmier will be given another chance at the Washington Auditorium Thursday night.

A sensation since introducing his "Japanese frog scissors" some weeks ago, Grobmier met unexpected defeat at the hands of Judson. Convinced that this setback was quite accidental, Fred wasted little time in accepting an opportunity of proving it at Steele's expense.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S second message to Congress within two days was broadcast direct from the floor of the House of Representatives by National networks yesterday.

Broadcasting of all legislation affecting large numbers of our people from the House of Representatives promises to become a regular feature on the networks. Certainly the chains, particularly the N. B. C., made the best of the opportunities offered Thursday and yesterday.

"Thursday's broadcast from the House of Representatives, when the bank act was followed from its introduction until passage," was one of the most important in the history of our chain," said one of the officials of Station WRC, in Washington.

Speaker Rainey is more or less "radio-minded" and the chains hope they will be given an opportunity to broadcast many of the highlights in this important session of the Seventy-third Congress.

The Metropolitan Opera season on the radio will close with the broadcast of Richard Wagner's "Tristan und Isolde" this afternoon. WMAL will broadcast the entire opera, beginning at 1:45 o'clock. WRC will join with the NEAF network at 3 o'clock and broadcast the remainder of the performance.

With "Tristan und Isolde" the N. B. C. will complete its second year of broadcasting from the Metropolitan. During the past season 25 operas have been put on the air—many in full—and every star of the company has been heard in a noted role at least once by the radio audience.

The opera will be sung in German. Artur Bodanzky will conduct and the cast will be as follows:

Tristan, Laurits Melchior.
King Marke, Ludwig Hofmann.
Isolde, Frida Leider.
Brangaene, her servant, Maria Olszewska.
Melot, Arnold Gabor.
Kurvenal, Tristan's servant, Gustav Schutzendorf.
A shepherd, Hans Clemens.
The steersman, James Wolfe.
A sailor's voice, Hans Clemens.

England's grave problem, the Indian question, will be discussed by two British statesmen from a luncheon of the Foreign Policy Association (WRC, 1:45 p. m.).

BEN BERNIE and "all the lads" will hand out samples of the brand of music which has made him famous over the radio from the stage of the Earle Theater this week.

The Old Maestro wasn't always Ben Bernie.

Bernard Ancel was one of eleven little Ancels. He arrived on May 31, 1893, back in Bayonne, N. J., and he grew up to the tune of the anvil chorus, for Papa Ancel was a blacksmith and Bernard's brothers were large and husky and swung hammers along with dad.

When it was decided Ben was too frail to follow the family trade as a smithy, his father decided he should be an engineer. Mamma Ancel took a look at the mop of hair on little Bernard's head and said no, he should be a violinist. So, of course—Bernard studied violin.

The Ancels moved to New York, where papa opened a blacksmith shop in the shadow of Brooklyn Bridge. The shop is still there with its faded sign on a dirty brick wall. And Ben had to stand the jibes of Cherry Hill's young hoodlums as he carried his violin to and from his lessons.

At 14 Ben gave a concert at Carnegie Hall. At 15 he was professor of violin at a school of music (which, says he, was later closed by the Better Business Bureau). Yet Papa Ancel couldn't get the idea of Ben wanting to be a musician. So finally Ben entered C. C. N. Y. to study engineering—only he spent most of his time dabbling in campus theatricals, even persuading the professors to discard Shakespeare for minstrels. That's where Ben's famous "Yowsah" was born.

Came Christmas—and a lean one for the Ancels. Ben sold $5.98 violins in a department store. Then Joe Schenck overheard him while passing the department and hired him at $35 a week on Loew's time. Bernard Bernie, the boy wonder, appeared. (The transition in name to Ben Bernie isn't hard to follow, is it?)

Never talked on the stage until a Virginia mountaineer made a bull's-eye with a chew of tobacco. Cut loose with a line of Cherry Hill's finest and the awed mountaineers loved it. Got raise and has been talking ever since.

Got orchestra bug while watching Paul Whiteman after war. So he organized band. Toured theaters. Went into Roosevelt at opening for six weeks and stayed five years. Triumphed in London. Then back to New York, Hollywood and finally Chicago. He all but owns that town.

JAN SIBELIUS' "Sixth Symphony" and Richard Strauss' "Also Sprach Zarathustra" will feature the Boston Symphony concert which Dr. Serge Koussevitzky will conduct tonight (WMAL, 8:15 p. m.). "A Night Piece," by Arthur Foote, with Georges Laurent, flute soloist, and "Sinfonietta," by Edward Burlingame Hill, will be played from manuscript, the latter for the first time.

"The principal thing I use the radio for is to learn what time it is when I get up in the morning," said Mrs. Sarah Florence Williams, at the Shoreham Building yesterday. "I also time my dressing and know when to start washing the dishes from the radio," she added.

Elder Michaux will be featured on a Saturday morning program over WJSV at 9 o'clock. A network of stations will carrry the program.

Singin' Sam never took a singing lesson in his life. His voice is naturally suited for the radio. He also wastes little time in rehearsal, just running over the program with Emil Seidel and Ralph Colucci before they go on the air. He believes too much rehearsal on a number takes all the life out of it.

A NOVELTY on Dr. Hugo Reisenfeld's Viennese program, to be presented over WRC at 9 o'clock tonight, will be the "Schrammel Quartet," which will play during the intervals between the orchestra and vocal numbers. Two violins, accordion and guitar make up this quartet—a combination first used in Vienna by an obscure musician named Schrammel.

Dr. Walsh Depicts Race Of Reform and Revolt

Continuing his public lectures on "The Evolution of Communism," Dr. Edmund A. Walsh, S. J., of Georgetown University, last night paralleled the situation in the United States today with that fronting the common people of France at the time of the French Revolution.

"For France in 1789 it was a race between reform and revolt," he said. "Revolt won. The civilized world, ourselves included, is engaged in a similar contest at this hour. The die is cast and the Rubicon has been crossed. It will be the province of future historians to record whether or not reform outdistanced revolt or revolt overtook reform."

R. B. Hanback Promoted To Rank of Fire Captain

Promotion of Fire Lieut. R. B. Hanback to the rank of captain to succeed Capt. G. S. Bishop, retired, was ordered yesterday by the District Commissioners. Sergt. H. J. Clark was promoted to lieutenant, and Privates L. B. Wilson and R. L. Lynch were raised to sergeants.

To fill the vacancies two privates were aded to the Fire Department. They were L. W. Kerlin and A. C. Dansereau.

Georgetown Debaters Will Meet Pittsburgh

Georgetown University's varsity debating team is going to Pittsburgh, Pa., to debate war debt cancellation on Sunday with the University of Pittsburgh.

The Hilltop team will oppose cancellation. The members of the varsity team include Henry B. Herrick, jr., Philip A. Hart and Joseph G. Smith, all of Massachusetts. The contest will be the first varsity debate of the season for Georgetown.

AKRON SISTER SHIP CHRISTENING TODAY

Mrs. Moffett to Name New Dirigible With Release of 48 Pigeons.

Akron, Ohio, March 10 (A.P.).—The gigant ZRS-5, sister to the airship U. S. S. Akron, rode lightly on her "ways" tonight in the Goodyear-Zeppelin dock, ready for her air-birth and formal christening tomorrow as the U. S. S. Macon.

Workmen swarmed over ladders and scaffolds today, putting the finishing touches here and there to the ship which will share the title of "the world's largest airship" with the Akron, an almost exact counterpart, completed in the fall of 1931.

At 2:30 p. m., Eastern standard time, Mrs. W. A. Moffett, wife of Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics of the Navy Department, will pull the red, white and blue cord releasing 48 pigeons from the bow, as she pronounces the words, "I christen thee Macon."

Government officials, Army and Navy officers, prominent industrial and business executives, aviation and naval attaches of foreign governments and men and women high in national aviation circles will witness the christening.

Brother of Senator Memphis Postmaster

Hugh C. McKellar, brother of Senator McKellar, of Tennessee, was named acting postmaster at Memphis, and Nellie Dougherty, acting postmaster at Minot, N. Dak., yesterday by Postmaster General Farley. These were the first appointments made by Mr. Farley.

J. Austin Latimer, a South Carolina newspaper publisher, was yesterday appointed private secretary to Mr. Farley. He was formerly secretary to Senator Byrnes, of South Carolina.

Central Business Men's Group Indorses Welch

The candidacy of H. Mason Welch, local attorney, for the post of District Attorney, expected to be vacated by Leo A. Rover was indorsed in a meeting yesterday of the Central Business Men's Association.

The association also adopted a resolution expressing 100 per cent approval and backing up of President Roosevelt's handling of the banking situation.

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF THE DISTRICT of Columbia, holding an Equity Court, George R. Tennille, 205 Seventeenth street, southeast, plaintiff, vs. Minnie R. Tennille, 129 West 133rd street, New York, N. Y., defendant. Equity No. 53270. Order of publication. The object of this suit is to vest in the plaintiff, George R. Tennille, sole and absolute legal title to and ownership of certain real estate in the District of Columbia, known as lot numbered 43, in J. Irving Bealmear's subdivision in square numbered 1087, as per plat recorded in liber No. 17, in folio 199, of the records of the office of the Surveyor for the District of Columbia, with improvements upon said real estate situated, and to divest the defendant, Minnie R. Tennille, of any and all right, title and interest which she has in said real estate, upon the ground that by her assertion of the plaintiff's requisite absolute divorce granted him, said defendant has forfeited all her rights at joint tenant in said real estate. On motion of the plaintiff it is this 9th day of March, 1933, ordered that the defendant cause her appearance to be entered herein on or before the fortieth (40th) day, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, occurring after the day of the first publication of this order, otherwise the case will be proceeded with as in cases of default. Provided that this order be published in the Washington Law Reporter and The Washington Post once a week for three successive weeks. By the Court: JOSEPH W. COX, Justice. A true copy. Test: (Seal.) 1933 WILLYS "77"
4-DOOR SEDAN

(Illustrated elsewhere in today's Post.)

I AM offering this practically new Willys "77" custom sedan at a drastic reduction, says Mr. Bland, of the Modern Auto Exchange. Before we secured the dealership of this remarkable 1933 automobile, I made certain that it was the most economical car on the road today—averaging more than 30 miles to the gallon of gasoline. In addition, it has floating power, finger-tip control and a modernistic appearance that has taken the country by storm. This Willys "77" four-door custom sedan demonstrator is being offered at a greatly reduced price—so that we may have one more satisfied customer working for us. It carries a new car guarantee, but there's only one Willys available at this price—so you'd better hurry.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

BILL WALKER, until recently a member of the New York Giants' pitching staff, was unable, as a boy to join the other backyard and sandlot leagues. He had a weak heart, and strict orders from the doctor prevented him from playing any strenuous game. He could not even run or jump, much less play baseball—and still he wanted to be a pitcher.

From the time he was 7, when his heart trouble first became apparent, until he was 15, Bill was in many respects a semiinvalid. When he was 18 he tried out with Miami, Okla. In 1927 he went with the Giants, and this year will play with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Now unknown on the Western plains, but once a fixture there, were the Texan longhorns—long, lean, wide-horned, lanky members of the bovine world—typical of the picturesque old-time West, but of little value as commercial stock. Infusion of shorthorn blood, and later that of the heavy, hardy Hereford beef, into the old range herds took away from them their longhorn characteristics. The last known was Old Geronimo, who was recognized as a member of the near-extinct breed in the 60's, when he was a 2-year-old. He was bought by Will C. Barnes, of the U. S. Forest Service, and taken care of until he died of old age. For 20 years Geronimo served as a model for many artists and photographers.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE NEW "MONEY."

SCRIP instead of money! Well, it's much cleaner, and money wasn't good for some of us, anyhow.

• • • •

The bank closings wouldn't be so bad if so many wives hadn't suspended stocking payments, too, until further notice.

• • • •

But cheer up. Howard Scott, the kingfish of technocracy, is broke, too. And he was using joules and ergs. He is even getting his energy in scrip now.

• • • •

The country is operating on a "no-cash and carry-me" system.

• • • •

But everybody is taking it cheerfully. Money, they realize, was the root of all evil, and they're surprised how "cleaned" they feel.

• • • •

"See that man over there?" said a friend this morning. "He had a remarkable career. He started on a shoestring and now he laces his shoes with scrip."

• • • •

"And," he added, "I knew him when he didn't have a bank to close on him."

• • • •

It was interesting today to see the number of men who began at the bottom of the ladder and worked themselves up into a moratorium.

• • • •

Ima Dodo got her first scrip today and was quite surprised. She thought it was something written on the end of a letter, after the "yours sincerely."

• • • •

Generally speaking, the scrip is being well received, but Elmer Twitchell would like his with printing on only one side so he can use the other for addresses and notes.

FIRESIDE DIALOGUES.

Where've you been?
Down to the bank drawing out my money.
Well, let's have dinner.
I can't just now. I've got to write a letter to a newspaper denouncing hoarders.

"Poor!" exclaimed a downhearted acquaintance today. "Why, I couldn't be poorer if I had money in the bank."

PHILOSOPHY ON A MORATORIUM.

What matter if your bank is closed?
The sun is shining up above;
Why worry if you're short of coin?
You still have life and still have love.

Why fret because a holiday's
Been taken, mister, by the banks?
You still have lots and lots of things
For which you well may offer thanks.

Why, what is money after all
When gentle springtime comes along?
The birdies in the budding trees

The birds, the sun, the little buds,
The signs of spring so soft and sunny—
You take 'em, boy, and—Pardon me—
I think I'd rather have the money!

FIGHT FOR DISTRICT JOBS GOES ON WITH RISING ENTHUSIASM

Mrs. Harriman Mentioned for Commission Post; Other Candidates.

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

Although overshadowed by the world important activities of President Roosevelt, the District political pot, which has been bubbling for some time, has reached the boiling point.

Scores of candidates for the various District jobs are actively at work, and, with the aid of their friends and the various would-be king makers, are pulling strings and seeking pledges of support for this or that post from District Commissioner, District attorney, United States marshal, corporation counsel, public printer, judge of one or another local court, on down to plain clerk and laborer.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, national Democratic committeewoman from the District, is considered a serious candidate for the job of District Commissioner. It is argued in her behalf that the President should give recognition to women by naming one of their sex as Commissioner.

Mrs. Harriman Opposed.

Wealthy, capable, energetic and possessed of a wide circle of powerful and influential friends, Mrs. Harriman is considered by other candidates as a strong opponent. Her opponents, however, contend that Mrs. Harriman is not truly a District figure, despite her post as committeewoman, and they point out that in the last campaign she deserted the National Capital and left to others the job of getting out the votes here while she participated actively in the campaign of Cornelius Vanderbilt ("Sonny") Whitney, millionaire sportsman, to get the place of Representative Robert Lowe Bacon (Republican), of Long Island.

President Roosevelt already has shown his desire to give place to women in official posts. Should he name Mrs. Harriman or any other woman as District Commissioner, however, he would not set a precedent as he did when he named Frances Perkins to the Cabinet. President Woodrow Wilson, the last Democrat to sit in the White House, named Miss Mabel T. Boardman as the first woman member of the Board of District Commissioners.

Crosby Out of Running.

Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, retired, who was appointed by President Hoover, already has tendered his resignation. The general is considering two or three attractive private business offers. Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, however, is reported to be an energetic candidate for reappointment. But he is having a lot of competition.

Dr. George C. Havenner, former president of the Federation of Citizens' Associations, director of the George Washington bicentennial commission work in Washington, a native of the city, who has frequently been honored by his neighbors across the Eastern Branch, is another of those whose names have been advanced.

Others who are reputed candidates include Michael J. McNamara, widely known attorney; J. Leo Kolb, real estate dealer; Daniel J. Callahan, who has received many honors at the hands of the business and professional associations of the city; William McK. Clayton, gray-haired, picturesque veteran of many a bitter battle over public utilities questions; Ray Baker, former Director of the Mint; William Montgomery, head of the Acacia Mutual, Masonic Life Insurance Co., and John W. Childress, tall, graceful, former chairman of the Public Utilities Commission.

Newspapermen Boomed.

Frederic A. Delano, who is regarded as a distinguished citizen, may be named Commissioner. His name has been suggested before. At the time it was said he could have had the post, but refused it. He was chairman of the inaugural committee and undoubtedly will have a good deal to say about who is named Commissioner or to this or that post in the District.

The names of several prominent newspaper men have been advanced as possibilities. They have protested they are not candidates, but their admirers outside their profession have insisted on advancing their names. Among them is Norman W. Baxter, former managing editor of The Washington Post, who has served as a correspondent abroad and held other important places on various newspapers and who was a member of the inaugural committee. Mr. Baxter was in charge of the Washington office of the Democratic national committee in the heat of the last campaign.

William P. Kennedy, of the Washington Evening Star; Dan E. O'Connell, of the Washington Evening Times, and John Russell Young, of the Washington Evening Star, also have been suggested for Commissioner. Perhaps none of those who have been mentioned will be named Commissioner, but each of those who have been and others are discussed as possibilities, to say nothing of John F. Costello, national committeeman, and John B. Colpoys, head of the Democratic central committee, either one of whom may be named, but both of whom have said they want no job. It is almost a sure bet that no one whom they disapprove will be named.

There are many candidates for other offices.

George Thayer's Home Is Damaged by Blaze

Fire, which for a time threatened to destroy the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Thayer, 913 I street northeast, caused more than $1,000 damage yesterday afternoon, before firemen, battling a high wind, succeeded in bringing it under control.

The blaze started in the basement and quickly spread to the first floor. Its origin is undetermined. Mr. and Mrs. Thayer escaped with a few personal belongings.

Dr. M. B. Crabill Elected President of Osteopaths

Dr. M. B. Crabill was elected president of the National Capital Osteopathic Association at its annual meeting last night. Dr. E. N. Smith was named vice president; Dr. Frank T. Shyne, secretary-treasurer, and Dr. C. R. Smith, director.

Dr. Conrad Praetorius addressed the meeting on the heart and circulatory system.

How Footprints in Sand Led to Rescue Of 3 Shipwrecked Adventurers on Cocos

Footprints on the sandy shore of Cocos Island, famous treasure isle 400 miles off the coast of Panama, led to the thrilling rescue of three shipwrecked sailors, members of the National Geographic Society were told at the Washington Auditorium last night by Amos Burg, world traveler and photographer. The rescue was made by members of the crew of the Julius Fleischmann yacht, Camargo, while on a round-the-world voyage. Mr. Burg, on the Camargo throughout its wanderings, photographed many out-of-the-way places.

At Cocos the Camargo sailed around the island for five days after discovering the footprints before the castaways were seen atop a cliff. Aboard the Camargo, the men told a weird tale of adventure that was front-page news at the time. They had left Los Angeles, headed for Easter Island, and were blown on to the coast of Cocos, which is an uninhabited isle except when expeditions of treasure hunters go there in search of the famous "Lima loot." For six months the castaways had subsisted on wild pig and cocoanuts, and, while weakened from their experience, they were otherwise in good health.

Mr. Burg also told about many infrequently visited islands and other landfalls made by the Camargo. In the New Hebrides he witnessed and photographed native ceremonies and saw people who seldom come into contact with white men. Some of the islands visited in the Pacific are entirely out of touch with the rest of the world except for infrequent visits of copra boats. Since the copra market is on the decline, the natives have been even more infrequently visited in recent months.

In the 36,000-mile voyage of the Camargo, Mr. Burg took nearly eight miles of film, selections from which he showed last night. The pictures included glimpses of life on the islands of Bali, Borneo, Sumatra, in the East, and Cyprus and other islands of the Mediterranean.

PUBLIC POLICE CALL BOXES OPEN IN WEEK

Experiment of Maj. Brown Expected to Facilitate Law Enforcement.

The idea of public police patrol boxes, which was born in the mind of Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, several weeks ago, will be put in operation next week, it was learned yesterday.

Any citizen desiring a policeman will go to the nearest police box, turn the key in the lock, open the door, remove the receiver and state his case. By doing this the citizen will be instantly connected with the nearest police precinct. These boxes, of which there will be three in each precinct during the experiment, will be marked with a brass plate.

If the scheme is successful, Brown said he will extend the service to every police box in the city.

Location of Trial Boxes.

The locations of the trial boxes will be as follows:

First Precinct—Fourth and Washington streets, Fifth and I streets, North Capitol and K streets.

Second Precinct—Second and Adams streets, New Jersey avenue and Q street, Twelfth and R streets.

Third Precinct—Twenty-fifth and I streets, Twenty-sixth and M streets, Florida avenue and Seaton street.

Fourth Precinct—Seventeenth street and Pennsylvania avenue southeast, Seventh and C streets southwest, north end of Highway Bridge.

Sixth Precinct.

Sixth Precinct—Bates and Rock Creek Church roads, Blair road and Rittenhouse street, Second and Webster streets.

Seventh Precinct—Wisconsin avenue and Grace street, Twenty-eighth street and Olive avenue, Twenty-seventh and P streets.

Captain Saves Wife As Boat Founders

Suffering none the less for the experience, the 60-foot oyster boat Yacht, owned by Capt. J. F. Bruce, was floating normally again last night, thanks to the efforts of the crew of the District Fireboat, which worked all yesterday pumping water out of the boat.

The Yacht foundered early yesterday morning at her berth alongside the fish wharf when the Potomac lowered its water level about 4 feet. As the water rapidly receded, the boat's keel rested on the bottom and finally, because of inadequate support, she rolled over on her port side, flooding the cabin and awakening Capt. Bruce and his wife, Mrs. Annie F. Bruce.

Capt. Bruce jumped out of his bunk and found himself standing in icy water up to his knees. He managed to extricate himself and his wife and placed her safely on board a neighboring oyster boat. The only loss incurred was a load of oysters, which returned to the bottom of the river.

Son and Job

Are Hunted in Washington by Father Who Lost Address on Way.

Thomas Woodlen, of Durham, N. C., is looking for a promised job and a son, both "somewhere in Washington."

Woodlen, who appealed to the Central Application Bureau of the Community Chest for help yesterday said his son had written him, telling of a job obtained for the father here.

Without much in the way of funds, Woodlen started for the Capital, but lost the son's address on the way. Lonnie, the son, according to the father, works in a restaurant or cafeteria here, but that is as much as he can remember.

Woodlen, sr., was sent to the Salvation Army emergency lodge last night for care and the newspapers were asked to help locate the son and the job.

The son can locate the father by calling the Community Chest Application Bureau.

DISTRICT FRANCHISE PROPOSED IN SENATE

Capper Again Offers Plan; Safeguards Asked for Policy Holders.

Representation of the District in House and Senate, and the right for District residents to vote for President and Vice President, was again proposed as an amendment to the United States Constitution, in a joint resolution introduced in the Senate yesterday by Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas.

The measure was one of several again introduced by the former chairman of the Senate District Committee.

Other bills, all of which died in the Senate last session, proposed safeguards for the holders of industrial insurance, and provided for the naming of Independence avenue.

Senator Capper expressed hope that his proposed constitutional amendment, formerly sponsored by the late Senator Jones (Republican), Washington, would get favorable action this session. He pointed out that it would give the District representation without disturbing the right of Congress to exercise exclusive legislation over the seat of government.

Child Is Gravely Burned As He Tips Grease Pan

Three-year-old Carter Bledsoe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel B. Bledsoe, 1521 Thirty-fifth street northwest, was seriously burned about the face and neck yesterday afternoon when he tottered up to the stove, where his mother was cooking, and tipped over a pan of hot grease.

He was treated at Georgetown Hospital for first and second degree burns.

TRAFFIC TOLL TO DATE.

Never attempt to drive a car if you are in an angry or nervous state of mind. If you feel yourself becoming reckless, slow down until you can get better control of yourself, or let someone else drive the car for you. Its safer in the long run.

4 ECKLUND SLAYERS SENTENCED TO LIFE

Cash, Blackwell, Myers and Workman Get Maximum Terms Under Law.

Sentences of life imprisonment were meted out to Albert E. Cash, Everett Lee Blackwell, Claude Myers and Fewell Workman yesterday when they were brought before Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue, in the District Supreme Court, following their conviction on charges of slaying Einar B. Ecklund.

The sentences were the maximum under the law. The quartet was indicted for first degree murder, but the jury that heard the case returned a verdict of second degree.

Ecklund was the paymaster of a painting firm that was working on the addition to the House Office Building. He was shot down when he left his home with a $3,000 pay roll en route to the building to pay off the painters. The shooting occurred January 20 and the men were arrested within 24 hours. They were indicted two weeks later, to complete the quickest clean-up of a major crime in recent years.

None of the four showed any emotion as sentence was pronounced.

King to Provide Room For Citizens at Hearings

Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, new chairman of the Senate District Committee, yesterday set aids to work cleaning out the District Committee room in the Capitol, "to make plenty of room for citizens who want to attend the hearings."

A finely carved but ancient partition that for years has divided the room into two sections, is the first piece of furniture scheduled to go by the board. Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, former chairman, will remove to his own office a picture of the late John James Ingalls, Republican chairman from 1881 to 1891.

LICENSE PLEA MADE BY TAXI-DANCE HALL TO PREVENT CLOSING

The District board on the revocation of licenses yesterday heard arguments pro and con as to why a renewal of license should be denied a taxi-dance hall operated by Wilbur C. Jones at 515 Ninth street northwest.

Policewomen from the Woman's Bureau had previously disapproved of renewing the license, but the operator had appealed to the District Commissioners. As the District so far has no regulation against the operation of a taxi-dance hall as such, the case was based entirely on the provisions of the license act.

This law provides that the Commissioners may refuse to renew a license whenever such a dance hall is "likely to become a scene of disorder or other violations of law" because of the character of the applicant or the nature of its surroundings.

Local social welfare groups have asked the Commissioners to enact a new regulation prohibiting the operation of taxi-dance halls, and Edward W. Thomas, assistant corporation counsel, is drafting such an ordinance under police powers. Mr. Thomas was chairman of the hearing yesterday.

Three Capital Youths Honored by Harlequins

Three Washington boys have been named on committees of the Harlequin Association, dramatic society of Catholic University, it was announced yesterday.

Frank H. Weller, son of Mrs. F. H. Weller, 1500 Farragut street northwest, is a member of the ticket committee; James M. Wimsatt, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Kuntz Wimsatt, 7517 Sixteenth street northwest, a member of the scenery committee, and Edward O. Barnes, son of Mrs. Joanna Barnes, 914 Kearney street northeast, a member of the properties committee.

Claudius Huston Sued For $1,258 Rent Bill

The Irving Trust Co., of New York City, as receiver for an apartment house at 277 Park avenue, New York, yesterday filed suit in District Supreme Court against Claudius H. Huston, former chairman of the Republican national committee, for $1,258.

The suit is based on a guarantee made by Mr. Huston when James G. Stanley rented an apartment. Mr. Huston, according to the suit, agreed to guarantee payment of the rent.

Headley to Explain Paraders' Arrest

Crosby Asks New Report After Civil Liberties Union Protest.

A more detailed report on the arrest Monday of 38 persons for participation in a parade during a jobless demonstration was asked of Inspector Albert J. Headley yesterday by Police Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby, but the latter insisted that his action was of only a routine nature.

Gen. Crosby was not satisfied with the report received from Inspector Headley, but he explained that on the basis of information he had so far he saw no reason to criticize the police methods.

The American Civil Liberties Union, through its District Chapter, has protested to the Commissioners against acts of violence witnessed by their agents during the arrests.

Police Action at Jobless Parade Held Needless

Members of the International Labor Defense labeled the riot action of police against a group of alleged unemployed marchers on March 6, as an unwarranted attack, at a meeting last night at 708 O street northwest.

Speakers from the Communist party, the Unemployed Council and the Tenants League addressed the meeting. They protested against police attendance at their meetings to "spy" on them.

Cat Found!

So Claims Person in Far-Off Turkey in Note to Zoo Director.

"I myself, Mehmet, have found it," comes the answer from far off Smyrna, Turkey, to a falsely circulated rumor that the Washington Zoo has lost a three-colored cat and was offering a huge reward for its return.

This is only one of the answers received by Dr. William M. Mann, director of the zoo, during the last few years, to the cat rumor. The reply from Smyrna and another from Worcester, Mass., were received during the last week.

Conclusive evidence that there is no shortage among the cat family is the arrival of several jaguar cubs, to the zoo. The number of baby felines have not been ascertained as their mothers keep them hidden. These are the second batch of jaguars ever born in captivity, it is claimed, and are valuable additions to the zoo.

Also causing comment among curators is the fact that a member of the scarlet ibis family and of the white variety of this bird family are building a nest together. Dr. Mann stated that he had never heard of such a mating in the ibis family.

PRISONER ADMITS LAUNDRY HOLDUPS

Thomas H. Jackson, 29, alias John Henry, of 1308 Ninth street northwest, who was arrested Thursday night a few minutes after he had held up and robbed an Elite Laundry branch at 708 H street northeast, last night confessed to robbing four other branches of the same laundry during the last few weeks.

The confessions came after the respective managers of the branches at 110 Florida avenue northwest, 3172 Mount Pleasant street northwest, 2847 Fourteenth street northwest, and Ninth and N streets northwest, had identified Jackson at the police line-up last night as the man who held them up.

Jackson was taken into custody by A. S. Norcio, of 1100 F street northeast, who caught him after a block chase. Norcio heard the screams of Miss Betty Watson, manager of the H street branch, who ran out of the store in pursuit of the man yelling, "I've been robbed."

Police last night were investigating other recent holdups in which Jackson may have some connection.

The Post Regrets Error In Inaugural Victim List

The tabulation in The Post of March 5 of persons treated for faintness or injuries incident to the inaugural crowds carried the name "Ely Williams, colored, of 4103 Illinois avenue northwest, injured in fall." As far as The Post knows there is no such person, nor does such person live at the address mentioned.

On inauguration day, Miss Elizabeth M. Williams, white, 59 years old, of 4103 Illinois avenue, a Government clerk, was treated for faintness. Her name was not carried in the tabulation of March 5. Any confusion that may have arisen from the use of the address and the similar surnames is regretted by The Post.

$250,000 Paid Workers On Government Projects

Payrolls approximating $250,000 for the 6,000 workers on Government building projects here were paid yesterday by contractors, despite the banking holiday.

Some contractors, it was learned, brought cash from outside the city to pay their men on time.

NEW CODE OF D. C. TRAFFIC EXPECTED EARLY NEXT WEEK

After several weeks' study and revision of the simplified traffic regulations proposed by Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer with the support of the Traffic Advisory Council, Corporation Counsel William W. Bride said yesterday that he expected to submit the draft to the District Commissioners early next week.

The major purpose of the revision is to effect a clarification and simplification of the District traffic code, but a number of scattered changes are made where experience has shown the existing regulations to be confusing, unfair, hazardous, or inclined to impede the movement of traffic.

Arterial Route Section.

Greater protection for the pedestrians at crosswalks is assured under the revised code, and motorists, who have had trouble breaking into a heavy stream of traffic on an arterial highway gain new rights.

Pedestrians are given the right of way at a crosswalk whenever they have started across an intersection on a "go" signal, and vehicles are prohibited from passing other cars which have stopped to let a pedestrian cross.

Motorists are still required to come to a halt at stop signs and to permit all vehicles which have reached the intersection to pass, but thereafter they are allowed to break into the traffic and have the right of way.

Child Movie Fans Amused by Blaze

Instead of Staging Panic They Stay to Watch Fire Fighting.

The warning, "walk, do not run, to the nearest exit," failed to impress patrons of the Princess Theater, Twelfth and H streets northeast, when fire broke out yesterday afternoon.

Some 200 persons, mostly children, wouldn't even walk to the fire escapes. As long as there was a fire, they decided it ought to be worth watching. So they stayed to watch.

A burning billboard at the front of the theater sent flames into the projection room. Smoke filled the auditorium and Manager C. H. Olive tried to empty the theater, but the children thought it was great fun and only after much urging did they leave. No one was injured and damage was estimated at $200. The doors were closed last night, but will reopen today.

Suit Alleges Plagiarism In Book on Politicians

Alleging infringement of an article that appeared in a publication of the Washington Publishing Co., Mrs. Blair Bannister yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to require Robert S. Allen, Drew Pearson, both of Washington, and the Van Rees Press, Inc., of New York City, to make an accounting to her.

The suit charges that the two men and the company were responsible for an article entitled "Mills of the Gods," a story about the career of Ogden L. Mills. The story, it was alleged, first appeared in the local company's publication and then subsequently appeared in "More Merry-Go-Round." For this Mrs. Bannister wants a dollar for each book sold that contained the so-called plagiarism.
